The way to build up Oregon City is to give Oregon City people your patronage.

McKINLEY FOR PRESIDENT.

That McKinley is the favorite of the people of Oregon is plainly apparent, and if a popular vote could be taken in the state he would poll far more votes than any other candidate for the presidential nomination on the republican ticket.

Oregon's prosperity depends almost wholly on the tariff policy of the general government, as is proven by the hard times that have befallen the state since the democratic free trade policy was put in force. It is imperative that the wool growers have protection. The lumbermen have felt the blighting effects of free trade in deserted logging camps and idle saw mills, while our iron, woolen and kindred industries that were just getting fairly started when the blight fell upon them, find protection indispensable. The $5,000,000 paid out by the people of the United States for foreign prunes and other fruits proves that our fruit growers need protection. This state could manufacture all the salt it needed, yet we send out thousands of dollars annually to foreign countries for that article.

The fact is that Oregon is more directly interested in the tariff policy of the government than in that of any other policy before the people, and as McKinley has been the leading champion and defender of protection to the American laborers and the industries of the country, it makes him the logical candidate of the people of the state. That Gov. McKinley will have the delegation from Oregon in the national convention is almost a certainty, and in supporting his candidacy the delegates will be carrying out the wishes of all citizens who desire the restoration of the prosperity and growth that the state enjoyed while a protective tariff was in force.

The effort to work up and crystallize an opposition to the re-election of Senator Mitchell that has been going on for some time does not seem to be making the headway so confidently expected by its promoters. In fact Mr. Mitchell is stronger now than he was six months ago, and his re-election is an assured thing. The rank and file of the republican party are almost a unit in favor of him, for, to Mitchell's credit, no man is so lowly for him to recognize, and he will respond to a reasonable request from the most obscure citizen as readily as he will from the greatest party leader. The old soldiers, regardless of party, are his staunch supporters, for he has been their friend through thick and thin, and no soldier ever wrote or addressed him but was given a respectful hearing and such help rendered him as was possible. In looking after the interests of the state Senator Mitchell has been a tireless worker, and the front rank that Oregon has taken in congressional matters is largely due to his efforts. Were it left to a popular vote Senator Mitchell would have no reason to fear his re-election.

SENATOR GEO. C. BROWNELL has formally announced his candidacy for congressman, and expects to go to Albany with a solid delegation from Clackamas county supporting him. Mr. Brownell announces that he will make no bitter fight for Mr. Hermann's place, but if he can secure the nomination fairly will take it and go into the campaign with the determination of doing his full share to elect the entire state ticket and of proving with the election returns that his candidacy was not a drag to the ticket. Mr. Brownell has been one of the leading campaigners in this county as well as in the state, and has been an able and faithful party worker. His ability to fill the position is unquestioned, and if nominated and elected it would be an honor that would reflect on this county as well as be of material advantage to Oregon City and the Willamette valley.

The proper geographical distribution of our candidates should be carefully looked after by the county convention, for should mistakes be made in this matter and important sections of the county be not represented on the ticket it will be sure to be felt in the election returns in June. The republican party has a host of capable and popular men scattered about the county, and no difficulty should be had in making up a ticket that would fairly represent all sections.

A REIGN of carnage and terror is now on in Cuba. Since General Weyler has assumed command of the Spanish forces he has been arresting every Cuban that was suspected of being in sympathy with the insurgents and the drum head court martials and midnight executions has placed in jeopardy the life of every Cuban, for no regard is paid to a man's acts or conduct, only a complaint made by some unknown person followed by arrest and execution too often unknown to the man's friends or the public. In retaliation the Cubans have announced that they will shoot any Spaniard captured and will dynamite the buildings of all Spanish sympathizers on the island. As the Cubans have possession of four-fifths of the island and have every prospect of winning their independence, this government should no longer delay recognizing their belligerent rights, and force the Spaniards to use only civilized methods of warfare, for if this savagery is not stopped the island will be reduced to a state of barbarism and ruin, and our trade with Cuba will be totally annihilated.

There is money enough in the country to carry on business with notwithstanding the plaintive wails of our populist friends. The enormous amount of gold offered the government in the late bidding for bonds, proved that we yet had plenty of gold coin in the country while the amount of silver and paper currency has not diminished at all, and there is as much money per capita in the United States today as there was before these hard times set in. The chronic financial embarrassment of the government is what is causing so much uneasiness in the money circles, and is keeping the money out of circulation. Had this government a revenue sufficient to meet its expenses, and that paid in gold, our financial troubles would cease to exist, and we should hear nothing further of a scarcity of money.

There are now twelve "favorite sons" in the field for the republican nomination for the presidency. The list up to date is as follows: Morton of New York, Allison of Iowa, Reed of Maine, McKinley of Ohio, Quay of Pennsylvania, Davis of Minnesota, Cullom of Illinois, Spooner of Wisconsin, Manderson of Nebraska, Alger of Michigan, Bradley of Kentucky, Elkins of West Virginia.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

The question of choosing a profession is one of the most important a boy has to decide, for on it depends whether his life is to be a success or failure. Too many boys and parents are influenced by the gentility and fashionableness of an occupation, or the quick returns a profession may yield, and the boy takes it up regardless as to whether he has the natural ability or is fitted for it, with the result that before he has reached middle life he finds that he is a failure at his trade. On the rush that is now being made to enter the electrical profession the Electric Power has the following sensible advice to give young men:

At present we hear the complaint from all sides that it is almost impossible for an electrical engineer to obtain a position—that there are more engineers than positions. This, in a measure, may be true, for in our country where everything is accomplished with a rush, the entire community turns its attention to one and the same thought, in its wild scramble for dollars and cents. Electrical engineering is less than twenty years old. The electric current is beginning to be applied to almost every established industry besides building up many new ones. As a result, every young man thinks he would like to become an electrical engineer. Immediately the supply is much greater than the demand. The other professions have passed through the same stage. What is more, these periods of overcrowding seem to return at intervals, due to the same reason of "haste and scramble" which, it seems, is inherent in our race.

In Germany, the government calls the attention of the principals of the "gymnasias" to the class of men that are desired. That is, it notifies these principals of the resignations or deaths of mathematicians, astronomers, engineers, etc. The pupils are then influenced accordingly.

Although we are by no means in favor of a system of this sort, as it leads to too many mistaken vocations, yet we freely acknowledge our inability to suggest a substitute. It would seem that the temporary overcrowding of professions can be avoided only by using more forethought and deliberation in the selections that young men make. No profession is overcrowded at the top. There is always room there. But young men should weigh their advantages and abilities before attempting too much.

It is continuous effort that pays in advertising as in everything else. A business man doesn't keep his store open one day in the week, or one week in the month, or three months in the year. If he advertises that way that is the impression people will get. It is continuousness that has made each letter in the word "Royal" before the words "Baking Powder" worth over $2,000,000. The owner of Royal Baking Powder recently refused $12,000,000 for his business—a business built up and fostered by persistent advertising.

People are very forgetful. They have to think pretty hard to remember the vice-presidential candidate two campaigns back, and yet he was pretty well advertised at the time. It has been truly said that the time to advertise is all the time. In business there is no such thing as standing still. A business man must go forward or he will fall back. Even if you do just as much business this year as you did last, some other fellow is doing more business and he is getting ahead of you.

Each year's effort should be to exceed last year's sales. The only sure way to do it is to advertise. Advertise in business times because the iron must be struck while it is hot, and advertise in dull times to heat the iron. It can be done.

Don't come too late and neglect having missed buying a stylish trimmed hat for 1/2 the price, goods are all new, no 1801 shapes or styles at the Racket store.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas of Junction City, Ill. was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at Charman & Co's.
