FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1896.

THE FRUIT PROSPECT.—Owing to the unusual backwardness of the spring with snow storms and heavy frosts in April, grave fears have been felt for the safety of the coming fruit crop. As many of the fruit trees were in full bloom at the time the cold wave struck this coast it was thought by fruit men that their crop prospects were ruined for this year, but careful investigation proves that very little damage has been done and that Oregon will continue to hold her time-honored reputation for being the land of plenty. Peaches are the most seriously hurt and except in a few favored localities the crop in the Willamette valley will be almost a failure, but as this is not a natural peach country the loss is not a serious drawback to the state. Some varieties of cherries, pears and apples in localities where they were extra early have suffered but the damage has not been extensive enough to make a shortage in the crop. All other fruits are very promising, though strawberries etc., will be very much later than usual. Oregon's fruit crop is all right and the Webfoot state will continue to hold the banner as a section with never failing crops.

AN INTERESTING BOOK.—One of the most interesting books of travel ever printed, is the newly published book, "Journeys Around the World," by Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., and Harriet Clark. Dr. Clark is the father of Christian Endeavor movement, which has spread to every portion of the globe, and the book tells many things that other travelers have omitted, which prove so interesting to the reader. Dr. Clark and his wife were making the tour in a good cause, and they took time to study the peculiarities of the people in the interior of the countries which they visited. The book is full of good things written in an interesting style, that makes one loth to lay it down when he has it. It is cram full of interesting things about people and countries, that everybody wants to know, with the superfluous left out. It is up-to-date in every way and contains much that will instruct and interest the reader, its illustrations are of a high order, and its clear print and genuine leather binding make it a valuable acquisition to the library. It is sold only by subscription and can be obtained from Mr. J. M. Beattie, who is agent for the new book.

JUVENILE PARTY.—Mrs. Nohren gave her son Carl a party on his seventh birthday last Friday evening. The children spent a pleasant evening playing games and refreshments were served. The children with whom Carl is a general favorite, sent many pretty presents for their little friend. There were present: Ella Dempster, Neita Quinn, Clara Nelson, Vernon Gradon, Theresa Quinn, Nettie Bradley, Barton Barlow, Otto Miller, Harold Broughton, Ralph Miller, Geo. Cannon, Ora Boylan, Carl Nelson, Raymond Miller, Ola Boylan, Lewis Noble.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE MEETING.—There was a pretty good attendance of members of the county central committee, and republican candidates at Secretary Ryan's office last Saturday afternoon. Eighteen precincts were represented and a hopeful feeling of success prevailed among the assembled stalwart advocates of protection. They confidently believe the principles of right will triumph next June as in past times, if the republicans and lovers of good government in Clackamas county will pull harmoniously together for that object. Plans for the campaign were adopted, and the first gun will be fired at Sunnyside, Monday evening, May 11th, and the three succeeding weeks will be filled with active work, closing with a grand rally in this city, the Saturday evening before the election. The plan of canvass was made wholly independent of any future plans of the democrats or populists. No objection, however, will be made if the managers of these parties should make their dates agree with the republican appointments, which would make very interesting joint discussions.

A HISTORICAL LANDMARK.—The dilapidated two-story structure opposite Charman & Son's store, the property of the Portland Flouring Mills Company, is being torn down. Recently the city council condemned the building, as it had not been in use for some time, and contained a lot of dry material and trash that was likely to become ignited at any time, and cause a conflagration. This building was erected in 1849, and has been successively used for various purposes, first for a store, saloon, hotel and finally a Chinese wash house. The Oregon Statesman now published in Salem, but founded in this city by Asahel Bush, is said to have had office rooms in the upper story for awhile. The structure was a substantial one in its time, and once presented a neat front. It has caught fire on one or two occasions, but the flames were promptly subdued by the fire department. It is hardly likely that a new building will be erected in its place, for the present at least.

HEARD FROM.—The Christian Endeavor delegates who attended the State Y. P. S. C. E. convention held at Oregon City April 14-16, were well entertained by the citizens of that city. The Benton County Endeavorers, some 30 in number, had the honor of bringing home with them a beautiful banner as a reward of merit for having organized more societies in the past year than any other county in the state. Mr. William Shaw, of Boston, addressed the convention. He was considered by all who heard him to be fully the equal of John Willis Bar, who will be remembered as the leading at the convention held in Corvallis two years ago.—Corvallis Times.

PAID THE PRICE.—A deformed beggar was working Main street for five and 10 cent alms last Friday, and after making a liberal collection proceeded to get as drunk as a lord. He wanted to fight, using his cane as a weapon on bystanders and became so obstreperous that he was run in by the police. John Price had hauled the beggar what he supposed was a five cent piece, but when he went into T. F. Ryan's office to pay a $5 installment on a lot which he had purchased, he discovered some nickels in his pocket, but no $5 piece. However, on the next morning the beggar acknowledged that some one had given him a five, and Price received his money back.
