Economy and Extravagance
combined in our Air Tight Heaters.
Economical in labor, in fuel, in the care of the heater. Extravagant in results, as it gives more comfort to the square inch for the amount of fuel consumed than any other stove in the market. A full trial of the heater will convince the most skeptical of the truth of these statements. Prices from $2.75 up.

SUDDEN AND AWFUL DEATH. Two Men Drowned and Several Injured by the Collapse of a Dam.

The sudden collapse of a cofferdam, retaining a body of water 28 feet high, in station B canal of the Portland General Electric company on the West Side at 11:50 a. m. Tuesday, buried 10 men, who were working beneath it, in a seething mass of water and flying timbers, in which Jacob McComb and Anton Natterlin, lost their lives and five others were more or less seriously hurt. The injured are: Thomas Smith, spine injured; W. W. Smith, right leg broken; Harvey Little, left arm crushed and face bruised; Carl Norberg, head cut; Jacob Weedic, slightly bruised; while Alvin Richardson, Jacob Beim and W. M. Lewis were unhurt.

The Electric Company had recently built a bulkhead at the foot of the new extension to the power house about 100 feet below where the old bulkhead stood with the intention of extending the feed canal the whole length of the power station, and day and night for a week the work of taking out rock at the foot of the old bulkhead had been going on, until it was thought sufficient rock had been removed to permit the taking out of the timbers which was to have been done Tuesday night, after the water had been allowed to fill the space below so as to equalize the pressure of the dam.

Tuesday morning a gang of nine men under Tom Smith, as foreman went down to cut the bolts that held the bracing timbers preparatory to removing them in the evening. But the timbers had evidently rotted more than the company was aware of for just before noon they gave way under the strain with the result narrated above.

Fred and Theodore Miller, P. G. E. Co. boys, employed in Station B were among the first to arrive after the accident and, without stopping to consider the consequences, sprang into the water among the timbers and did heroic work in rescuing the unfortunate victims.

Dr. W. E. Carl, the company's physician, P. F. Morey, president, and H. W. Goode, manager, of the Electric Company, arrived soon after the accident occurred, and did everything in their power to alleviate the suffering of the wounded.

The Portland General Electric Company, immediately following the accident, drained the canal and put all their hands at work to find the bodies of the missing men. Supt. Pierce of the Wilamette Pulp & Paper Company, also generously sent their men to assist in clearing away the debris but it was in such a tangled mass that it was impossible to do anything with it with the water off, so it was turned on again and the timbers taken out by means of a large derrick. The work of clearing the basin was continued without interruption and at 3 o'clock a. m. Wednesday morning the body of George Natterlin was recovered. The search for McComb's body was prosecuted until 7 a. m. Wednesday without avail, when Supt. Pierce, on behalf of the Electric Company offered a reward of $20 to anyone who would find the body of the missing man. The water was again turned out of the basin and a hole made in the bulkhead in order to drain it as low as possible and the search continued until 2 o'clock when McComb's body was recovered by Joseph Bennett, who had been exploring the uneven surface of the basin for several hours.

The body of George Natterlin was taken to the home of his brother-in-law, Nick Storich and the funeral held at the Catholic church Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Father Hillebrand. The deceased was a young man about 22 years of age, unmarried and held in high esteem in the community.

Jacob McComb was removed to his residence on Ninth and Monroe streets, where the funeral was held Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. M. L. Rugg. Mr. McComb was 21 years, 5 months and 25 days old and leaves a wife and one child, besides his aged parents, to mourn his untimely end. The interment was in Mountain View cemetery.

The Portland General Electric Company bore all the medical and funeral expenses and will doubtless follow their usual custom of paying all reasonable demands for the losses sustained by reason of the sad accident.

Immediately on receipt of the news of the accident Coroner Godfrey and Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Porter empaneled a jury consisting of G. R. H. Miller, J. G. Porter, H. S. Gibson, W. A. White, Ezra Hutson and Daniel Lyons and repaired to the scene of the accident to investigate the causes of this unfortunate affair. They remained until the body of George Natterlin was recovered, when they went home for a little rest and returned in time to witness the recovery of the second body, when they adjourned until Friday, October 29, at 10 a. m., when the formal inquest will be held.

After the bodies were recovered 50 men were put to work repairing the damage and by 6 o'clock Wednesday evening water was turned into the canal and the various industries deriving power from the canal were enabled to resume operations.

The First Thanksgiving Dinner.

The first Thanksgiving dinner was celebrated in this country two hundred and seventy-six years ago, at Plymouth, Massachusetts. The whole American army was present—it numbered twenty men, Miles Standish, the backward lover of Priscilla, sat at the feast, while Priscilla served at the tables. The story will appear in the November issue of The Ladies' Home Journal. Here the Indians and whites sat down together by the tables set in the wood, and enjoyed the roasted turkey, beechnuts, clam chowder, fish, salad, cakes, fruit and other delicacies provided. It was at this historic dinner that the first oysters were served. The illustrations of the article show portraits of the Pilgrim fathers.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Regular November Term to be Convened Next Monday.

Hon. Thomas A. McBride, judge of the fourth judicial district, is in Astoria this week holding an adjourned term of court for Clatsop county. On next Monday, November 1st, he will commence the regular fall term for Clackamas county.

The docket contains 244 cases, 93 of which are law, 136 equity, and 10 criminal. Of the equity cases 23 are suits for divorce, in 15 of which the wife appears as plaintiff, and in eight the husband, showing that women either do more kicking or have more cause for complaint than men. For all the docket is so large but few cases were carried over from last term. When Judge McBride adjourned court in the different counties of this district last July the dockets were nearer clear of all than they had been before in years, but hard times and other causes have had the effect to multiply litigation.

There are five persons in jail awaiting the action of the grand jury.

Charles Thompson, for horsetealing and Richard Kuhnisch, held as a witness against Thompson.

James Fay, a hobo, held on a charge of sodomy, and Walter Prudence, a witness against Fay.

Bruce Minkler for horsetealing.

Pete Younger, who is serving a six month's sentence for indecent exposure, will complete his sentence the first of the week.

There are also ten other cases demanding the attention of the grand jury, bound over from justice courts, the principals being out on bail. They are:

M. Brayton, Otis Shelly and Clarence Williams for indecent exposure.

W. G. Allen, James Kernes and Charles Lescor, for assault with dangerous weapons.

Wm. Westburg and H. J. Lawter, for obtaining money under false pretense.

Robert Gardner, M. J. Walsh and George Austend, for burglary.

E. E. Martin, for forgery.

The following indictments were returned at the April term of court and continued for this term: Cass U. Barlow, for embezzlement.

C. Phiffer, for practicing medicine without a license.

Walter Wyland, for horsetealing; was tried some two years ago, but the jury disagreed and while waiting for another trial he broke jail and was only recaptured a couple of months ago.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with La Grippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into hasty consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in the store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottle at Charman & Co.'s drug store.

Money for Farmers.

When it comes to buying harness, saddles, whips or robes the prices and work to be had at Willey's harness shop cannot be duplicated in Portland. Repairing done in good shape and promptly. Full line of shoes carried and sold at bed rock prices. Shoe repairing attended to. Willey's longers and farmers hand made shoes have no superior. Call at his shop on Seventh street near the depot and see how big a dollars worth you can get.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c.

OUR CITY LAWS.

Revision and Codification of Ordinances Now Being Made.

The city council met in special session Friday evening for the purpose of revising the ordinances, no revision having been made since 1880. All members were present except Gault and Caples.

The ordinances as revised include a number of changes, the most important ones being as follows: Drug stores, grocery stores and restaurants, that sell liquor to be drunk on the premises, are required to pay a license of $50 a year each. Astrologers, clairvoyants and spiritualist mediums, who do business for money, are required to pay $5 a day for a city license; circuses must pay between $30 and $150 before being permitted even to parade the streets; pawnbrokers must pay $3 per quarter; auctioneers of jewelry $15 per day, of horses or cattle $1 per day, of real estate $5 per quarter; canvassers, except for Bibles, must pay $2 per day license. Poultry is added to the list of creatures not permitted to run at large, and any person is authorized to take offending animals to the pound. The use of sidewalks to display goods, or for advertising announcements, is prohibited. Property owners are required to keep the streets clean in front of their holdings. Smokestacks or chimneys of mills and factories are required to project at least 10 feet above near-by property, and to be equipped with spark arresters.

The regulations for public health are enlarged and made more definite, and the council committee on health and police is given plenary powers. Scarlet fever flags may not be removed until 20 days after they are placed, and diphtheria flags must remain at least seven days. There shall be no public funeral for those who die of smallpox. Children afflicted with whooping cough, mumps or chickenpox must not go to school until they shall have completely recovered. The same committee is given jurisdiction over nuisances that threaten health, and a long list of nuisances is legally defined and specifically prohibited.

The bicycle ordinance is modified so as to permit riding on the sidewalks where streets are muddy, upon the formal consent of the mayor and street committee. Assault and battery and other misdemeanors, that have heretofore been covered in this city only by state law, are now made offences against the municipality. The regulations as to vagrants have been made more specific, and "desolate" persons, whom the printer of the present ordinances put among the vagrants, are to be rescued from jeopardy, and the dissolute put under the ban.

Telegraph, telephone and electric light poles may not be erected, except by permission of the mayor and street committee, after written application shall have been made, and they shall not be permitted to interfere with the use of streets or private property. All such poles shall be painted a dark color to a height of six feet, and above that shall be painted white, and the city may remove them if they be not so painted after 14 days notice to the owner.

The final vote on the ordinances as revised will be taken at the regular meeting in November.
