EDUCATIONAL NOTES

All communications intended for this column should be addressed to Mrs. H. S. Gibson, Oregon City, Oregon.

AS A BLE PAPER.
Following is a resume of Prof. Alex. Thompson's entertaining and instructive paper entitled "Our Public Schools as Factors of Our Government," which was so well appreciated by his audience at the Rolland meeting of the Teacher's Association:

The child is the father of the man. The public school is the Nation's benefactor in furnishing the best material for citizens. The schools should fit the pupils for citizenship. We begin to be good schoolers when we begin to be good citizens when we begin to be good schoolers. The education that fails to make good citizens fails to serve any good purpose, and is unworthy the support of any state.

Citizenship in its highest significance embraces all the noblest and best qualities of heart and brain. The true wealth of this nation is not measured by a gold or silver standard, but by the industry, the intelligence and integrity of its citizens. In this great republic the government is the aggregate sentiment of the mass of the people, expressed in legal enactment. No bayonet stands between the property, the liberty, or even the life of any man and the ignorance or vice of the masses. Destroy our public schools and you annihilate our government. A majority of our native citizens will lay the foundation of their education in the public school at the public expense and in turn they will be needed to assist in Americanizing the foreigners who come to our shores.

It is the legitimate object of our schools to train the youth of our land to assume the responsibilities of citizenship. It is not necessary to educate every boy for a statesman, but he should have ability to keep out of the poor house, and honor enough to keep out of the penitentiary. Good citizens are needed between the plow handles as well as in the presidential chair.

There is an unwritten law forbidding the teaching of either politics or religion in public schools. The populace have been used to substitute fierce partisanship for politics and bigotry for religion, and justly say do not teach either. It is our duty to teach patriotism, and we cannot teach patriotism without teaching politics. History is the one study in our public schools calculated to prepare one for the duties and obligations imposed upon us as citizens of a republic. It is the one that should arouse patriotism. As a preface to historical study, be it remembered that every privilege we now enjoy, and are loud in claiming as a right has been wrested from despotism by force. The aim of government should be to secure the greatest liberty to the individual consistent with the public good. Our history should teach the growth of liberty, sitting before the student the highest type of government and highest ideal of citizenship. It should contain a fair record of past events, point out the achievements and designate the mistakes of our predecessors with strict impartiality. We love peace but we cannot afford to forget the lessons of war. Teach the youth the good and grand achievements of our nation both in peace and in war. Teach them that a nation is answerable for its crimes as well as an individual.

We should place before our youth the highest ideals of American manhood. We need a healthy American sentiment both in school and out of school. I am an American, but if I were not I should wish to be one. It seems to me that the foreigner who comes to our shores and holds up his right hand and takes a solemn oath to support the government and forswears all allegiance to any foreign potentate or power, and especially the land of his birth, says in emphatic terms "I wish to be an American," and we should accept his statement in good faith until it is proven false. He is an American or a perjured villain.

If he is an American we never need to put in a foreign plank to catch his vote, if not we need to put an officer on his trail to catch him.
Teach the young men and young women, whether native or foreign born, to be Americans in the truest, highest, holiest, grandest sense of the word, Americans in thought, word and deed, learning our traditions, living for our own country, cherishing the memories of our own heroes, supporting our own government, maintaining our own laws, respecting our own rights, and honoring our own flag above any other in the world.

CIRCULAR LETTER NO. 8.
OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTIONS:
SALEM, Or., Oct. 4, 1895.
In the recent adoption of textbooks for the public schools for the state of Oregon, Reed's Word Lesson was adopted as the speller to be used in said schools for the next six years. As said Reed's

Word Lesson is of such an advanced grade as to only take the place of Watson's Advanced Speller, and as there is nothing in such book to supply the place of Elementary Speller it is hereby ordered that Watson's Elementary Speller be adopted and placed for use in the elementary work in the public schools.

The Elementary Speller not being found in the list already published and sent out declaring what books shall be used, notice is hereby given that Watson's Elementary Speller is hereby added to said list.

G. M. IRWIN,

The Exposition.
The success of the Portland Exposition is exceeding the expectations of its promoters. An unusual interest has been taken in it by the manufacturing and commercial concerns of the state and their exhibits are very complete and give a fine object lesson in the industrial and commercial growth of the state. The fruit exhibit is by far the largest and best ever made in the state. The State Nurserymen's Association's exhibit of named varieties of fruit is of special interest to all who take a pride in growing fruit true to name.

Several counties have fine displays of their products that attract much attention, but Clackamas is one that is conspicuous by its absence. The only exhibit from this county is a display of jellies by Mrs. J. K. Groom, of Oregon City. Her display embraces over a hundred kinds of jellies and preserves and are made from all varieties of fruit grown in the state. The wonderful clearness and great beauty of the jelly is a source of admiration to all visitors to the fair. The exhibit is very tastily arranged and reflects much credit on the public spirit and industry of Mrs. Groom.

The orchestra of 30 pieces, under the direction of Prof. Fleck, is proving one of the drawing cards of the exposition. The music rendered is of a high class and if the members were arrayed in a gaudy uniform and put on lots of style like the Eastern bands at former expositions, it would doubtlessly be better appreciated by the general public.

The attendance, especially since the public has learned the worth of the exposition, has been very large and on several evenings has been the largest ever known in the history of the exposition. It is well worth the small admission fee of 25 cents and everyone who has not attended should do so.

Many persons suffer from disorders in the kidneys and bladder without knowing what is the matter with them. They should know that disorders in those organs if allowed to remain will result fatally. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will restore healthy functional activity and thus eradicate the disease. Price $1 per bottle. For sale by C. G. Huntley, druggist.
Fresh oysters will complete your Sunday dinner. Leave your order at the Novelty candy store. Orders delivered.

Twenty Volcanoes.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—The revenue cutter Commodore Perry has returned from the Northern sea, where she has been confronted every night for weeks by a gigantic line of flames. As Captain Smith expressed it: "The devil's stokers have been stirring up the subterranean sea of flames that is supposed to lie thousands of feet above Behring's bed, and as a consequence, fully 20 of the present volcanoes in the Aleutian chain are now active."

The line of islands lying between Behring sea and the Pacific ocean belong to the United States and on them are probably the only active volcanoes lying within American territory. Much has been written of Bogaslov Island, which has been throwing up a cloud of steam at times for years; but it was supposed all the other peaks on this singular line of islands were extinct craters. Now as far as the eye can reach from any point in Behring sea, adjacent, or even at a distance from the infamous seal islands, the rising smoke and steam can be seen in both directions. The eruption is general and so lively that at night the airy columns take on the reflections of the fires deep in the earth beneath the craters.

Nowhere else on the globe can such a sight be witnessed. In the daytime only the white smoke or steam is visible. As dusk comes and darkness follows the wonder grows. The brighter columns show up in the cold Alaskan night first, and, as it gets darker, other vivid clouds of smoke are to be seen. Sometimes, when the position of the observer is advantageous, a dozen or 15 of these modern pillars of fire are in sight.

The show of subterranean force is the most noteworthy ever observed on American soil. As proof of the mystic power that is at work beneath the islands, a neck of land has been forced up out of the sea between Bogaslov and Old Bogaslov, and the two islands are now one.

Philomathean Society.
A special meeting of the Philomathean society was held at the Barclay school building last Tuesday evening to dispose of the society library, containing between 100 and 150 volumes. Leighton Kelly gave reasons why he thought the library should go to company F and should not go to either the school or free reading room. He was answered ably by Professor Holmes, who thought the library would do more good as a school library. A motion was made by Daniel Tompkins and seconded by Fred Meyer that the library go to the school. The motion was voted down. A motion was then made by Charles Wilson and seconded by Clare Campbell that the library be given to Company F. The vote stood yes, 13; no, 8. According to "Roberts Rules of Order" a two-thirds vote is necessary to carry such a motion, so another meeting will probably be held to make the vote unanimous.

The feature of the evening was an interesting debate on the bible. The lamps and other fixtures belonging to the society were given to the other societies in the school.
