One of his daughters is the wife of Lieutenant Whiting of the United States navy. Failing in this he will probably join the procession to Klondike. Will is a bright, studious boy and he will honor the profession he has chosen to follow.

Clackamas County Hoored.

While politically, residents of Clackamas county have not won any great amount of glory or lucrative positions outside of their county, yet in educational matters they have attained the most flattering success and honor in many counties of the state. Our teachers appear to have been especially fortunate in gaining promotions in other schools, notably those of Portland where 30 former Clackamas county teachers are employed. That so large a number of our teachers should be drawn to the Portland schools might be construed by some to indicate that our schools were at a low ebb and not able to retain our best talent. Not being able to retain much of our best talent is true, for Portland pays higher salaries than the districts of this county can afford. This with the honor of teaching in a large city is an inducement that is hard to resist by our ambitious teachers. But as proof of the high standing of the schools of Oregon City it may be noted that no town in the state furnishes so many teachers for the Portland schools as this city. It may be further noted that the city superintendent and six principals were former teachers in this county, so it will be seen that an Oregon City recommendation has some force.

First on the list of Clackamas county teachers who have been honored by Portland is Prof. Frank Rigler, who was the efficient principal of the Oregon City school for three years, who is now city superintendent and has 27 schools and 257 teachers under his control. Of our teachers who have been honored with principalships, Prof. S. U. Daws is in charge of the Albina Homestead school, Prof. M. L. Pratt, of the Williams-avenue school, Prof. P. M. Weddell, of the Woodlawn school, Prof. C. Durette, of the Woodstock school, Prof. W. C. Alderson, Peninsular school, Ed D. Curtis, Sellwood school.

The following are the teachers from this county who will hold positions in the Portland schools for this winter's term and the schools in which they will teach: Albina Homestead school—Miss Kate I. Porter, Miss A. I. Cory; Central school—Miss A. E. Gray, Miss Hattie E. Monroe, Miss C. E. Ross; Clinton Kelly school—Miss B. M. Wells; Couch school—Miss E. M. Griebel; Failing school—Miss M. S. Barlow; Fulton school—Mrs. Nora Barney; Fulton Park school—Miss E. A. Habershaw; Fernwood school—Miss S. A. Allen; Harrison school—Miss G. Baird, Miss L. Ackerman and Mrs. N. Snook; Holladay school—Miss P. A. Eddy; North Central school—Miss F. Porter; Park school—Miss Helen News, Miss A. S. Ross and Miss E. L. Henley; Sellwood school—Mrs. H. B. Kerr, Miss E. C. Young and Miss A. G. Baird; Sunnyside school—Miss C. M. Breithaupt and Miss E. Dolan; Williams-avenue school Miss M. C. Brown.

The The The
Best. Rest. Test.

There are two kinds of sarsaparilla: The best—and the rest. The trouble is they look alike. And when the rest dress like the best who's to tell them apart? Well, "the tree is known by its fruit." That's an old test and a safe one. And the taller the tree the deeper the root. That's another test. What's the root,—the record of these sarsaparillas? The one with the deepest root is Ayer's. The one with the richest fruit; that, too, is Ayer's. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has a record of half a century of cures; a record of many medals and awards—culminating in the medal of the Chicago World's Fair, which, admitting Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best—shut its doors against the rest. That was greater honor than the medal, to be the only Sarsaparilla admitted as an exhibit at the World's Fair. If you want to get the best sarsaparilla of your druggist, here's an infallible rule: Ask for the best and you'll get Ayer's. Ask for Ayer's and you'll get the best.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS
Monthly Illustrated
Edited by ALBERT SHAW

"If only one magazine can be taken, we would suggest the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as covering more ground than any other magazine."—Board of Library Commissioners of New Hampshire, 1896.

THIS magazine is, in its contributed and departmental features, what its readers, who include the most noted names of the English-speaking world, are pleased to call "absolutely up to date," "thoroughly abreast of the times," "invaluable," and "indispensable." It is profusely illustrated with timely portraits, views, and cartoons. Its original articles are of immediate interest, by the best authorities on their respective subjects. The Editor's "Progress of the World" gives a clear, rightly proportioned view of the history of the human race during the current month. The "Leading Articles of the Month" present the important parts of the best magazine articles that have been written in every part of the world. The newest and most important books are carefully reviewed. Indexes, chronological records, and other departments complete the certainty that the reader of the Review of Reviews will miss nothing of great significance that is said or written or done throughout the world.

McClure's Magazine
For 1897
SEVEN GREAT SERIALS

A New Life of Grant by Hamlin Garland. The first authoritative and adequate Life of Grant ever published. Lavishly illustrated. (Begins in December.)
Rudyard Kipling's first American serial, "Captains Courageous." (Begins in November.)
Robert Louis Stevenson's "St. Ives." The only novel of Stevenson's still unpublished. (Begins in May.)
Chas. A. Dana. "Recollections of Wartime." Mr. Dana was for three of the most critical years of the Civil War practically a member of Lincoln's Cabinet, and is probably better fitted than any other man living to give an authoritative history of this period from his recollections and correspondence.
Portraits of Great Americans. Many of them unpublished. In connection with this series of portraits it is intended to publish special biographical studies under the general title of MAKERS OF THE UNION from Washington to Lincoln.
Picture of Palestine. Specially taken under the editor's direction.
Stories of Adventure. A serial by CONAN DOYLE, in which he will use his extraordinary talent for mystery and ingenuity which have, in the "Sherlock Holmes" stories, given him a place beside Poe and Gabrielian.

TEN FAMOUS WRITERS

Ian Maclaren. All the fiction that he will write during the coming year, with the exception of two contributions to another publication which were engaged from him long ago, will appear in McClure's MAGAZINE.
Joel Chandler Harris. A series of new animal stories in the same field as the "Brer Rabbit" and the "Little Mr. Tumblefinger" stories.
Rudyard Kipling. Besides "Captains Courageous," Kipling will contribute to McClure's all of the short stories he will write during the coming year.
Octave Thanet is preparing for the MAGAZINE a series of short stories in which the same characters will appear, although each will be complete in itself.
Anthony Hope Bret Harte Robert Barr
Frank R. Stockton Stanley Weyman Clark Russell will all have stories in McClure's for the coming year.

These are only a small fraction of the great and important features of McClure's MAGAZINE for 1897, the subscription price of which is only
