

PATRONIZE OUR HOME INDUSTRIES

The prosperous community is the one that within itself, most supplies its own people in their various needs, and by selling much and buying little, keeps its money from going abroad.

Our farmers and manufacturers would each have a better market for their products, if our people would encourage our local manufacturers by giving preference to their products over those imported from other places. Were such the practice, it would not be long until Clackamas county would be one of the greatest industrial centers on this Coast.

A Bullet In His Heart.
"It is generally thought that a man cannot live very long after getting a bullet in his heart," said a South Carolinian, "but there is an instance on record in my state of a man carrying a bullet in his heart five weeks before death. The matter is fully authenticated, the post mortem examination having been made by Dr. Curran B. Earle, a nephew of the late United States Senator Earle. The wounded man was named Tom Ferguson, and he was shot by a negro named Dock Chaney at Greenville, S. C. Ferguson lived five weeks, and at the post mortem examination a 32 caliber bullet was found firmly imbedded in the exterior wall of the heart. The cause of Ferguson's death was the inundation of the pericardial cavity, which impeded the action of the heart, which in plain English means that the cavity surrounding the heart was punctured and flooded to such an extent that the heart was prevented from beating. This carrying a bullet in the heart is a remarkable case, but the physicians were not able to say, without tedious research, whether it has a like in the medical records or not. A patient, it is said, may live several days with a wounded heart, and a metaphorical wound, however severe, may not shorten his life at all, but the cases, if any, where one carried a bullet in this sensitive organ so long are few and far between."—Washington Star.

Hurrying Him Up.
"Jack," said a pretty girl to her brother the other day, "I want you to do something for me, there's a dear fellow."

"Well, what is it?" growled Jack, who is the brother of the period.
"Why, you know that wig and mustache you used in the theatricals?"
"Well?"
"Won't you put them on and go to the concert tonight? Reginald and I will be there, and I want you to stare at me the whole evening through the glasses."
"You want me to do that?"
"Yes, and as we come out you stand at the door and try to slip me a note. Take care that Reggie sees you too."
"Well, I declare!"
"Because, you see, Jack, Reggie likes me, I know, but then he is awfully slow and he is well off and lots of other girls are after him. He's got to be hurried up, as it were."—Scottish American.

Dodging the Question.
It is dangerous to possess a reputation for superior knowledge or wisdom. It is hard to live up to it. Next in importance to knowing everything perhaps is to be ranked the ability to conceal one's ignorance.
"Brown," said Jones, "Smith and I, here, have had a dispute and have agreed to leave the decision to you. Which is right—'Tomorrow is Friday,' or 'Tomorrow will be Friday?'"
"Today is Saturday, isn't it?" said Brown, after some reflection.
"Yes."
"Then neither one of you is right." And he waved them aside.—Youth's Companion.

THIRD—For information, call on your neighbor and friend—the nearest ticket agent—and ask for a ticket reading via the Wisconsin Central lines, or address
