The way to build up Oregon City is to give Oregon City people your patronage.

A LIVE BOARD OF TRADE.

That Oregon City is the only town in Oregon that has a board of trade able to get out a quorum when needed, is truly a compliment to this city, and proves that our town possesses more life and energy than any other place in the state. Such has been the apathy that has fallen upon the various boards of trade in this state, that even the chamber of commerce of Portland, which formerly was one of the most active and prosperous associations in Oregon, has of late been unable to muster a quorum for business.

To the officers of the Oregon City board of trade is largely due the credit of holding together our organization, and especially to President E. E. Cross, the board has a president, of whose ability and energy there is no question, for he has served before both as president and secretary of the organization, and has the record of being one of the best officers the board ever had. President Cross' industry and resources are almost unlimited and the members of our board can rest assured that there will be some new proposition brought up at each meeting whereby the interests of Oregon City can be advanced.

Mr. J. G. Pillsbury, the new secretary, is known as one of the most progressive and public spirited men in town, and as a collector he has few equals. This latter qualification is a most important one, for a well-filled treasury is the life of a board of trade as of any other organization, and it is a matter of congratulation that the board is able to receive his services.

Of the treasurer, Mr. E. E. Donaldson, it can be safely said that he will make an efficient officer and will use his best endeavors to assist in making the board of trade a leading factor in the growth of Oregon City and the development of Clackamas county.

FOR AN OPEN RIVER

The effort of the Oregon City board of trade to organize a Willamette waterway association is a movement of great importance to this section of Oregon. A deep water channel from Portland to Oregon City with all-the-year-round navigation on the Upper Willamette and its chief tributaries would do more to advance the development of the counties drained by these streams than any other undertaking that could be inaugurated.

A ship channel from Portland to this city would enable Oregon City to become the great, and in fact the only, cotton manufacturing center on the Pacific coast. With the completion of the Nicaragua canal, which will take place at no distant day, cotton ships could come direct from New Orleans or Mobile to Oregon City, without breaking cargo and return with a load of our manufactured goods, lumber, fish, etc., thus increasing the demand for the products of these two great sections of our country as well as to cheapen them to the consumers. The gathering of a great factory population at Oregon City would of itself be a powerful factor in bringing a greater prosperity to the people of the Willamette valley, for it would afford a home market that could be easily reached and at a mere nominal cost in transportation expenses.

It is of equal importance to the other towns, as well as the farming sections of the Willamette valley that its rivers be rendered navigable at all seasons of the year. There is little likelihood that competing railroads will ever be built through this section, for it is pretty well supplied with railways now and no new company will come into a field where they would have to meet both rail and river competition. With the opening of the Willamette river and its larger tributaries and with the railroads now built there would be no section of the United States provided with better transportation facilities or one in which the charges would be more reasonable and just. The general government improves only such streams as there is a demand for and if the people of the Willamette valley never bring the needs of their rivers before congress in a way to insure attention the Willamette will continue to remain in the semi-navigable condition that it now is in. The only way that we can get recognition at the hands of congress is to unite in a solid body and bring such pressure to bear on our conventions, legislature and through them on our congressional delegations as will secure to the Willamette river the appropriations that will enable the general government to make it a navigable stream such as our growing needs demand and must have.

The monkey and parrot time that is now going on at Salem but emphasizes the fact that such performances will continue to be enacted and the taxpayers held up until the senatorial election is taken out of the hands of the legislature. These hold-ups that periodically occur in our legislatures are but hastening the day when there will be such a popular demand that congress will be compelled to pass this amendment and free the state legislatures from this handicap.

A SENATORIAL fight does make queer bed-fellows, as is now witnessed at Salem, where Simon, Bourne and U'Ren have formed a tripartite alliance to hold up the legislature and prevent the re-election of Senator Mitchell. With all their obstructive tactics Mr. Mitchell's chances are yet good for reelection, though they have been able to postpone the balloting for another week.

SINGULAR DREAMS.

A MAN WHO HAD THEM ASKS FOR THEIR INTERPRETATION.

Though Very Ill He Learned From Visions That He Would Recover—Dreams of Struggles, and the Next Day He Was Very Sore—On the Sea of Galilee.

Dreams are not without significance, especially to those who have a high set purpose in life. And as this subject is of interest to many I will relate a series of dreams in my own experience to which possibly some one can give a clearer interpretation than I.

Having been taken very ill in winter and this being my second attack, all my friends and associate physicians said I was at death's door and it was not possible for me to recover. It meant but a few hours, or days at the most. I was unconscious at times, but through it all the idea was firmly rooted in my mind that "there is more life for me, and I cannot, I will not go."

There followed four days of complete darkness, and when a little natural sleep came it was accompanied each night for three weeks by a dream of my encounter with some vicious animal—beginning with a bull, then a bear and next a large mastiff. This order never varied. When the bull came toward me, I easily and quickly vaulted the fence as he pinned it below me. In my encounter with the bear I grabbed him by the throat and threw him on his back, thus getting safely away. (Next morning theiceps and spinators of my arm were so sore that they had to be rubbed.) Next the mastiff approached. I quickly grasped him by the larvix till I could get hold of his tongue. This grip seemed to affect the muscles of my wrist and hand alone, which were just as sore and stiff as formerly.

After the expiration of the three weeks I had no dreams whatever for a few nights. When they returned, I became more and more worried, until, after the last one, something said to me: "This is good, not evil. You are surely a conqueror." However, not much physical improvement was visible.

In the next dream I saw a blue and white light growing into a crown, in which the word "Power" in bright letters was inscribed. This seemed to give me hope, also strength and courage, and I felt somewhat better.

Three nights later I dreamed of being on the lake of Galilee, in the boat with Christ and his disciples, and such a picture as lay before me is hard to describe. The disciples seemed agitated, the sea was rough, and the boat frail; yet I was calm. The disciples looked at me and then at the sleeping Christ, but did not speak. I was half reclining, but why so calm I knew not. Presently the spokesman of the group arose and whispered to the rest, and as they all got up he touched Christ and said, "Master, carest thou not that we perish?" Christ's face, as he arose and rebuked them, wore an expression of mingled gentleness, sternness and pity. I was thrilled as he held out his hand, with a graceful movement and said, "Peace, be still." Then came a remarkable calm—a beautiful sunset on a sea of glass.

I awoke feeling much better and with strong hope. My improvement was very noticeable from this time forward. Then came a lull, which was followed by dreams of a different character for another period of three weeks. I heard glorious music by a full voiced choir, commencing regularly at sunset and continuing until I was soothed asleep. I felt more vigorous after this experience. Then, for the next three weeks, I saw only a beautiful blue and white light, just as I fell asleep.

As I went about, obliged to mingle in the affairs of daily life, I had no dreams for quite awhile, being somewhat worried by business and other cares. Finally my will again asserted itself. Then began, lasting for three weeks, a series of wonderful texts and sayings, which were given to me by a voice sufficiently audible to arouse me in the morning. They would frequently ring in my ears all day. This seemed to give me power over myself and others. Then I began to get messages and impressions from friends at a distance.

Lastly, approaching my office one morning after leaving the car, I seemed overwhelmed by a condition in which I was very happy and unconscious of my surroundings. When I reached the office, I felt a desire to be alone for a few minutes. I sat down, and my eyes closed, when I saw a beautiful, large star, and while I was looking at it a voice said audibly, seven times, "Let the light of life shine forth in you."

Next morning the same condition came at precisely the same place, lasting until the office was reached. This time I saw a beautiful moon and heard a voice speak the words seven times, "This light of life, so free, is yours." The moon disappeared, as the star had done, after the seventh time. I felt very sleepy and dozed for about three minutes.

It would seem that in these occurrences the regularity of the appearances and of the number of times in each case is worthy of note.—Metaphysical Magazine.

The New Woolens.

The winter's woolens are handsome and varied. Iridescent effects, rich heather mixtures and boucle effects are numerous, having, for example, a medium or dark woolen ground variegated by contrasting threads of silk, or the foundation is a blue or deep red, for instance, with a very shaggy raised design of glossy black wool on the surface. These materials will be much worn, with the small addition, perhaps, of a corded silk vest to match the silk intermixture or else the background. Very little decoration is needed for these showy textiles.

In no European country have so many illustrious English dead been buried as in Italy.

The Marketing Point

OF CLACKAMAS COUNTY

The factory towns of the East are noted for affording the best market to the neighboring farmers and gardeners in proportion to the population of any of the towns in that section. The reason for this is that the people of these towns have a fixed income upon which they can always depend, and, as a consequence, they are liberal buyers, paying cash for all their purchases.

As the Great Manufacturing Center of the Pacific Coast

.. OREGON CITY ..

Is Coming to be One of the Best Marketing Towns in the State

This is proven every day by the number of farmers, who are to be seen on its streets selling their produce, who, until just the last few years, sought the markets of other towns. The system of macadamized roads that is being built into all parts of Clackamas county, will enable all the people of this county to share in the profitable market that Oregon City affords. If, as it is sure to do, the demands of Oregon City increase in the next five years as it has in the past five years, this city will rank next to Portland as a market place for
