THE CLOVE TREE.

How the Buds Are Prepared For the Uses of Commerce.

The clove tree is a native of the Molucca islands and belongs to the farspread family of myrtles. It is a tall, very handsome evergreen, with ovate, oblong leaves and purplish flowers, arranged in corymbs on short jointed stalks. The flowers are produced in great profusion, and when they appear, which is at the beginning of the rainy season, they are in the form of elongated, greenish buds. These unexpanded buds are the cloves of commerce, which derive their name from the Spanish word clavo, "a nail," so called from the real or fancied resemblance of the bud to a nail.

Sometimes the clove fruit appears in commerce in a dried state, under the name of "mother cloves." It has an odor and flavor similar to cloves, but is much weaker.

The flower buds are beaten from the tree and are dried by the smoke of wood fires and afterward by the sun. If the buds remain on the trees, the calices gradually swell, the embryo seeds enlarge and the pungent properties of the cloves are to a great degree dissipated.

Cloves consist of two parts, a round head, which is, in fact, the flower rolled up, inclosing a number of small filaments, and the four points that surround the flower and form the flower cup of the unripe seed vessel. When they are soaked for a short time in hot water, the flowers soften and readily unroll, so that all of the parts may be

The entire clove tree is highly aromatic, and the foot stalks of the leaves have nearly the same pungent quality as the calyx of the flower. -Philadel-

LIGHTNING BUGS.

Taken For the Enemy's Fire, They Led to a Pitched Battle.

G H. Bell, a prominent merchant of Liberty, Neb., told an interesting story of how a swarm of lightning bugs caused a shot and shell engagement between two armies during the late war.

"I was a member of the Twenty-fifth Ohio regiment," said Mr Bell, "and Mr G W Harris, whom I met on my visit here, was with the Fifty fifth Tennessee. I just discovered that we fought each other one night in May, 1864, at New Hope Church, Ga Lightning bugs in Georgia are more plentiful than watermelous in August by several millions to the square mile, and on more than one occasion they gave us trouble

"About 2 o'clock in the morning as the two armies lay in their respective works, 400 yards apart, a nest of bugs hove in sight, as we afterward learned. The armies were too close for pickets. Suddenly there was a flash of light. Each side thought the other had opened fire in some mysterious way, and we began to shoot. We blazed away at one another for an hour or more and Bedlam reigned with shot and shell. The timber between the lines was all killed as if belted with an ax. Fortunately no lives were lost "It was only the other day that I learned the extent of the damage caused by that swarm of lightning bugs. I asked Harris how long his side was firing, and he said until their ammunition gave out. We were in the same fix, and if it hadn't been for our poverty in this respect that engagement would have been terribly fatal."-St. Louis Republio.

DESPERADO CLARK.

ONE OF THE MOST REMARKABLE CRIM-INALS OF HIS TIME.

A Daring and Coolness That Have Seldom Been Equaled-Hanged at Last For Murder-The Refined and Pious Woman Who

There lived in this city until a few life had been linked with one of the for Salem at 8 a.m. Returning to Port most unhappy and yet most interesting land about 3 p. m. romances in the annals of this century's crime. She was the wife of John Clark, one of the most remarkable criminals of his time. Although a thoroughly respectable, well educated and high minded woman and a devout member of the church, she lived with him for years, tried her best to reform him, sought to protect him from the officers who were ever on his trail and was faithful to him to the end.

Clark was the son of a prosperous business man in Rochester. When he was a boy, he figured in all sorts of wild escapades, was arrested several times for small offenses and had developed into a professional crook before he was 20 years old. One of his most notable traits was his love of display He was small and slender, with clean cut features and black, curling hair He always wore a silk hat, a low cut vest, white kid gloves and small, pointed shoes that pinched his tiny feet. He also were several large diamonds on his fingers and shirt front. When he was still very young, but long after his reputation had made him a terror to the town, he eloped with his cousin, a beautiful young girl, carefully reared. It was a short honeymoon. The authorities were too hot on his trail to allow so, leaving her with friends, he set out again on his travels. From that time until his death his visits to his wife were far apart and uncertain. He was too busy carrying out his bold plans for robbery to stay long in the town Jailer John Cawthra of Rochester. who knew Clark well and was present when he was hanged in that town, in conversation recalled the desperado.

"Clark was the nerviest man I ever knew," said the old jailer "When he was on one of his visits in Rochester, he was walking one day through the arconspicuous. He was walking with a girl-he was a great man for the girlsand he was twirling a cigarette in his mouth. A big, strapping man passed them, looked back into the girl's face and smiled. That angered Clark. Without a moment's hesitation he drew a revolver from his pocket and fired. The bullet knocked off two of the man's fingers. Clark wiped the revolver with his handkerchief, put it back in his pocket, stopped to relight his cigarette. He was SATURDAY EDITION, 16 pages, . as cool as if nothing had happened, and there who dared touch him. They knew he was John Clark and that he wouldn't hesitate to fire again on the slightest provocation.

"Clark made a great deal of money from his robberies. He took something like $30,000 out of Mexico, most of it from a bank. He was arrested in one of the southern states and lodged in jail, but he escaped before he had been there a day Later he was caught in this city and locked up in the Tombs. How he got out no one knows to this day There were charges enough against him at the time to send him to prison for the rest of his life There are those who knew Clark well who say he made at least $100,000 by robbing houses and banks. He was, in my opinion, the most skill ful burglar of his time I well remem ber one night when a business man of Rochester was robbed by him. The man's house was on East avenue, the best street of the town Clark discovered that he kept a good sized roll of bank notes in his clothes all the time The man was in the habit of sitting up far into the night, and when Clark appeared on the scene to enter the house he discovered the owner in a dressing see his trousers, with his roll of bills in them, going swiftly through the air and out of the window He must have could not see for the moment the string and the stick. As soon as he had recov ered his self possession he ran out to look for the thief, but it was no use Clark was far away by that time.

"Clark was cornered in Rochester at last. He had just returned from one of his long tours of burglary through the country He was seen coming out of the house where his wife lived, and two Celtic word values, and also the way in or three policemen went in pursuit of which trish orators discount their own him. When they cornered him in an rhetoric A home ruler was haranguing alley, he turned and shot one of them

"All the time he was in jail awaiting the execution of his sentence to be hanged his wife was a daily visitor She is still a handsome woman, with an air of refinement and good breeding about her. He was the coolest man l ever saw on the scaffold. He walked up ing as if he enjoyed himself. 'Just wait till I finish this smoke and I'm ready. he remarked. They let him finish it.

"His death broke his poor wife's heart. I saw her two or three years aft erward, and she was wrinkled and old, and the gray was beginning to come in to her hair. She drifted to this city, and perhaps she is here yet."-New
