CHAUTAQUA MATTERS.

Notes of the Great Chautauqua—Success of the Ashland Assembly.

In the Newberg Graphic of last week President Thomas Newlin, of Pacific college, who is now on an extended tour of the East, has an article on the great Chautauqua assembly at Lake Chautauqua, New York. Of the course of study carried on he has the following to say:

The season opened June 29th, and will close August 26. There are two general departments, the assembly and the college. The first consists of lectures, concerts, readings, clubs and various entertainments each day, and the most of these are of the very highest type to be found anywhere.

The Collegiate Department continues from July 6 to August 16, and is under the personal supervision of Pres. Wm. R. Harper of the University of Chicago. This department includes:

1. The School of Arts and Sciences, comprising thirteen departments presided over by noted teachers from various parts of the United States.

2. The School of Pedagogy, with seven departments, ten courses and fourteen teachers.

3. The Schools of Sacred Literature comprising seven departments, presided over by the very best biblical scholarship in America.

4. The School of Music directed by Dr. H. R. Palmer, aided by such artists as William H. Sherwood the pianist and Bernhard Listemann the violinist.

5. The School of Expression and Elocution.

6. The school of Physical Education, aided by a well equipped gymnasium.

In addition to these regularly organized schools there are several side issues as of drawing and painting, cookery, shorthand, photography and many others. In brief I do not know what one might want that he could not find on these grounds.

Intense intellectuality and deep spirituality pervade the very atmosphere of Chautauqua. I trust I am gaining some ideas that may be helpful in the future work of Pacific college. I meet teachers from many parts of our country, and take delight in comparing experiences. I trust that our own Chautauqua at Gladstone Park may in the near future afford for the people of Oregon what this does for a larger constituency.

The climate here is not unlike our own, except storms may be expected; overcoats and wraps are needed almost every evening. I have already written too much. We are enjoying ourselves as well as we could away from home and the work there.

The Chautauqua assemblies of the Pacific coast have made a good start in their work this season, and the Chautauqua idea is destined to grow. The Puget Sound assembly did some good work this year, although on account of local jealousies it did not attain the success of the Southern Oregon or Willamette Valley assemblies. It pays to secure to talent for an assembly as was exemplified by President Billings in epitomizing the work of the Ashland assembly. He stated that it had been particularly gratifying that not a single disappointment had been experienced by the management at the hands of those engaged for parts in the ten days' program all having been on hand promptly. He also furnished the information that while the expenses for the lectures last year was about $350, the platform this year had cost over $750, although the increased attendance attracted had more than offset the increased expenditure and the assembly would pay all its expenses and have a balance left to apply on the interest of the association's indebtedness, though not quite enough to pay it up in full. This, says the Ashland Tidings, was considered an excellent financial showing.

The Ashland Tidings pays Hon. Geo. C. Brownell, who delivered the grand army address at the Ashland assembly on the evening of July 17th, the following compliment: "Hon. George C. Brownell, state senator from Oregon City, was the chief speaker of the evening, and for an hour and a quarter held his audience and stirred them to frequent applause with his eloquence and patriotism. Mr. Brownell is a very strong thinker and a forcible speaker. He ingeniously showed in how many various channels lie a proper sphere for the exercise of patriotism. He took up the constitution of Oregon and pointed to some of the provisions still retained therein though rendered useless by the 14th and 15th amendments to the constitution of the United States, and claimed that in the interests of patriotism and consistency these provisions ought to be expunged. The speaker also paid strong and glowing tribute to the women, and in an eloquent climax demanded equal suffrage and rights for the weaker sex. The speaker was frequently applauded and at the close received many congratulations, and from the ladies many expressions of appreciation for his solicitude in their behalf.

A resident of Newberg who attended the assembly here furnishes the Newberg Graphic with the following notes: Those who have not availed themselves of the opportunity of meeting, hearing and becoming acquainted with some of the country's great and good men and women and especially of mingling with many of the people who are doing the thinking for Oregon, should be awakened to what is being missed when such opportunities are allowed to go by unimproved. Gladstone park is situated on the north bank of the Clackamas river near the confluence of the Willamette, two miles north of Oregon City. It is a beautiful place naturally and in all a very favorable location. There is a new inverted-top-shaped auditorium with a seating capacity of several thousand, the finest thing of the kind on the coast. Classes are conducted in elementary botany, chemistry, geology, Bible study and art, and many splendid lectures are given on various subjects. The lectures given by Professor Condon on the geology of Oregon and kindred subjects coming from such a good and noble man and one of Oregon's pioneer preachers was an especial treat. President Jordan of Stanford university, lectured on the "Passion Play," which is acted every ten years by the inhabitants of Oberammergau, Bavaria. This lecture given in the straightforward, matter of fact, concise, unaffected style which characterizes President Jordan, and illustrated by the stereopticon, was one of the best things on the program. Space forbids even the mention of many other noted speakers. Many of the college presidents of Oregon were present and several "college headquarters" were to be found on the grounds. College day was observed by a display in one way and another by the college students and professors present.

Have You Had a Vacation?

If you have not, you should read what Governor McKinley, Chief Dunn, Joe Jefferson, Rev. Thomas Dixon, Dr. Cyrus W. Edison, and Camille d'Arville say about the best way to enjoy an outing, in "The Question of Vacations from Different Standpoints," published in Demorest's Family Magazine for August, and profit by their experience; and if you have already had your summer rest, you will still enjoy reading their views and comparing them with your own. Apropos to the same topic, a charmingly illustrated paper in the same number, "A Queen of the Coast" gives a most vivid description of that popular resort Atlantic City, and to those who can't get away the illustrations and descriptive letter press will be almost equal to a trip there. "The silent steed," the favorite one this year, is treated both humorously and practically in two profusely illustrated articles, "My First Experience With a Bicycle," which will appeal to every woman cyclist, and "Women's Dress for Cycling," which gives excellent advice on the all-absorbing matter of dress on the wheel; and if you haven't a wheel, and can't have a vacation, you may solace yourself with the breezy stories, of which there are a number. In fact, every one will be sure to find something of interest in this bright midsummer number, which is full of overflowing with interesting and timely matter. Published for $2 a year by the Demorest Publishing Co., 110 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Rev. Murai's Oriental War Lectures.

Rev. T. Murai, of Tokio, Japan, delivered a very interesting sermon last Sunday at the Congregational church on the religions of Japan. His lecture was very interesting, and was splendidly illustrated by a collection of utensils used in the Buddhist worship. He also gave a history of other forms of worship in Japan. Mr. Murai is a very intelligent man, and speaks English fluently. He came to this country about six years ago and received a high class education at Andover, Mass. About two years since he returned home, and became pastor of the mission Congregational church at Hongo, which position he still retains. During the winter and early spring he made a tour of Corea and some parts of China, particularly the scenes of the great battles. He is therefore, thoroughly familiar with the subjects he is handling. Monday evening he gave an instructive lecture at the Congregational church on "The Japan-China War, and its Christian Significance," which was illustrated by a large number of finely colored stereopticon views. Before beginning the lecture proper, he read a short paper concerning the new stage of progress Japan has just reached, the dominant feature of which, he says is an earnest desire to do a good service to China, Corea and other sister Oriental nations by bringing them out into the way of light and civilization. Japan's responsibility to the other Eastern nations is occupying almost the entire attention of his countrymen. The national consciousness in this respect was awakened by the opening of the recent war, the aims and purposes of which, according to Mr. Murai's view, were: First, to defend and protect helpless Corea; second, to punish self-conceited China for her insolent and almost unbearable attitude toward the Japanese; and third, to spread the light of civilization through Asia proper. Of the 80 stereopticon views displayed, the first 20 portrayed scenes in Corea; the next 40 gave the principal points of the war; the last 20 gave glimpses of Japanese home life, its religious institutions, Doshisha college, the magnificent Y. M. C. A. building at Tokio, and the church of Hongo, of which Mr. Murai is pastor. The war pictures cover the whole ground beginning with the scene of the first battle in the Korean sea, and ending with that of the peace negotiation between Count Ito and Li Hung Chang. The Korean views give one a comprehensive insight into strange life and customs of that "hermit nation."

Mr. Mauri told of the effective service performed during the few months of the war by a band of Japanese Christian leaders, in calling the attention of their countrymen to the moral and spiritual significance of the war, and impressing upon the nation's consciousness the fact that it had a divine mission to perform in its relation to the neighboring nations.

Convicts to Go to Work.

The Salem Statesman says: "The foundry at the penitentiary will doubtless be started up again in a short time and the convicts to a limited number will have constant employment. Julius Loewenberg, the Portland stove-maker, was in the city Monday and at last the necessary details were arranged and a contract signed by all parties concerned, whereby the foundry plant will be put in operation. There are two contracts. The first is made by Governor Lord whereby the state will supply and Loewenberg will employ for the term of ten years the prescribed number of convicts, to wit: 100 in number to begin with and twenty-five additional to be added every six months until all available prisoners in the penitentiary are so employed. The price to be paid for their labor is 35 cents per day of ten hours and proportionately for fractions of a day in which convicts may be sick or otherwise detained from duty, the amount so earned by the convicts employed to be paid quarterly by said Loewenberg to the state treasurer. They must be employed in the making of stoves, castings and similar work and that only. All the free labor introduced to supervise, direct or otherwise assist in the foundry, is made subject to the choice of the superintendent of the prison—no person obnoxious to him can be employed. The reasons for this provision are obvious; so that no improper or dangerous character can be introduced.

The other contract is made by the governor, secretary of state, and state treasurer with Mr. Loewenberg, whereby the state leases to the latter the entire foundry plant for ten years at a rental of $2,000 per year, payable quarterly in advance, the lessee agreeing to turn over the plant at the end of the time, or at a termination of the lease sooner, in as good order and condition as the same now is, except the natural ordinary wear and tear, or a result of an out-break of convicts. It is provided that the lease cannot be sold, transferred or assigned except by written consent of the state executive board.

A bond of $10,000, with good and sufficient sureties, residents of Salem, has been filed and approved for the faithful performance of the contracts, and all the papers have been carefully drawn by Attorney-General Idleman, so that the state is amply protected.

The rent of the foundry plant begins from date and the pay for the two months between now and October 1st will be deposited today, hence it is safe to assume that active operations will proceed right along without any delay.

An Old Rhyme Reset.

"Affliction sore long time she bore
Physicians were in vain."
At last one day, a friend did say,
"Yo'd soon be well again!"

If you would take as I did, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for that is the cure for all the peculiar ailments of women. It is a safe, simple and sure remedy. It banishes those distressing maladies that make women's life a burden, curing all painful irregularities, uterine disorders, inflammations and ulceration, prolapsus and kindred weaknesses. As a nerve it cures nervous exhaustion, prostration, debility, relieves mental anxiety and hypochondria and induces refreshing sleep." She took the advice and is well. "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy for the delicate derangements and weaknesses of females sold by druggists. A pamphlet free. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.
