The Shakers of Mount Lebanon recently came to the front with their new Digestive Cordial, which contains not only a food already digested, but is a digester of food. MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED.

Impressivo Services Held at the First Congregational Church. Memorial day was fittingly celebrated by the people of Oregon City. Union memorial services were held at the First Congregational church, Rev. T. W. Butler delivering the address. The church was beautifully decorated and was crowded to its utmost capacity, the members of Meade Post, No. 2, G. A. R., and the Woman's Relief Corps attending in a body. The rendition of sacred and patriotic selections by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Strickler, was excellent. Mrs. Jennie White officiated at the organ. Rev. Harold Oberz, of the Methodist Episcopal church, opened the services with prayer, after which Rev. Dr. Butler delivered the memorial address, choosing for his subject Josh. 4, 6 and 7: "This may be a sign among you, that, when your children ask their fathers in time to come, what mean ye by these stones? Then ye shall answer them, these stones shall be for a memorial unto the children of Israel forever." Dr. Butler said in part: "To me one of the holiest days of the year is Memorial day, made holy by the baptism of blood and the spirit of redemption. The cries and clanking chains of four millions of human beings in slavery roe to heaven, and God Almighty held steady the arm of Abraham Lincoln till he signed that document, which forever set those men free; and we are here today to honor the men who, with musket and bayonet, saw that the job was well done. "We honor the memory of those who counted nothing too dear unto themselves that they might hand down to posterity a government which, under God, might be a government of the people, for the people and by the people. "No greater civil memorial is celebrated in the world than that we celebrate today—a memorial mingled with joy and sorrow. America has never been a warlike nation; we are a nation of citizens, and not of soldiers; we are a republic of men after the Washingtonian type, and not after the Napoleon or Caesarian type. When we have a cause to fight, and war becomes a necessity, we are capable of measuring up to the needs of the home, and fight like Napoleons—fight to win. "Every soldier's grave declares that our national privileges are blood-bought. They are the cost of liberty, equality, fraternity, unity, they are testimony to the fact that our laws, lands and institutions are worth dying for; they are a witness to the value of American citizenship. "We honor our heroic and patriotic dead by extolling the influence of their deeds. The battle for liberty blessed the north, but it did more, like every battle fought for liberty—it blessed the world. We honor our heroic and patriotic soldiers by being true men; true in fighting the battles of our day as they fought the battles of their day. The flower of a true and beautiful life is the flower to put upon the soldier's grave. "If we honor the soldiers of the war we must rally round the true flag in the moral battles being waged. The monument which I would place at the graves of our noble dead would not be a cold marble statue, but an honorable, wide-awake, honest, intelligent, moral, God-fearing American citizen. Let America honor God; credit him with our liberty, and praise him for our civilization." At the conclusion of the services the G. A. R. and W. R. C., escorted by the Parkplace band, marched to the Southern Pacific depot, where they paid their respects to a passing train of Dakota soldiers. Many of the business houses were closed on Memorial day. At 9 o'clock the pupils of St. John's school, carrying flags and flowers, marched to Grand Army hall, where addresses were made by Father Hillebrand, E. W. Midlam, commander of Meade Post, G. A. R., and Mrs. Edith Clouse, president of the Relief Corps. At 10 o'clock a procession was formed, G. A. Harding acting as grand marshal. E. J. McKittrick as chief of staff, and Fred Metzner and Franklin T. Griffith as aids. The procession marched to Shively's hall, where C. E. Cline, of Portland, delivered an address. The hall was crowded and the exercises were interesting. After the ceremony the procession re-formed and marched to Mountain View cemetery, where the graves of the nation's honored dead were decorated. Went Down at Sea. The sad news was received this week of the drowning of T. E. Holmes, who formerly resided in this city. Mr. Holmes was deputy collector of customs at Mary island, Alaska, and was transferred to Karluk, at which place he was to have held the same position. On February 5 he sailed from San Francisco for Kodiak on the supply schooner Alexander. The vessel never reached her destination, and it is supposed she foundered in one of the terrific gales which swept the coast in February. The Alexander carried in all eight men, and was laden with supplies for government stations. All hope for the safety of the vessel has been abandoned. Mr. Holmes was well known in this city and his death will be deplored by his many friends. He leaves a wife and three children, who reside in Spokane. His sisters, Mrs. D. O'Neil and Miss Holmes, reside near Oregon City.

Roy Kelly's Experience.

What came near being a serious accident occurred last Wednesday. Roy Kelly, son of H. L. Kelly, was returning home on his wheel from the Morey ranch and, when passing a farmer's wagon, in which were the farmer, his wife, and two children, the young gentleman's bicycle went over the bank. This frightened the team and the horses, wagon, family and all went over the embankment and down to the river. On being detached from the wagon the horses jumped into the river and swam to an island opposite. The wagon was badly demolished, but the family suffered only slight bruises. Master Roy, touched by the dejected look of the people, who were evidently in straightened circumstances, hurried home and, procuring what he had saved up lately $3. and getting $2 from his father, returned and presented it to the hapless country people who accepted it reluctantly, saying it was not caused by carelessness on Roy's part. SHULTS, of Winterset, Iowa, inventor and manufacturer of Shults' Safety Whistle Coughing, writes of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. "Two years ago an attack of LaGrippe left me with a weak heart. I had run down to such a state that I could not sleep or get on my feet. I tried everything and failed. I was down for another year, frequent sharp pains and palpitation of the heart. I was constantly afraid of sudden death, nothing would induce me to remain away from home over night. My local physician prescribed Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and in a few days I was able to sleep well and the pains gradually lessened, and finally ceased. I reduced the dose, having gained fifteen pounds, and am now feeling better in every way than I have for years."
