Witholt Stage Held Up—Robbers Green at the Business—Got Some Money But no Watches or Valuables.

MULINO, July 16.—Yesterday as the Witholt stage was coming down the rocky hill between Clarence Jackson's place and here, two masked men arose from behind a log and covered the driver and one lone passenger with Colt's revolvers and demanded their money. The driver said he had no money, but the passenger turned his pockets and gave them $35.00, when they disappeared in the brush and the stage came on. The robbers had black eyes with their faces covered with some kind of a white cloth, while the black beard of one could be seen from behind his face cover. They wore long lined dusters which secreted their general costume except one blue overall with ragged (pats) bottoms hanging down about two inches lower than the overalls. They are supposed to be beginners at the business as they did not search the passenger but simply demanded his money. The passenger had a fine gold watch and chain in his vest beneath his duster, which they could have gotten had they made a general search. The driver also had a watch on his person.

Mr. Brayton's family and Wilbur Jones, of Salem, drove down to Portland Thursday and spent the day in the city park with friends living in that city. A very good time was reported. VIOLET.

SALMON NOTES.

Sudden Death of Old Pioneer—Many Camping Parties.

SALMON, July 13.—On going to the house of Phillip Moore, a bachelor, and old resident of this place, A. Odell found him lying face downward in the road in front of the house last Monday morning, where he had evidently fallen while on his way to turn his cows out of the corral. He was removed to Mr. Odell's house and Dr. Smith, of Eagle Creek, sent for, who pronounced it a case of progressive apoplexy, causing paralysis. He said Mr. Moore could not recover, but stayed with him, doing all in his power to prolong life until the end, which came at 9 o'clock P. M., July 10th, without his having regained consciousness. Mr. Moore was an old Oregon pioneer, having lived in this vicinity ever since his arrival in Oregon with his parents over thirty years ago. He was known as an honorable man and liked by all. He leaves some property consisting of real estate and cattle, of which Dr. C. B. Smith has been appointed administrator. He was buried July 12th by the side of his father and mother, Rev. Montgomery, of Oregon City, preaching the funeral sermon. A large concourse of friends and neighbors attended the funeral, testifying to their respect for the dead. Some good singing was rendered, and an abundance of flowers was contributed to adorn the casket, which was a most beautiful one, brought by J. T. McIntyre from Portland. Old pioneer friends acted as pall bearers. Peace be with him.

Penumbra Kelly, ex-sheriff of Multnomah county, and his son Ralph, are here for a few days outing. Mr. Kelly is talking of coming out for a month's stay as soon as he can arrange for it on his return home.

H. S. Campbell is in Portland for a load of goods for the Summit house.

Nine soldiers are out on bicycles for some fishing.

Mr. Wolf and nephew, of Portland, are out also on bicycles, and are at Upper Salmon. PROGRESS.

Nasal Catarrh, too often the forerunner of consumption, can be cured by CALIFORNIA CAT-R-CURE. These remedies are sold and fully warranted by C. G. Huntley at $1, or three for $2.50. A horse kicked H. S. Shafer, of the Freemeyer House, Middleburg, N. Y., on the knee, which laid him up in bed and caused the knee joint to become stiff. A friend recommended him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did, and in two days was able to be around. Mr. Shafer has recommended it to many others and says it is excellent for any kind of a bruise or sprain. This same Remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by G. A. # THE BATHING SUIT.

PRETTY AS A PICTURE AND EASY TO MAKE.

Mohair is a Popular Material This Season, and So is Serge—Natty and Becoming Models Described—The Convenient Bath Robe—Head Covering.

The bathing suit can no longer be the ordinary blue flannel, without rhyme or reason, made-by-the-dozen sort of an affair. It must have style and individuality about it, and good taste is as necessary in its selection as in the choice of a fall gown. Yet this year's suit is easy to make. In fact, nothing is more conspicuous than the bathing suit, and nothing causes more comment, since watching the bathers has become the event of the day at many of the fashionable resorts.

Mohair seems the popular material this season, as it sheds the water, so that the garments do not become as heavy as the flannel ones. Serge is also a favorite, as it comes in a variety of colors.

One of the latest designs in bathing suits has an accordion plaited skirt. The full bodice fastens on one side like a Russian blouse.

A dark blue serge is quite effective trimmed with white braid in scallops around the neck, sleeves, down the front and around the bottom of the skirt and trousers. A ruffle of white comes from under the edge, and a white button decorates the center of each scallop.

Silk is often used for the bathing suits and is especially suitable for the accordion plaited skirts. A very French affair is made with collar, sleeves, accordion plaited skirt and trousers of peticunia colored wash silk, with a tight-fitting bodice of flowered silk. The sleeves are short and made of two ruffles. The collar is tied with a sailor knot. The trousers are very wide and gathered at the knee. The latest French importation, however, is the bloomer bathing costume. There is no skirt, and the wide trousers are gathered into a band at the knees.

The striped flannels in various combinations of color are pretty. A white one striped with black is made with a broad collar and belt of white, a deep frill to the waist coming below the belt. Plaittings of white are let into the skirt. A large anchor embroidered in red on the front of the waist gives a touch of color. One that is natty and becoming has the skirt and trousers of red serge and the waist and sleeves of white, striped around with red; a wide jabot shoulder cape of white and white belt and revers on the skirt. It is also made with the blouse, which seems extremely popular this season. Another red suit has a wide collar of white serge finished around the edge with white braid put on in scallops. The sleeves and bottom of skirt are trimmed in the same way.

The necessity of a bath robe will certainly be felt during the introduction of the bloomer style at least. In fact, the bath robe is a convenience and comfort with any suit. The material most used for it is Turkish toweling, and it may be trimmed with fancy cotton braid or ribbon. The only rule is that it must be long, loose and full, so as to slip on easily and drape about one in ample folds.

The wearing of a cap or head covering of any kind is a matter of individual taste. According to the New York Sun, authority for the foregoing, the most becoming arrangement is a square of some fancy stuff, harmonizing with the suit, wound about the head and knotted in front, the ends left standing up in a coquettish way.

The long stockings should carry out the color scheme of the costume. Sandals are often worn as a protection to the feet.

Tennis Suits.

The fashions in tennis suits vary but little. The truth is that the girls who stand about in fanciful and trim tennis frocks are not the ones who play a first class game. To be a crack player one must be suitably dressed. There is nothing better for a tennis dress than a plain skirt and loose waist, with as little underwear as is practicable for the wearer's comfort.

Last June Dick Crawford brought his twelve-months-old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and had always been sickly. I gave it the usual treatment in such cases but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25-cent size had been used a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this remedy. J. T. Marlow, M. D., Tamarac, Ill. For sale by G. A. Harding, Druggist.
