A SMALL BLAZE.

Fire Breaks Out in the Office of C. O. T. Williams. An alarm of fire was turned in last Tuesday afternoon for a blaze in the office of C. O. T. Williams, real estate and insurance agent. The fire boys responded promptly and notwithstanding the fire had gained considerable headway, they had it under control within ten minutes from the time the alarm was turned in. Fortunately there was no wind blowing at the time, otherwise there might have been a serious conflagration. The building was occupied by C. O. T. Williams and B. F. and G. W. Swope in the second story and by Mrs. Sladen and Miss Wishart as a millinery store on the first floor. All the goods from the millinery store were removed in time to prevent much damage. The office of Mr. Williams was badly burned, all his papers, desk and furniture being destroyed. B. F. and G. W. Swope suffered some damage by water to their law books. The loss is estimated at $500, as follows; Williams $250; Swope $50; Sladen and Wishart $50 and the building $150. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it caught in a waste basket in Mr. Williams' office, presumably from a cigar or cigarette having been thrown in the basket. The Oregon City fire department again distinguished itself, and but for their prompt action many thousands of dollars worth of property might have been destroyed.

No mystery about it. When the Shakers offered some time ago to give away a bottle of their Digestive Cordial to any one who might call at their New York office, there was a great rush and a great many people thought they were crazy. Subsequent events proved it to have been a very clever advertising transaction, for although they gave away thousands of bottles, it was in the end profitable; nearly every one that took a free bottle came back for more and paid for it with pleasure, saying they had derived better results from its use than from any other medicine they had ever used. There is nothing so uniformly successful in the treatment of stomach troubles as the Shaker Digestive Cordial, and what is better than all, it relieves at once.

Whooping Cough.

I had a little boy who was nearly dead from an attack of whooping cough. My neighbors recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did not think that any medicine would help him, but after giving him a few doses of that remedy I noticed an improvement, and one bottle cured him entirely. It is the best cough medicine I ever had in the house. J. L. MOORE, South Bergetstown, Pa. For sale by Geo. A. Harding.

Cramp in the Leg.

Many persons of both sexes are greatly troubled with cramp in one or both of their legs. It comes on suddenly and is very severe. Most people jump out of bed (it nearly always comes on either just after going to bed or while undressing) and ask some one to rub the leg. There is nothing easier than to make the spasm let go its hold, and it can be accomplished without sending for a doctor, who may be tired and in need of a good night's rest. When I have a patient who is subject to cramp, I always advise him to provide himself with a good strong cord. A long garter will do if nothing else is handy. When the cramp comes on, take the cord, wind it around the leg over the place that is cramped and take an end in each hand and give it a sharp pull—one that will hurt a little. Instantly the cramp will depart, and the sufferer can go to bed assured it will not come on again that night. I have saved myself many a good night's rest simply by posting my patients subject to spasms of the legs how to use the cord as above. I have never known it to fail, and I have tried it after they had worked half the night and the patient was in the most intense agony.—New York Ledger.

Peculiar Trade Customs.

The Armenians, who divide with the Greeks and Jews the entire mercantile traffic of west Asia, are accustomed to sit down and weep bitterly when they have sold any article of value, declaring that the purchaser has ruined them. The Jews, on similar occasions, rend their garments, which are worn purposely for such sacrifice, with still louder protestations of ruin. In Asiatic Russia the shopkeepers consider it incumbent upon them to at first refuse to sell their goods to any customer, and the latter is expected to employ himself at least an hour in persuading the merchant to deal with him. But the most remarkable custom is that which prevails among the merchants of Tibet, a regular hand to hand fight being required to take place between the seller and the purchaser on the disposal of any considerable quantity of goods, the former obstinately refusing the price to which he had first agreed, and the latter as resolutely forcing it upon him. It is not considered businesslike to settle matters until a few blows have been exchanged, after which they peacefully shake hands and the bargain is concluded.—Exchange.

He Wanted Sailors.

Lieutenant Carlin, the executive officer of the Vandalia during the terrible hurricane in the harbor of Apia, Samoa, was an enthusiastic ball player, and while the crew was at Mare island prior to their Samoan trip he had given the preference in the selection of sailors to those who could play his favorite game. During the hurricane, after the vessel struck the reef and the men were clinging to the rigging, with the surf sweeping over the deck, many of the men were washed overboard. Lieutenant Carlin determined to make a desperate attempt to carry a line from one part of the vessel to the main yard. Into the howling wind he shouted, "I want some volunteers—good sailors!" And out of the darkness a voice replied, "Lieutenant, there ain't no sailors here, but there's plenty of ball players!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Shady One.

Goodsoul—Why will you carry on as you do? Why aren't you more careful about the preservation of your reputation? Littlemind—Don't want to preserve it. If I could only get rid of it altogether, I'd be a mighty sight better off than I am.—Boston Transcript.

CASTORIA. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Pritchard

If anyone offers you

Linseed Oil or White Lead at less than the market price, don't buy it. Nothing is more easily adulterated than lead and oil—the one with whiting and the other with fish oil. You have noticed how the color in some houses fades and peels off in a year or two. For a dollar or two more that house could have been made to last four years instead of two.

The trouble all comes from saving (?) 3 cents a gallon on Linseed Oil and ¼ cent on White Lead.

We are selling Lead and Oil—pure Lead and Oil, too—at Portland prices, and if anyone offers it to you cheaper the chances are the quality is cheaper, too.

For the past seven years we have been selling Masury's Liquid Colors, and they have given universal satisfaction. It is without question the best mixed paint on the market. Masury will not use Linseed Oil in his paint without it is at least two years old, and old Linseed Oil is like old whiskey.

This year we have also Bay State Mixed Paint, at $1.35 per gallon, which is guaranteed to us, and we guarantee it to you. Try it—at the manufacturer's risk.

We have everything you need for painting—Brushes, Carriage Paint, Bicycle Paint, Bathtub Enamel, Varnish, Stains and Colors in oil.

Come in and get our prices.
