If you've been able to save up a little money out of your earnings it is very discouraging to be compelled to use that little for the purpose of furnishing your house—you'd almost prefer going without the furniture, but you needn't do that. You can buy the furniture, carpets, stoves, crockery, etc., of us on credit. We won't charge you a penny more for them than you'd have to pay cash in any other store. OFF FOR SCHOOL.

Places Where Oregon City Boys and Girls Will Seek Knowledge.

Vacation is almost over and the boys and girls are once more preparing for school. No town in the state sends out more students to the various institutions of learning throughout the state, according to its population, than does Oregon City. The following is a partial list of the students who will go out of the county to school:

Fred Charman will matriculate in the Agricultural college at Corvallis at the beginning of the school year September 20.

Jennie Noble will attend the State Normal school at Monmouth.

Joseph and Will Garrow, who graduated from the Parkplace school last year, will attend the Corvallis college.

Howard Brownell will attend Pacific university at Forest Grove again this year. This is Howard's second year. He is preparing himself for journalism.

Edna Rugg will enter upon her third year at Portland university and the junior year of the college course.

Cora Lemon will not return to Portland university before the first of next year on account of sickness.

Gilbert Beattie, who is preparing himself for the profession of teaching, will enter upon his second year at the State university at Eugene.

J. H. Carrico will attend the State university, this being his fifth year and third year of regular college work or junior year. At the close of his college course he will take up the study of medicine.

Nannie Wilkinson will matriculate in Pacific university at Forest Grove. She is preparing herself for the foreign missionary service.

Thompson Meldrum, a member of last year's graduating class in the Oregon City high school, will attend the Portland academy this year.

Orvilla Boring will attend the Portland university, entering upon his third year in that institution.

A. D. E. Elmer, of Clarks, will take his third year's course in the State Agricultural college at Pullman, Washington.

Mr. Elmer enjoys the distinction of being one of the best amateur botanists on the coast, having made a collection of the flora of Washington consisting of 232 varieties, which he has nicely mounted and labeled and sells at $15 per set. Colleges and schools can obtain them by addressing Mr. Elmer at Pullman.

Ed. Newton will attend the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, where he is taking a course in dentistry. In addition to being well up in his class he is one of the leading foot ball players of the Quaker City.

Waldo Adams will go to the Portland academy this year.

Charles Galloway, a graduate of McMinnville college, will take his second year course at Eugene.

Dan Tompkins will be a student at Portland academy.

John and Ada Moehnke, of the West Side, will enter Albany college this year.

C. E. Woodson, of Currinsville, who graduated last June from the State university in the classical course, and won the $150 prize offered for the best oration from the members of the graduating class, will act as tutor under Professor Young in economics and history.

Will Beach of Gladstone will enter upon his second year in the Agricultural college.

Fred Smith of Parkplace, will take the third year's course in the Agricultural college.

Dorothy Chase will attend Stanford university, this being her third year, while her sister Sade will matriculate in the same institution.

Daisy Lawrence will take her third year's course in the Agricultural college at Corvallis.

Cassie and James Eaton will attend the State Normal school at Monmouth.

Georgia Ruth of Milwaukee will go to Portland university for the second year.

Anna Mumpower will attend the State Normal at Monmouth.

Charles Chase will go to the Portland university, it being his second year.

Barry Eastham will take the second year's course at the Portland academy.

Myrtle Taylor will attend the Monmouth Normal school.

Fred Morey will attend the Portland academy. This will be his second year.

Charles U. Wilson, who is at present reading law in the office of Bauer & Greene, in Portland, will attend the State university law school in that city, this being his second year.

Fred Hedges will go to the State Medical college in Portland, taking his second year's course.

Fred Armstrong, who attended the Oregon City schools last winter, will attend the Portland business college this year.

LeRoy Case, who has held a position in George A. Harding's drug store during the summer, will attend the Portland business college this winter.

Robert Baker who graduated from the Willamette Falls school last June, will matriculate in the State Normal school at Monmouth this fall, his intention being to follow the profession of teaching. Robert will undoubtedly make a success of whatever he undertakes. Last year he walked a distance of three miles night and morning, up and down hill, besides doing all the chores at home, and graduated at the head of his class.

The many friends of Roy Sprague, who formerly resided here but left about a year ago to go on the training ship Adams at San Francisco, will be pleased to learn of his promotion from that vessel to the U. S. battleship Oregon, being the only one of the 45 applicants who could pass the necessary examination. In the navy, advancement is the reward of individual merit, and shows close application to the study of naval tactics.

The other young men who left this city to join the navy in San Francisco, are: Henry Joehnke, Charley Short, Arthur Quinn, Ed Ginther and Will McCord.

HELD FOR INDECENT EXPOSURE.

Three Boys Held to Appear Before the Grand Jury.

Last Friday Otto Shelly, Clarence Williams and Milo Brayton, three youths about 15 years of age, residing at Maple Lane, had a preliminary hearing before Justice Schuebel on a charge of indecent exposure, preferred against them by R. B. Franklin, in whose orchard the offence was said to have been committed. Deputy District Attorney Dimick appeared for the state and George C. Brownell was counsel for the defendants. Chas. Gordon, Wm. Whiteman, Joe Wilson, H. Hemelson, Mrs. Gordon and the Misses Franklin appeared as witnesses for the state, while Thomas Davis, George Mantz, Lewis Davis, Isaac Shortledge and a number of others, including the boys themselves, testified on behalf of the defense.

Near where the offense was alleged to have been committed is a swimming place in the Abernethy, where the boys of the entire neighborhood congregate and on this particular Sunday more than a score were said to have been in swimming.

The prosecution swore that Shelly, Williams and Brayton, after walking in the public road stark naked, and telling several persons that they were laying for some girls, got over the fence into the orchard and crawled up through the weeds until they were within two or three rods of Gordon and his wife and the two Franklin girls, who had been gathering fruit, but at that time were sitting in a circle on the ground under a tree resting, when the boys stood up and commenced to throw apples at the party under the tree until they were driven off by Gordon.

The defense admitted to going into the orchard in a nude condition but said they walked upright and denied all knowledge of there being anyone in the orchard at the time and said they were warned by Gordon of the presence of the ladies before they could be seen by them and that they immediately left the premises; also that they were in the habit of going into the orchard after apples when they came to swim but this was the first time they had not worn their clothes when getting the fruit.

It came out in the testimony, however, that these lads were in the habit of lying around in the public road in a nude condition, where men and women were liable to pass at any time and that several men did pass on this particular day while they were lying there like so many wild animals and exhibiting if possible less decency; also that in order to get into the orchard from the swimming hole the boys traversed a distance fully a quarter of a mile in full view of the public highway.

After listening to the testimony of a number of witnesses as to the previous good character of the youths, Justice Schuebel bound them over in the sum of $50 each to appear before the next grand jury. They immediately gave bail for their appearance and were released.

The parents of these wayward boys were greatly exercised over the fact that they were held to answer before the grand jury, alleging that they should have been discharged, etc.

If these parents had exercised a tithe of the care, in looking after their boys and knowing something of their actions when out of their sight, they have shown in the attempt to shield them from the consequences of their thoughtless and foolhardy actions they would have striven to some purpose and rendered their present effort unnecessary. To avoid the consequences of their rash act, said to be the result of a dare on the part of one of the boys the boys and their parents were upheld in their efforts to thwart the ends of justice by certain parties here in Oregon City whose pernicious advice probably prevented the boys from acknowledging their misdeed and making a confession which would have gone a long way toward giving the leniency that they could have had at the hands of the court had they been less obstinate.

There have been complaints from other parts of the county of boys overstepping the bounds of decency and manhood and the unpleasant notoriety and serious charges under which these boys are held should be a warning to all boys to conduct themselves as self-respecting, manly boys should.
