Refrigerators
 are about the only effective home protection against the weather. Butter, meat and other supplies won't keep without ice when the mercury sizzles in the nineties, and the refrigerator is the perfection of the icebox. The loss from spoiled meats and other supplies in a single season will considerably exceed the cost of one of these household necessities. With a refrigerator everything is easily kept fresh and wholesome, which without one would be quickly tainted and unfit for use. We show them in five different sizes at from $11 to $23.70 each. Save money by getting one immediately.

THE HONORED DEAD.
 Decoration Day fittingly observed by the G. A. R. and Public Generally.

Decoration Day has become one of the most impressive of our national holidays, and is associated with a glorified feeling of reverence for the patriotic dead, whose memories are cherished by all true Americans and lovers of their country. It has become a day too, on which the people of the country pay reverence to their dead kinsman and friends by decorating the graves of the loved ones with beautiful flowers that bring to mind cherished memories with vivid and uplifting thoughts. This reverence for the dead is the holiest of feelings, and in commemorating the heroic deeds of the brave men who have fought and bled for the liberties and perpetuation of American principles, the youth of the country are being inspired with lessons of patriotism that will be lasting. As long as there is an United States of America, Decoration Day will be commemorated and the graves of the dead will be strewn with floral tributes. And it is fit that there should be one day set apart to kindly remember and mourn for those who once had a being, existed and moved on this earth. Sorrow for the dead, is one of the higher attributes of modern civilization, and its intensity commemorated has a tendency to make the world better.

At an early hour Saturday morning throngs of people could be seen wending their way to the city cemetery, where the graves were appropriately adorned, and put in a presentable condition. The city council committee had done a good job in cleaning up the cemetery, a fact that was appreciated by the people who visited the graveyard on that day.

About half past nine o'clock the pupils of Parkside school and St. John's parochial school, were escorted to Pope's hall by the drum corps, Company F, Parkside Band, Women's Relief Corps and the G. A. R., where there were appropriate exercises and addresses by Prof. J. W. Gray and Father Hillebrand. After the exercises at the hall the procession reformed under the direction of C. H. Dauchy, grand marshal, with J. U. Campbell, chief of staff, and Lee Harding and Rae Norris as aides. The line then started down Main street in the following order:

Drum corps,
 Company F, under the direction of Lieutenants Pickens and Huntley, who escorted the Post and Relief Corps to the cemetery.
 The Parkside Band,
 Meade Relief Corps No 18—carriage containing Mrs. G. A. Harding, Mrs. F. L. Cochran, past president and president of the Corps, and Corwin S. Shank, speaker of the day.
 Meade Post, G. A. R. No. 2.
 People in carriages, on horseback and on foot.

Prominently displayed along with other flags and insignia, was the new banner presented to the Relief Corps by Meade Post at a recent gathering. The procession moved down Main street to Tenth; thence up the Singer hill to Seventh; thence up Seventh to Molalla avenue; thence up Molalla avenue to the corner at Ely's store; thence to the cemetery. Upon reaching the cemetery gate, Company F opened ranks, and the G. A. R. and W. R. C. passed through followed by the militia to the location where the exercises took place. The usual impressive ceremonies were held, and Revs. M. L. Rugg and A. J. Montgomery assisted in the ritualistic services, conducted by Post Commander C. A. Williams, H. A. Grijler, Capt. J. T. Apperson and others. A new feature of the ceremonies, which added to the impressiveness of the occasion, was the striking of taps between each name while the roll was called. Company F materially aided in the ceremonies of the occasion, and the salutes fired by that body was a fitting tribute in honor of the departed dead.

An important feature of the occasion was the eloquent address by Corwin S. Shank, a prominent young attorney of Seattle. Mr. Shank is a son of a veteran, and a Clackamas county boy whom we delight to honor. His delivery was good, and as the patriotic utterances fell from his lips the vast crowd listened with wrapt attention to catch every word and sentence. He paid a grand tribute to the worth of the old soldiers, who fought, bled and died for their country, and to the founders and promoters of the hallowed observance of Decoration day. He told how the veterans of the late war were instrumental in saving the individuality of our country as a free nation; that we owed much to the old soldiers in perpetuating our liberties as the greatest government on earth. His words of patriotism were inspiring, and his appeals for a perpetuation of the proper observance of the memories of the heroic dead, were thoughts that had a deep impression on the minds of the multitude. On the whole, it was one of the ablest grand army addresses that has been delivered in Oregon City for many long years. Mr. Shank is still a young man, and is destined to become one of the noted orators of the Pacific coast.

A number of the buildings were appropriately decorated, and numerous flags were at half mast. Withal it was a notable day for Oregon City; hundreds of people came in from the country, some in honor of decoration day, others to do their trading, and many to hear the latest political news, as it was the last working day before the June election.

EXERCISES AT THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.
 On the Wednesday afternoon previous, a committee from the G. A. R. visited St. John's parochial school, where very interesting exercises were held, and the pupils acquitted themselves creditably in a very interesting program. Patriotic and national decorations were displayed in keeping with the memorial event.

On Friday afternoon a committee from the Post and Women's Relief Corps visited the Barclay school, and held very interesting exercises. Ex-County School Superintendent Alex Thomson, delivered an able address on behalf of the G. A. R., and Mrs. G. A. Harding, made a most interesting talk on behalf of the Women's Relief Corps. Both addresses were calculated to inspire the young with patriotic thoughts and impulses, and were listened to with marked attention by the large number of children assembled. Lieutenant L. L. Pickens, of Company F, made a most interesting talk on the national guard, that was timely and interesting. Superintendent Holmes with a few well chosen remarks followed in the same tenor indulged in by the previous speakers, and his words well received. The school sang several appropriate patriotic selections. The decorations were neatly arranged and in keeping with the memories brought to mind by the historical and reminiscence occurrences of the past.

Later in the afternoon, similar exercises were held at the Eastham school, which proved of unusual interest. C. H. Dauchy delivered an address brimful of patriotic thoughts, which were listened to with marked attention by the pupils of the school. Capt. J. T. Apperson made one of his characteristic addresses, that was calculated to inspire the young with patriotic thoughts and a fervent love of country. Thoughts were expressed that would tend to make better citizens of the rising generation, and cause them to reverence the lives of the heroes of the past, who gave their lives for the country. Lieutenant Pickens made another interesting talk on the national guard, that was listened to with great interest. Prof. McAdams made a few appropriate remarks, in accord with the line of thought expressed by the previous speakers. The pupils of the schools rendered several patriotic songs, very acceptably, and the decorations were tastefully arranged.

A Valuable Prescription.
 Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., "Sun", writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Steble, 2625 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1.00. Get a bottle at Charman and Co's drug store.

THE STATE GRANGE.
 A Successful Session—Corvallis the Next Place of Meeting.

The annual session of the Oregon State Grange, which was held in McMinnville, adjourned last Thursday after one of the most profitable meetings ever held. The attendance was very good and a deep interest was manifested by the delegates. The Secretary's report showed that the order had made a satisfactory growth during the past year, and indications pointed to a still larger growth for the coming year. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

W. M. Hilleary, of Marion, master; B. G. Leedy, overseer; J. Casto, lecturer; G. W. Weeks, steward; Frank Wilson, assistant steward; J. W. Messenger, chaplain; J. B. Stump, treasurer; J. H. Scott, secretary; J. R. Booth, gatekeeper; Mrs. M. C. Connell, Pomona; Mrs. French, Flora; Mrs. Clark, Ceres; Mrs. L. Waldron, lady assistant steward.

Greetings were extended to the W. C. T. U. and godspeed in their noble work. A committee of three was appointed to attend the woman's congress at Portland the first of next month.

The transportation committee's report says: We believe the success or the downfall of the great labor-producing portion of our bountiful and grand state depends very largely on good and cheap transportation facilities. We also recommend wise legislation, and urge upon the state and subordinate granges to use their utmost endeavor to that end, and we believe and hold that the state as well as the general government is in duty bound to furnish such facilities, both by rail and water, at the very lowest rate compatible with a fair rate of interest upon all real capital invested.

The report also recommends absolute control of transportation by the state and general government.

The legislative committee asked for a law defining a railroad crossing to be 30 feet wide, and with a grade not greater than one inch in 16.

Rudimentary agriculture and horticulture were recommended to be taught in public schools. The immediate completion of the locks at the Cascades, and the opening of the same to transportation, was demanded. The grange declared in favor of woman suffrage. The members were instructed to patronize home industry. Radical opposition was expressed to all bonds from school district to national. A law was demanded requiring proper labeling of adulterated foods.

Corvallis was selected as the place for the next meeting of the grange.

Among those in attendance from Clackamas county were Dr. J. Casto, district organizer, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson of Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Easton of Oswego, Mr. and Mrs. Larkins of Highland, Mr. and Mrs. L. Waldron of New Era, and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Wright of Liberal.

Clackamas was shown to be the banner county of the state, both in number of organized granges and the number of members enrolled.

Review of the World's Progress.
 The political situation in the United States on the eve of the presidential nomination conventions is admirably covered by the June Review of Reviews in its departments of "The Progress of the world," "Current History in Caricature" and convention-goers will be greatly interested in Dr. Shaw's sketch of "St Louis: This Year's convention City." Apropos of this season's rush of gold-seekers to Alaska the Review presents an authoritative description of the Alaskan gold-fields prepared by a member of the staff of the U. S. Geological Survey. There is also an interesting illustrated account of the services of that intrepid pioneer, Dr. Sheldon Jackson, by whose efforts reindeer have been introduced into Alaska, and who has done so much to establish civilization in Seward's great purchase. The coronation of the Russian Czar is a fitting occasion for the publication of a character study of that modest young ruler. The Review gives in this number the most complete statement ever published of the methods and results of the government investigation into foods, commenting at length on the work of Professor Atwater, of Wesleyan University. Timeliness and practical interest are the characteristic qualities of the June Review of Reviews.
