PETERS-SCHLICKEISER.—At Wilsonville April 21, 1898, by Rev. H. Leiseman, Mr. Abbo Peters and Miss Mary Schlickeiser.

There was a joyful party at the home of Mr. Charles Schlickeiser on the afternoon of the 21st, the occasion being the marriage of this gentleman's admiable and accomplished daughter. After the ceremonies which Mr. Claus Peters and Miss Emma Harms acted as bridesman and bridesmaid respectively, a bounteous luncheon was served to all present, about eighty, and then the remainder of the day was spent in singing, games recitations and in keeping the throats moderately moist that had become dry in these various exercises. Mr. C. Toose, our able manager and neighbor, was also present, and being desirous of deeper research and more weighty reasoning than ordinary conversation affords, called upon the pastor for a speech; but this gentleman either believing that he had done his share of the work in the address delivered while tying the knot, or to much engaged mentally fighting the Spaniards, insisted on his constitutional right to shirk and so Mr. Toose was obliged to bear the load he longed to put on other shoulders. However he acquitted himself remarkably well. His remarks were well fitted to the occasion and when he closed, joined by his audience with three cheers for the young couple, he received the applause his speech had fully merited. Having inspected the many and costly presents presented to the young couple, the guests dispersed feeling good for having been at so pleasant a gathering and wishing the young couple a long and prosperous journey on life's matrimonial sea.

Whooping Cough.
I had a little boy who was nearly dead from an attack of whooping cough. My neighbors recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did not think that any medicine would help him, but after giving him a few doses of that remedy I noticed an improvement, and one bottle cured him entirely. It is the best cough medicine I ever had in the house. J. L. Moore, South Bergetstown, Pa. For sale by Geo. A. Harding.

A PIRATE'S FITTING END.

The Buccaneer L'Olonnois Was Tortured to Death by Indians.
In St. Nicholas, in his series of sketches of "The Buccaneers of Our Coast," Mr. Frank R. Stockton tells of the adventures of L'Olonnois, the Frenchman. While coasting along Honduras L'Olonnois ran his vessel ashore. Mr. Stockton says:

As it was impossible to get their great vessel off the sand banks the pirates set to work to break her up and build a boat out of her planks. But when they began the work they had no idea it would take so long to build a boat. It was months before the unwieldy craft was finished, and they occupied part of the time in gardening, planting French beans, which were ripe in about six weeks, and gave them some fresh vegetables. They also had some of the ship's stores, and made bread, thus managing to live very well.

L'Olonnois was never intended by nature to be a boatbuilder, and when the boat was finished it was discovered that it had been planned so badly that it would not hold them all, so they drew lots to see who should embark in her, for one-half of them would have to stay until the others came back. Of course L'Olonnois went in the boat, and he reached the mouth of the Nicaragua river. There his party was attacked by some Spaniards and Indians, who killed more than half of them and prevented the others from landing. L'Olonnois and the rest of his men got safely away, and they might have sailed back to the island where they had left their comrades, for there was now room enough for them all. But instead they went to the coast of Cartagena.

The pirates left on the island by their heartless companions were rescued by a buccaneering vessel, but L'Olonnois had now reached the end of his wicked career.

On the shores where he landed he did not find prosperous villages and peaceful inhabitants to be robbed, but instead he came upon a fierce tribe of Indians called by the Spaniards "bravos," or wild men. These people would never have anything to do with the whites. It was impossible to conquer them or to pacify them. They hated white men. They had heard of L'Olonnois and his buccaneers, and when they found this notorious pirate upon their shores they were filled with a fury such as they had never felt toward any other of his race.

Nearly all of the buccaneers were killed, and L'Olonnois, being taken prisoner, was put to death with most cruel tortures—a fate of which he had no right to complain.

For Young Men and Young Women.

There is nothing that will arouse the ire of a young man or woman so quick as to have inferior laundry work put off on them. They may dress ever so well, but if their shirt front or shirt waist is mussed their neat appearance is spoiled. The Troy Laundry makes a specialty of ladies' and gentlemen's fine work. There can be no better work than is done at the Troy. Leave your orders at Johnson's barber shop.

The Brave Soldiers.

The city turned out en-masse last Saturday to give the O. N. G. of Oregon City a parting salutation as they started for Portland to be mustered in the United States service. While it bore semblance of sadness, yet it was replete with enthusiasm. The vast throng that assembled at the depot to bid the boys good-bye and God-speed, felt the meaning of the occasion. Wives parted from their husbands, sweet-hearts from their lovers, sisters from their brothers and mothers from their sons. Many realized that it might mean the last sad good-bye and that they would never meet the brave soldiers again in this world. But above all the suppressed sobs and sadness, the patriotism of the noble women predominated and the encouragement given will nerve the soldier boys on to defend the stars and maintenance of the natural honor.

One of the principal events of the day was the presentation of a beautiful silk flag by the Women's Relief Corps to the company. Mrs. Edith Clouse made the presentation speech in a few well chosen and patriotic words. Her address was received with applause and cheering. First Sergeant J. U. Campbell received the flag on behalf of the company. The W. R. C. gave a banquet in Willamette hall. All the factories and stores were closed when the boys were ready to leave for Portland. It was the most enthusiastic gathering ever witnessed in this city.
