Children's Day.

Children's Day was observed last Sunday at the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in Oregon City. The Baptist church will observe that day on next Sunday, and on the Sunday following that event will be observed by the Sunday school children of the Methodist church.

At the Presbyterian church after a brief reading of the lesson, the remainder of the hour was taken up with the Children's Day exercises. Ethel Jackson sang a solo, and Minnie Meyer read a letter from Dr. Worden, superintendent of Presbyterian missionary work in the United States. There were exercises by the infant classes, a song by four little girls and some special music. The special collection for Sunday work amounted $8.50. One unique feature of the floral decorations, was a column of red and white roses, over six feet in height. This was something new in the floral line.

The exercises at the Congregational church took the place of the regular Sunday evening service. First, was a children's chorus, the invocation; greeting, by Earl McAdam; motion song, by infant class; recitation of the 23d Psalm; solo, Alda Broughton; recitation, Palm Cross and Crown, boys; recitation, Veva Hart; song, by small boys and girls; recitation, Florence Hamilton; song, Queenie Roake; recitation, Hazel Butler; duet, Ethel Albright and Reva Gray; recitation, Lydia Yoder; song, Crescent Quartette; distribution of flowers. There was a splendid display of flowers, artistically displayed. A liberal contribution was raised for the State Sunday School work.

AN OPAL CANNOT BE LOST.

Apparent Verification of a Virtue Claimed For the Alleged Unlucky Gem.

A wealthy broker of West Philadelphia had a rather singular experience the other day. He and his family have had in their possession for a number of years some very handsome opals, but the superstition which was formerly entertained concerning the stone being unlucky prevented him making use of the gems. Last year he took a trip to Europe. While in London he met at the house of a mutual friend a dealer in precious stones, who had just come from Gracias a Dia, in Honduras, and had brought back some fine gems.

Instead of putting any faith in the popular superstition this gentleman believed in the opal very thoroughly and attributed to it virtues which no other gem possessed. Among the things which he said about it was that the opal was attached to its owner by invisible cords and that it was impossible to lose it, though it might be mislaid. The Philadelphia broker on his return to Philadelphia chose the finest opal in his collection, had it set in a ring, surrounded by small diamonds, and at Christmas presented it to his wife. It was truly a beauty, and she wore it with conscious pride.

One day on returning from a day's outing she received quite a shock—the opal was gone. Search proved vain. No trace of the stone could she discover. Not only on account of its value, but because she knew how highly her husband prized the stone, she hated to inform him of her loss. At last she felt obliged to do so, when, greatly to her astonishment, he drew from his vest pocket a tiny package and presented it to her. Upon opening it what was her delight when she recognized her lost opal.

More astonishing still, her husband affirmed that while he was walking down Chestnut street a day or two before he felt something under the sole of his shoe, which upon investigation proved to be the opal which he had last seen shimmering upon his wife's finger. There was no doubt about it being the lost one, for the jeweler who had set it recognized it also.—Philadelphia Times.

HEROIC TREATMENT.

How a Dislocated Jaw Was Put Back Into Its Place.

While talking in his sleep Henry Flocke, a builder, residing in Ozona Park, L. I., dislocated his jaw. Mr. Flocke's habit of talking in his sleep has made him the butt of a good deal of joking. He went to bed as usual, but he had not slept long when he began talking. This awoke his wife, who listened for about ten minutes. Suddenly Flocke's nocturnal monologue stopped. He began gasping. Mrs. Flocke was frightened, and she shook her husband into wakefulness.

"Why, what's the matter, Henry?" she asked.

Her husband tried to speak, but in vain. His jaw was immovable. He motioned to his wife that he could not speak, and she endeavored to force his mouth shut. She could not move it. Fearing her husband was suffering from lockjaw, she sent for Dr. McDonald.

"Do you want me to replace your jaw in my own way?" asked the doctor.

Mr. Flocke motioned in the affirmative. Dr. McDonald stepped in front of Flocke. Without warning the doctor struck Flocke a terrific blow on the left side of the jaw. Flocke showed a disposition to strike back.

"You told me to do it my own way," said the physician. "You observe that your ability to speak is restored."

The blow had knocked Flocke's dislocated jawbone into its proper position, and except for a little soreness he was none the worse. Dr. McDonald explained that Flocke's jaw was liable to dislocation at any time unless he broke himself of the habit of talking in his sleep.—New York Times.

A Disappointed Diplomat.

An interesting story is told in Washington regarding M. Patenote, the French ambassador. After congress passed the law empowering the president to send ambassadors to such countries as would raise the rank of their representatives, Sir Julian Pauncefote was the first to inform the president of the intention of his country to make him an ambassador. M. Patenote conceived the ambition to be the dean of the ambassadors and communicated it to his home government, and his commission arrived before Sir Julian's. He went to the state department in the hope of immediate recognition as the first ambassador to this country. He was told that Sir Julian had anticipated him by informing the department of the action of his government. He was angry, and wrote to the president requesting his intervention. He received instead a chilly letter from Mr. Gresham.

College Athletics.

"Any emphasis given to academic gymnastics that goes beyond the point of developing a man's animalism for any other purpose than to give the best possible support to his enlargement as a rational and moral possibility is a perversion of the purpose of human discipline, and to that degree blocks the wheels of all proper college intention," writes Dr. Parkhurst in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Nevertheless the real animus of the athletic tendency is a wholesome angury of a better breed of men."

New York Tribune.

Leader of the Republican Party.

1896.

Are You Willing to Listen to a Suggestion?

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE'S broad columns and large print make it the easiest paper in the country to read, either on the cars or at home.

Henry Romeike, proprietor of the largest Newspaper Clipping Agency in the world, testifies in a published card, that his clippings for over 4,000 clients shows that THE TRIBUNE contains, "day by day and week by week, for more original matter than any daily newspaper in New York City." He proves the fact by figures. THE WEEKLY ranks the same. Business men find the market report of THE TRIBUNE absolutely without an equal. THE TRIBUNE is the only newspaper in New York City whose reporters actually visit all the different markets in person.

THE TRIBUNE now prints the best and freshest humorous pictures of the day, from the comic press of two continents, and supplies plenty of other entertainment.

By its special telegrams and correspondence, its able editorials and high literary character, THE TRIBUNE maintains a splendid position in the regard of Republicans and lovers of music, art, and good books.

THE TRIBUNE'S society news is known everywhere for excellence. Its fashions have always been of special value, and changes of style are, as a rule, foretold in THE TRIBUNE sooner than in other newspapers.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE is recognized, officially, as the leading newspaper of the Republican party.

As for Farming and Labor, THE TRIBUNE has for 50 years demanded, and yet demands that very possible dollar's worth of food and commodities, consumed by the American people, shall be produced by the American people. For this cause THE TRIBUNE labors in its various additions 365 days in every year.

A man is judged by the newspaper he takes. He who reads THE TRIBUNE is wide awake, progressive, respectable and capable, worthy of the confidence of business and social friends. If you are a young man you will live in a rut all your life (except by catering to that which is base) if you feed your mind upon newspapers, full of scandal, vulgarity and inanity. Think for a moment of the people who read newspaper of that class. On the other hand, THE TRIBUNE has probably the largest clientele of the very people who can help to improve a young man's position, of any newspaper in the United States. Associate yourself with them.

Mr. Horr continues to write for THE TRIBUNE. Sample copies free. DAILY, $10 a year SUNDAY separately, $2. SEMI-WEEKLY, $2. WEEKLY, $1. TRIBUNE ALMANAC for 1896, 50 cents.
