Many friends wish Mr. Groom success in his new home.

TEACHERS MEET.

Clackamas County Teachers Discuss "Directors" and Kindred Subjects.

The regular monthly meeting of the Clackamas County Teachers' Association was held in the Barclay school at Oregon City, Saturday, August, 28, 1897. Called to order at 10 o'clock by the president, H. G. Starkweather. The minutes of the previous meeting as prepared by the secretary, Fannie G. Porter, were read and approved.

The program of the day was opened by the association singing the national anthem, "America," Miss Nellie Younger acting as organist.

Mr. N. W. Boland read an instructive and interesting paper on "Summer Vacation." The speaker said: "Time and labor are the two oars by which a man propels his lifeboat toward the distant shores of achievement, and it is surprising to think how much is thrown away or wasted each year. Purpose and persistent industry make men keen to discern opportunities and turn them to good account."

A sweet song was admirably rendered by Miss Hettie and Mr. Robert Ginther. "Composition and Letter Writing" was the subject of a carefully prepared and clearly read paper by Miss Olive Lewelling. She quoted Richard Grant White where he says "if children were taught to speak correctly at home, there would be no need for them to study grammar when they enter school." This would be an ideal state of affairs, the teachers' work would be much easier, his responsibility lessened, and the child's happiness very much increased. A lively discussion followed participated in by Messrs. H. S. Strange, J. C. Zinser, E. M. Ward, L. L. Anderson, T. J. Gary and Alex Thomson.

On motion association adjourned until 1:30.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Called to order at 1:30. President H. G. Starkweather in the chair. The next place of meeting was then discussed at some length by several members of the association. On motion Concord was finally chosen as next place of meeting. "Practical Psychology" was the title of an able and scholarly effort presented by Mr. J. C. Zinser. The subject was considered from a practical standpoint. The teacher must understand child mind. His work is to interest, direct, mould and develop mind. How can he do these things without a knowledge of its nature? In all other occupations, he who does not understand the nature of the material upon which he works is considered a fraud. How much more is it necessary that the teacher be familiar with the nature of the mind.

The special feature of this session was a most excellent address entitled "Number in Nature" delivered by Rev. A. J. Montgomery of Oregon City, who is always a favorite lecturer on educational subjects. The address showed careful preparation. The speaker's object was to show, by means of concrete examples, that nature is built upon the numerical principle; and having established in the minds of his hearers that conviction, to draw therefrom a few lessons. If we notice how the leaves grow upon the stems of the plant we will discover a law for their classification and for determining their nature and we will also observe that there is a numerical principle in their disposition and arrangement. Some are placed alternately, others opposite and others spirally. In all cases there is perfect order.

The subject assigned Prof. T. J. Gary was, "The Director from the Teacher's Standpoint." The attention of the teachers was very profitably held during the presentation of this subject. The duties of directors are considerable and important. As a rule they neglect those things which ought to be looked after and attend to the nonessentials. Directors ought to be sure that the teachers they employ are good teachers. All directors should be competent to tell when they visit the schools, which they should do frequently, whether or not the work is satisfactory.

Following this interesting speech was a most general discussion in which Supt. H. G. Starkweather, W. W. Boland, J. C. Zinser, Ara McLaughlin, and Jennie Rowen took prominent parts.

The program now being exhausted and the hour being early, Prof. T. J. Gary handed in the following question: "Resolved, That school boards should act in accordance with the wish of the patrons of the school." H. S. Strange led in the discussion, followed by director J. G. Bonnet of Milwaukie. Quite a variety of suggestions were made and if the many directors of this county had been in attendance they would have been overwhelmed with the many good and bad things they might do to promote or retard the welfare of the schools over which they preside.

Prof. C. W. Durette, of Multnomah county, introduced a proposition favoring the organization of a state teachers' association separate and independent from the present association. After some discussion by members of the association a motion was made by H. S. Strange and seconded by T. J. Gary that the Clackamas County Teachers' Association endorse the proposition presented by Mr. Durette. The motion carried unanimously.

A pathetic recitation was nicely rendered by Miss Mollie Hankins.

President Starkweather appointed Alex Thompson, Olive Lewelling and Ara McLaughlin to prepare a suitable program for the Concord meeting.

On motion the association adjourned to meet at Concord the last Saturday in September. FANNIE G. PORTER, Secretary.

WILLAMETTE INSPECTED.

Congressional Party Make The Trip From Salem to Portland by Boat.

Representative W. B. Hooker, of Fredonia, New York, chairman of the house congressional committee on rivers and harbors, on invitation of Congressman T. H. Tongue, made the trip down the Willamette river from Salem to Portland last Saturday.

The congressional party was composed of Representative and Mrs. W. B. Hooker, Mrs. Thos. M. Moore, of Utica, New York, Miss Sarah Sessions, niece of Mr. Hooker, and Florence and Sherman Hooker, children; Congressman Thomas H. Tongue and daughter, Miss Bertha, and her friend, Miss Mabel Ainsworth, of Portland; and Capt. B. B. Tuttle, of Portland and Frank C. Middleton, representing the Oregonian. The Salem party consisted of J. A. Richardson, ex-Mayor P. H. D'Arcy, ex-governor Z. F. Moody, Councilman E. F. Parkhurst, Attorney J. A. Carson, Judge D. L. Henry, Bankers J. H. Albert and E. P. McCormack and Editor R. J. Hendricks, of the Statesman.

The O. R. & N. Co's. trim little steamer, Gypsy had been placed at the disposition of the party and left Salem shortly after 9: a. m., coming down the river as far as Newberg, where a transfer was made to the Ruth and the journey continued to Portland.

Mr. Hooker was a close observer of the channel of the river and expressed himself as surprised at the vast territory tributary to the Willamette and also at the comparative small outlay of money necessary to make the river navigable the year round.

When Oregon City was reached, on the invitation of Mr. Tongue, a board of trade committee consisting of President H. E. Cross, L. L. Porter, E. E. Charman, A. S. Dresser, J. G. Pillsbury, C. H. Dye, Charles Meserve, Col. R. A. Miller, Judge Wm. Galloway, J. W. Lewis, Judge J. C. Moreland and his daughter, Mrs. Mark Gill, boarded the boat and accompanied the party to Portland.

President H. E. Cross, from his conversation with Mr. Hooker, feels confident that that gentleman will use his influence in securing a liberal appropriation for the improvement of the Willamette.

A Cure For Bilious Colic.

The Blue and the Gray.

Both men and women are apt to feel a little blue, when the gray hairs begin to show. It's a very natural feeling. In the normal condition of things gray hairs belong to advanced age. They have no business whitening the head of man or woman, who has not begun to go down the slope of life. As a matter of fact, the hair turns gray regardless of age, or of life's seasons; sometimes it is whitened by sickness, but more often from lack of care. When the hair fades or turns gray there's no need to resort to hair dyes. The normal color of the hair is restored and retained by the use of

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Monthly Illustrated

Edited by ALBERT SHAW

"If only one magazine can be taken, we would suggest the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as covering more ground than any other magazine."—Board of Library Commissioners of New Hampshire, 1896.

THIS magazine is, in its contributed and departmental features, what its readers, who include the most noted names of the English-speaking world, are pleased to call "absolutely up to date," "thoroughly abreast of the times," "invaluable," and "indispensable." It is profusely illustrated with timely portraits, views, and cartoons. Its original articles are of immediate interest, by the best authorities on their respective subjects. The Editor's "Progress of the World" gives a clear, rightly proportioned view of the history of the human race during the current month. The "Leading Articles of the Month" present the important parts of the best magazine articles that have been written in every part of the world. The newest and most important books are carefully reviewed. Indexes, chronological records, and other departments complete the certainty that the reader of the Review of Reviews will miss nothing of great significance that is said or written or done throughout the world.

McClure's Magazine

For 1897

SEVEN GREAT SERIALS

A New Life of Grant by Hamlin Garland. The first authoritative and adequate Life of Grant ever published. Lavishly illustrated. (Begins in December.)

Rudyard Kipling's first American serial, "Captains Courageous." (Begins in November.)

Robert Louis Stevenson's "St. Ives." The only novel of Stevenson's still unpublished. (Begins in May.)

Chas. A. Dana. "Recollections of Wartime." Mr. Dana was for three of the most critical years of the Civil War practically a member of Lincoln's Cabinet, and is probably better fitted than any other man living to give an authoritative history of this period from his recollections and correspondence.

Portraits of Great Americans. Many of them unpublished. In connection with this series of portraits it is intended to publish special biographical studies under the general title of MAKERS OF THE UNION from Washington to Lincoln.

Picture of Palestine. Specially taken under the editor's direction.

Stories of Adventure. A serial by CONAN DOYLE, in which he will use his extraordinary talent for mystery and ingenuity which have, in the "Sherlock Holmes" stories, given him a place beside Poe and Gaboriau.

TEN FAMOUS WRITERS

Ian Maclaren. All the fiction that he will write during the coming year, with the exception of two contributions to another publication which were engaged from him long ago, will appear in McClure's MAGAZINE.

Joel Chandler Harris. A series of new animal stories in the same field as the "Brer Rabbit" and the "Little Mr. Thimblefinger" stories.

Rudyard Kipling. Besides "Captains Courageous," Kipling will contribute to McClure's all of the short stories he will write during the coming year.

Octave Thanet is preparing for the MAGAZINE a series of short stories in which the same characters will appear, although each will be complete in itself.

Anthony Hope Bret Harte Robert Barr Frank R. Stockton Stanley Weyman Clark Russell will all have stories in McClure's for the coming year.

These are only a small fraction of the great and important features of McClure's MAGAZINE for 1897, the subscription price of which is only

One Dollar a Year

The new volume begins with November. Subscriptions should start with this number.
