PRODUCTION OF SILVER.

Many correspondents ask for the figures showing the annual production of silver during the period culminating in its restricted coinage or total rejection at the mints of all the first-class nations of the world.

The Chicago Times-Herald gives the total production of silver during the first half of the century as authentically estimated at 1,632,211,000 ounces or an average annual output of 21,044,220 ounces.

For the second half of the century to the present year the figures are as follows. The ratio to gold is also given for convenient reference:

Table showing the production of silver from 1851 to 1895, including columns for Year, Silver ounces, and Real ratio of silver to gold.

MCKINLEY IN OREGON.

There can be no doubt but that McKinley will receive a handsome majority in Oregon at the coming presidential election.

For months and months the voters of Oregon have been stuffed with wild cat literature, and listened to the harangues of windy orators, until some of them are upset in their ideas.

that the policy of McKinley and Hobart is the only solid and safe one for the great institutions of this country to rest upon; that it is the only policy that will restore prosperity to the nation, and the very thing that will bring back comfort to American homes and give steady employment to thousands of industrious laborers.

The policy of McKinley and Hobart is no experiment that has a possibility of precipitating a worse panic, but it has been tried in the fire of past experience, weighed in the balance and found not wanting.

A FREE COINAGE BASIS.

A recent number of the Toledo Blade gives a striking object lesson of silver stricken Mexico.

The Mexican Herald publishes its subscription terms as follows: Delivered by carriers in city $12; By mail in country $10; United States $7; Central American States $12.

They send the paper to subscribers in the United States and pay the postage for $7. Why? Because the money of the United States is equivalent to gold.

Mexico is doing business on a silver basis, and they charge accordingly.

The county court has again taken up the subject of buying a poor farm and of placing all the county charges upon it. The court bases the need of a poor farm on the fact that it has cost the county for the 12 months ending July 1, 1896, the sum of $319,48 to keep its poor.

As a result of the exposure in the ENTERPRISE of last week methods employed by Maddock and his lieutenants, Lawrence and Bain, in padding out the delinquent tax list, Maddock has become fearful lest in their greed to make a big stake as well as to have a goodly sum left after giving him his half, that the Three Sisters' publishers had rather overstepped the bounds of safety and that the county commissioners might be given an excuse for cutting his bill for publishing the list and thus give him a black eye.

The Hood River Glacier makes the statement that $50,000 in cash has been paid to strawberry growers in that valley this season. In fact it has been proved to be the most profitable crop that they can produce, and the acreage will be increased in future years to an appreciable extent.

The United States authorities are beginning to take an active interest in the Wilhoit stage robberies, and this action combined with the reward offered by Clackamas county and others, may tend to bring the perpetrators of the becoming frequent hold-ups to justice.

MULTNOMAH county is taking the initiative in making preparations for the opening of an aggressive campaign for McKinley during the coming presidential election.

aggressive campaign. This county has a majority of republicans, who will all vote for McKinley if an enthusiastic plan of campaign is adopted and carried out.

His boasts of the Three Sisters' publishers as to their big circulation in the county, has proved as false as their other statements. Not a day passes but what inquiries are received at the county offices from persons in various parts of Clackamas county as to what paper the delinquent tax list is published in and where a copy can be had.

It is an outrage on the tax-payers of Clackamas county that two sheriff's offices should be maintained in the court house. As a matter of fact it is only by a stretch of the law that Ex-Sheriff Maddock can retain possession of the tax rolls and draw a salary for his duty when the regular sheriff and his deputy are practically in their office.

SECTION 6, page 118 of the revised statutes of 1885, of Oregon, says that the sheriff shall turn over once each week to the county treasurer, all moneys coming into his hands belonging to the county.

In view of the many ugly reports that are out regarding Ex-Sheriff Maddock, there has come a general demand that his books be audited. His accounts may be all straight, but so many county officers of late having been found derelict in their duties, Marion having just called an officer to an accounting after his report had been made, with the result of a big shortage being found by the experts, that it might be well for the county court of this county to have Maddock's books looked over.

As an evidence of McKinley popularity among the American people, the telegrams state that callers continue to pour in upon him to such an extent, that great inroads are made upon his time. They flock in upon him in droves to such an extent, that it is almost impossible for him to find any time to give to the formal letter of acceptance.

A CONSTITUTIONAL amendment to be voted on at the coming election in Washington provides that voters in that state must be able to read and write in the English language. It would be a wise move for the next legislature of Oregon to submit a similar amendment to the voters of this state.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

The Alabama election went just the way it was expected to go but its course carries no weight of influence upon the general election.—Albany Herald.

The general business depression that is sweeping over the west, is one of the results of the free silver craze. It is only a test of what would happen should Bryan be elected. The way to revive business is to restore confidence, and the way to restore confidence is to see that Oregon's electoral vote is cast for McKinley.—Portland Chronicle.

With between six and seven million pounds of wool lying unsold in The Dalles warehouse and no immediate prospect of any sale, there is no danger of the democratic ticket carrying Wasco county next November. But McKinley's majority should be made as large as possible, so it will bring up the ticket in other places not so favored.—The Dalles Chronicle.

There is some significance when men women and children by the thousands leave the factories and go to visit Major McKinley at his home. This is the year when the laboring men are going to vote and they are not going to support free trade candidates. The trap of democracy built of free trade planks will not catch all the populists. There are more in the rank and file of that party who will refuse to vote for the continued ruin of the wool industry of this country.—Baker City Republican.
