To "Pry."

Pry is not uncommonly used in this sense in the west and southwest of England. It is a local form of prise, to force open by means of a lever. You may "pry up" a nailed box lid with a chisel, "pry open" a fastened door with a crowbar, etc. Another American instance may be found in "Farm Life In New York," Scribner's Magazine, volume 17, No. 1, where a barn which must be moved was "pried up" by levers and jacks to enable a sled on runners to be placed under it.

Just as New Englanders, well nigh without exception, if not the people of the United States generally, speak and write of "prying open a box" and "pry-ing up a stone," so in this part of East Anglia do all but persons of considerable education. None of the glossarists of our local dialect that are accessible to me records the use of "pry" instanced above, but it is given in several English dictionaries, among them being Stor-month's, as if it were a common corrup-

The Marketing Point____

OF CLACKAMAS COUNTY

The factory towns of the East are noted for affording the best market to the neighboring farmers and gardeners in proportion to the population of any of the towns in that section. The reason for this is that the people of these towns have a fixed income upon which they can always depend, and, as a consequence, they are liberal buyers, paying cash for all their purchases.

As the Great Manufacturing Center of the Pacific Coast

OREGON

Is Coming to be One of the Bet Marketing Town in the State

This is proven every day by the number of farmers, who are to be seen on its streets selling their produce, who, until just the last few years, sought the markets of other towns. The system of macadamized roads that is being built into all parts of Clackamas county, will enable all the people of this county to share in the profitable market that Oregon City affords. If, as it is sure to do, the demands of Oregon City increase in the next five years as it has in the past five years, this city will rank next to Portland as a market place for
