IN THE CHURCHES.

All the Ministers in Their Pulpits Last Sunday—Numerous Services.

For the first time in several weeks, all the ministers of the principal churches in Oregon City filled their respective pulpits, and they were all greeted with fair audiences.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

At the morning service the pastor, Rev. A. J. Montgomery delivered a sermon on the subject, "Does God Control Nature?" He began by saying, is God responsible for rain, or does it happen accidentally? He attempted to show that man is forced to believe logically one of three things:

First—The laws of Nature are independent of God.

Second—Nature is the God. The first two are self evident and true, and must be accepted. The logical deductions of the minister were practical, and greatly interested his hearers, who gave the strictest attention, while he descanted on the wonderful works of God and Nature.

M. E. CHURCH.

At the morning service Rev. S. W. Stryker discoursed on "Spiritual Cave Dwellers." "What Doest Thou Here Elijah?" was his text. After reviewing, he told how the prophet Elijah had backslidden after slaying 400 proved men of Baal, and went into a cave and prayed that his life might be taken from him, but God spoke unto him, and said: "What Doest Thou Here Elijah?" The inference made by the minister was, we should not enter a cave and shut ourselves out from the light of Heaven. We enter a spiritual cave, and shut out ourselves from the sunshine of God's love. He mentioned various caves that men would go into; the caves of selfishness, worldliness and envy. The man who fell into his brother was in a spiritual cave, shut out from the sunlight of God's love; and the man who is dissatisfied with the way things move in the church because he cannot have his own way, is shut out from the sunshine of God's love. The minister described the interior condition of the spiritual cave. It was inhabited with slimy serpents, lizards, bats, goblins, etc., filled with darkness and was a veritable den of horrors. The hearers were exhorted to keep out of these dismal caves, and continually bask in the sunshine of God's love.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

The subject of Rev. M. L. Rugg's sermon last Sunday morning, was "Going out full and Coming Back Empty," and text was in Ruth, 1:21. The principal thought brought out was the fact that Naomi and her husband and two sons, laden with plenty, left their homes and kindred and going to the land of Moab. They went down full-handed. There Naomi lost her husband and two sons. They went down for worldly gain full-handed and came back empty-handed. He showed that it did not pay in the end to stray from the path of rectitude, and proved that righteousness was the proper thing, and after all there was lots of truth in that old adage, "That Honesty is the Best Policy." He asserted that it was a great mistake for a man in business or political life to engage in questionable ventures for temporary gain. Trouble and grief resulted sooner or later. Abraham Lincoln was a modern example of a righteous life. Temptations came to ministers as well as other people. Sometimes a minister was expected to keep certain things back for the sake of certain parishioners. That temptations came as strong to ministers in this respect as to other lives. The object of the sermon seemed to lead to the idea, that it pays to be righteous.

CONGREGATIONAL.

In the evening Dr. Cowan's subject was the "Bicycle as a Reformer." He spoke of the bicycle as being here to stay, and that it was doing a great work. It was having a moral influence that was already being felt in the religious and secular world. That the Americans as a race had been deteriorating physically, and that the bicycle was filling the long-needed want of physical exercise and fresh air by the inhabitants of the crowded city; that hundreds of young men and boys are getting their first lessons in economy and thrift, by saving their earnings to purchase bicycles; that the liquor dealers' business was suffering in consequence of the wheel craze. Many of the young men, who formerly spent their Sundays around beer joints and kindred places are now gliding among the green fields and in the open air. While it is regretted that the bicyclist is prone to absent himself from church on Sunday, it was hoped this fault would be overcome in time. The speaker considered it twice the sin to go horseback riding on Sunday, as to ride a bicycle. For in the former instance the man and horse were both violators. On the whole, it was proved that the bicycle was a great reformer.

There was an unusually large attendance at the gospel meeting, held at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium at four o'clock Sunday afternoon. George Howard was the leader, and Rev. Thomas Boyd, of Portland, the evangelist, delivered a splendid address. The attendance was larger than it had been at any time during the summer.

The Christian Endeavor Union held a rousing meeting at the Baptist church at 6:30 in the afternoon. Mrs. E. B. Andrews was the leader. These meetings will hereafter be held once in every three months.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

MAZAMAS' OUTING.

They Climb Mt. Pitt, Visit Crater Lake and Have an Interesting Trip.

The ENTERPRISE mentioned last week that an account of the Mazamas' trip to Crater Lake would appear in this week's issue and below is given a description of a part of the journey written by one of the party from this city.

Perhaps a short description of the recent excursion of the Mazamas and others to Crater Lake will be of interest to some of your readers.

Our party had arranged for a special car from Portland to Ashland and for commissary wagons with cooks, drivers and the necessary outfit of provisions, utensils and tents, from Ashland.

The first afternoon was spent at Ashland getting provisions and everything ready to leave early the next morning.

This is a very pleasing little city situated at the foot of high hills and at one end or side of a beautiful valley. The business part of town, including the woolen mill and flour mill, is situated down in a little depression on the small mountain stream and along two or three narrow and crooked streets. On each side of the streets are narrow wooden sidewalks not in very good repair. Most of the stores carry small stocks and are not very well lighted owing to low ceilings and to old and ugly wooden awnings in front of many of them.

As viewed from the residence portion of the town it would appear to be a very picturesque and progressive little city, but one is much disappointed by the slovenly and ancient appearance of the business streets.

The Chaunauqua grounds are near the center of the business part of town but do not compare at all favorably with our beautiful park. In fact there are no grounds as we would view it and the auditorium was quite a disappointment to us. The latter has a similar appearance to ours from a little distance but it is much smaller, is enclosed clear to the ground, has no openings except a couple or three doors and two rows of windows about as high as those in ours but these openings were covered with cloth instead of glass. This leaves no ventilation except the doors and it seemed to us that it must be excessively warm for an audience in there on a warm day. It is on a side hill and the ground slopes towards the platform, thus giving everyone an unobstructed view of the speaker.

This city seems to be prosperous, there being several new buildings and will in time outgrow all the unpleasant features. It has plenty of pure mountain water and an excellent water system and there are some sulphur springs in the edge of town which are utilized for baths.

The next morning our party consisting of 35 to 40 persons in all left this picturesque little city, with our several wagons and five or six on bicycles, and after driving up the valley two or three miles, past beautiful farms and orchards, turned into a canyon and climbed over a high mountain range, taking until the middle of the afternoon. We camped that night at Hunt's, about 21 miles from Ashland. Our commissary wagon was heavily loaded and had trouble in getting over the mountain, so that we did not have supper until after dark. After supper we all turned in on the ground under the trees, with our blankets, and early the next morning we were on the road again. The second day we passed over another high ridge, and late in the afternoon came to the picturesque lake of the woods, nestling at the base of high foot hills with Mt. Pitt looming up in the background.

Here we exchanged our wagons for pack-horses and took a side trip to the summit of Mt. Pitt. This mountain is 10,000 feet in height, has one large and two small glaciers and numerous other patches of snow. It is very rocky and rugged and much of the scenery is very picturesque.

The valleys were all filled with smoke but we had several good views of Mt. Shasta and of a number of small lakes around the base of Mt. Pitt.

It is not a very difficult mountain to climb but it is not easy to reach, owing to its distance of some 10 or 12 miles from the road and no trail through the woods.

A substantial brass box was left on the summit, containing a record book in which our party of thirty all registered, and left maps of the surrounding country for future climbers.

After returning to the wagons we resumed our journey, making a short stop at Pelican bay, on Klamath lake where there is an immense spring of ice cold water boiling up in the edge of the lake, and one of the best fishing grounds in the world.

The road then winds along near the edge of the marsh surrounding the lake, crosses some of the clearest and most beautiful streams of water that we had ever seen, finally leaving the low ground near Old Fort Klamath and follows Anna creek up to Crater Lake.

Among the marsh we passed several large stock ranches where they had larger stacks of hay than we had before seen.

Several of us went through the old fort and saw some of the historical spots made famous by events in the Indian wars. All the buildings are rapidly going to ruin, the roofs of many of them having already fallen in and no one seems to be living around there except an Indian family or two.

In following up Anna creek we passed along the edge of the deep canyon through which the stream flows. It is very deep and narrow with perpendicular rock walls on each side and the scene was so grand and awe-inspiring that we had to stop several times to get out of wagon and step over to the edge and gaze down into the dizzy depths below to examine it in detail. At the head of the canyon, about 2 1/2 miles from Crater Lake, the creek issues in quite a large stream like an immense spring from the side of the mountain.
