OUR LETTER FROM EUROPE

Mr. Stern Continues his Journey from Hamburg, Germany.

BUKAREST, Nov. 5.—In my last letter I was at Hamburg. Hamburg as other large European ports has more or less modernized buildings and is advanced in many of the latest inventions. Electric wires on most of the principal streets, but the old horse tramways and tram cars are still in use. In Hamburg as well as in most parts of Europe the laboring class of people are very poor and in many cases take the places of horses in pulling carts or carrying large packages which our American laborers would be looked upon as a beast, and the society for prevention of cruelty to animals would have to change its name and have their hands full to look after the welfare of the poor human beasts. Dogs are also called much in use there for the delivery milk. The cart that contains the cans of milk is a general rule about 10 times as big as the dog and built so that the dog pulls underneath at the front and the seller pushes it from behind. It is worth while watching the scene. When the dog, who usually is of the size of a New Foundland or a Russian hound, muzzled loose so as to be able to bark warns the pedestrians of his approach and turns the street corners better than a guide or a driven horse. These horses are having the best of care from their employers and they are very intelligent animals. Knowing from training, the places where the customers live, being trained by the masters and better fed than a human being. It is a very busy place and during the day all is bustling. The market place is also a place of interest to our Americans where curiosity has its biggest attraction there. There you will find the market women from different parts and their queer clothes and hair dressing especially would be of interest. The police are a fine lot and polite. At the custom house they don't worry you much or upset your things so that you can hardly repack them again. Everything is strict and orderly. The streets are the biggest part lit by electricity. The railroad people are all in uniform and most of them accommodate; once in a while you will run across one that will hardly give you a civil answer. The streets are most of them paved by cubic basalt blocks. There are of course lots of fine buildings, which would take too much time to describe, suffice it to say it is a very fine city. I left Hamburg for Berlin, which I happened to reach at night time and to see it by electric light. The railroad accommodations of the road, which belong to the government, are very poor and slow, but it is surrounded by a beautifully farmed and wooded country, orchards all along the railroad on either side of the track. Berlin, as is known to a great part of the world, is classed among the prettiest cities of the world, and well it may be. The streets are very clean and of the buildings there are too many to name and describe each in particular. I was delighted with it and as I said before having had a chance to see it at first by electricity. I will say that it enchanted me. The streets are lighted with both electricity and (welsbach patent) gas and make the places look doubly pretty. Electric street railways are also running, but like in Hamburg the horse car and buses are still occupying the biggest part of the traffic. Baggage from Hamburg on above 60 pounds has to be paid for as excess, and it comes very high. It is not as with our American railroads where they don't question you much about the size of your trunks etc., but allow you 150 pounds weight, and the swiftness of the trains which they call here express can be compared with our regular every-day trains. The passenger trains run about 20 to 25 miles per hour and the express about 30 to 35. The people of Berlin speak a very fine German and it is a pleasure to converse with them. I was much impressed with the place and the people and left for Vienna, another well-known city and well spoken of. Before reaching Vienna I stopped off at Dresden, (a city of print factories) but did not stop long enough to have anything particular to mention. Passed into Austria, at Bodenbach, where customs have to be gone through again, and as the monopoly of the tobacco and cigars belongs to the government they are very strict about it and they leave pass very little with each passenger. The Austrian people are also a very agreeable lot and nice people to deal with. There is a rivalry between the people of Vienna and Berlin as to the beauty of the places, advancement of civilization and latest and best inventions as well as improve. At a glance and even in a short stay it is hard to tell which can claim the biggest share, so that I will leave it to others that have been there longer for decision. I like them both. Before reaching Vienna I passed also two other well-known cities, Prague and Bruin. The corn crop in Austria was very poor this year, the stocks being only half grown.

On my arrival at Vienna it was all in mourning, there was not a building or a station all along the road that did not show its sorrow to the well-known and much beloved Empress of Austria. As I passed "Praterstrasse" the principal street of Vienna you could see nothing else but long black streamers hanging down from the very tops of the large buildings to within seven feet of the ground. The topic of the day was nothing else but the murderous assassination of the good and innocent Empress. Bookstores and other places were full of the Empress' photogravures and they sold like hot cakes. They were even printed on postal cards to be sent to friends and acquaintances all over the world. The grief was written on every face of the Austrians and well could they mourn. It seems the Royal family of the Emperor Francis Joseph is an unfortunate one indeed because there has been nothing but grief and misfortune in that family in the last few years. I have read with pride the letter of condolence our president sent to the Royal family and which was well looked upon by the people.

The weather was excellent and everything looked busy. Beer of the best and in plenty can be enjoyed there as well as in all Austria. The German and Austrian women are much healthier and prettier looking than our English sisters and are a better build also. Yet they are hard working women, the ones of the lower class. They work as hard as the men, pull loaded carts and carry heavy things like beasts.

Died.

Hedges.—In Seattle, Wash., Nov. 30, 1898, Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Hedges, wife of the late Capt. A. F. Hedges, aged 68 years.

Elizabeth Jane Hedges was born in Marion county, Indiana, in 1829, a member of a family of five children, the only survivor being William Barlow, of Barlow, Oregon. She was a daughter of Samuel K. Barlow and Susanna Barlow, (nee Lee) the latter of whom was a cousin of General Robert E. Lee.

In 1836 she went with the family into Illinois, where she remained 'till 1845. In the latter year the family on March 30, started on the long journey across the plains, and arrived in Oregon City on Christmas eve. In 1847 she was married to Captain A. F. Hedges, a pioneer of '45. Twelve children were born to them, of whom eight survive their mother.

She was a member of the Protestant Episcopal church and a thorough, unselfish and perfect christian.

The funeral services will be held at St. Paul's church, this city, Saturday, at 1:30 o'clock.

Mumpower.—At Stone, this county on Tuesday, Nov. 27, 1894, Roy, aged 2 1/2 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Mumpower.

Roy was a bright little fellow and the bereaved parents have the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends and acquaintances. Mrs. H. S. Sladen and Mrs. Clarence Porter are sisters of Mrs. Mumpower.

Married.

SALISBURY-BRACKEN.—In Portland, Nov. 24, 1898, by Rev. P. K. Hammond, Miss Estella Bracken and Mr. Henry Clay Salisbury.

A happy event took place at the home of Mrs. Van Winkle, in Portland, on Thursday, in which Miss Estella Bracken and Mr. Henry Salisbury were made husband and wife. The beautiful Episcopal service was used in full being performed by Rev. Paul K. Hammond, of St. Paul's church, this city.

Miss Bracken has for several years been a resident of Gladstone, being connected with the public school at that place, and is considered one of the leading instructors of the county, while Mr. Salisbury is employed in the Pope Hardware Company's store, and is a young man of sterling worth.

The young people enter upon their newly wedded life with the good wishes of a host of friends. They will reside in Gladstone.

Other High Mountains.

"I suppose," said a Britisher once to a returning American tourist, "I suppose while you were in Switzerland you admired its noble mountains?" "Switzerland—mountains—" answered our countryman, reflectively; "well, yass; now I come to think of it, I did pass over some rism" ground out there."

Our own literature, like our own hills, is to us the only mountain in the world. Yet other lands and peoples have also had great literatures, even in the far past, and it would not be conceding too much to say that many of them loom up grander in the horizon of the world's thought. We can well learn this lesson from the volumes of Charles Dudley Warner's "Library of the World's Best Literature," where we have furnished to us by competent authorities the histories of all the chief literatures the world has known. These articles are not written in pedantic or technical style, suitable only to the special student, but are clear, graphic and popular in the highest degree, and capable of yielding delight as well as instruction to the average reader. Nor shall we wonder at this when we reflect that a people's literature is the highway of its progress as well as of its inner thought. So it is with phases of literature, such as the Arthurian legends, national ballads, folk-lore, fables, etc., all of which are treated in this comprehensive "Library" by specialists who have been long devoted to them.

It is delightful beyond all experience to wander in these realms of thought in the company of such guides. New worlds of enjoyment, with even higher mountains than our own, open up at brief intervals to charm and enrich the mind. Especially pleasant it is to be introduced also to great authors and their works, as we are in over one thousand critical essays, by living writers of distinction who understand and can explain them. The biographical dictionary of authors, the analyses of the world's great books, the masterpieces of prose and poetry from every land and period, are all so many features that supplement and irradiate each other and the reader's intellect.

The fortunate ones who are prompt may now obtain sets of the introductory edition, at prices and on terms far below what the publisher will soon insist on.

A postal card with name and address will elicit full information. W. G. Gilbert, 50 McKay Building Portland, Oregon.

The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of Women Should Know It.

Many women suffer untold agony and misery because the nature of their disease is not correctly understood. They have been led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for the many ills that beset womankind.

Neuralgia, nervousness, headache, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, rheumatism, a dragging pain or dull ache in the back, weakness or bearing-down sensation, profuse or scanty supply of urine with strong odor, frequent desire to pass it with scalding or burning sensation, sediment in it after standing in a bottle or common glass for twenty-four hours, are signs of kidney and bladder trouble.

The above symptoms are often attributed by the patient herself or by her physician to female weakness or womb trouble. Hence, so many fail to obtain relief, because they are treating, not the disease itself, but a reflection of the primary cause, which is kidney trouble.

In fact, women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble and both need the same remedy.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is easy to get at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar.

To prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Kindly mention the Oregon City Enterprise and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y.

TEACHER'S ASSOCIATION.

Held At Sunnyside on Last Saturday and a Pleasant Meeting Had.

The November meeting of the Clackamas county teacher's association was held in the school building at Sunnyside on Saturday Nov. 26, 1898.

A gratifying feature of this meeting was the large number of residents of the vicinity who were present and showed marked interest in the discussions. As the president and vice-president of the association were absent, the meeting was called to order by the secretary, Fannie G. Porter. Mr. R. C. Strange was elected president pro tem. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Miss Kate Casto and Messrs. Ingram and Stahlacker were elected to membership in the association. It was decided to hold no meeting in December. Miss Kate Casto invited the association to hold the January meeting at Mt. Pleasant. The invitation was accepted and Miss Casto, Mr. Moore and Mr. Zinsee were asked to prepare a suitable program for the occasion.

The regular program was opened by singing "America." Miss Hunter presiding at the organ. Mr. Shirley Buck made an excellent talk on "Orthography." He dwelt on the importance of making corrections before the whole class. Misses Porter, Carto and Rowen, and Messrs. Moore, Stahlacker, Sumner, Wilds, Strange and Zinsee took part in the discussion which followed.

On motion the meeting adjourned to discuss an excellent dinner, which had been prepared for them by the good people of Sunnyside.

Afternoon session called to order at 1:30 by Acting-president A. C. Strange. The people of Sunnyside sang the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," followed by "Seeds of Promise."

"Diagraming" was the subject of a talk by Miss Jennie Rowen. She spoke of the desirability of a teacher following the exact system of the textbook. The following persons also spoke on this subject: Misses Porter and Francis, and Messrs. Zinsee, H. S. Gibson, A. C. Strange, Rowland, L. L. Moore, Ingram and Stahlacker.

Prof. J. C. Zinsee made an interesting talk on "Fractions." He emphasized the importance of explaining this subject by the use of objects. Every test should be applied to the example under consideration. He gave a most excellent plan of presenting complex fractions. The subject was discussed by Messrs. Gibson and Rowland.

Kind words of encouragement to the work of the association were spoken by Messrs. James Reselien, Thomas, Wiles and Charles Moll.

A resolution "thanking the good people of Sunnyside for the cordial welcome and royal hospitality given the association" was passed unanimously.

The pupils of the school sang "God and Home and Liberty."

On motion the association adjourned to meet again the last Saturday in January at Mt. Pleasant.

The program will be published later. BERTHA M. GIBSON.

Educational Association.

The Marion county Education Association will meet at Butteville next Saturday, December 3. The teachers of Clackamas county are invited to attend. Free transportation to and from all trains from Aurora. The program is as follows: "Reading Circle Work," A. C. Staubrough; "School Legislation," Hon. J. W. McCulloch; "Rhetoricals," H. L. Bents; "Geography," W. J. Crawford; "Reading," Miss Adda Pugh; Lecture.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. Sold by Geo. A. Harding.

Dwarfs and Poison.

Henry M. Stanley, in describing his journey through the forests of Africa, says that the most formidable foes he encountered, those that caused the greatest loss of life to his caravan and came nearest to defeating his expedition, were the Wambutti dwarfs.

These diminutive men had only bows and arrows for weapons, so small that they looked like children's playthings, but upon the tip of each tiny arrow was a drop of poison which would kill an elephant or a man as surely and quickly as a rifle. Their defense was by means of poison and traps.

They would steal through the dense forest, and waiting in ambush let fly their arrows before they could be discovered. They dug ditches and carefully covered them over with sticks and leaves. They fixed spikes in the ground and tipped them with poison. Into these ditches and on these spikes men and beast would fall or step to their death. One of the strangest things about it was that their poison was mixed with honey.

Gratitude.

When Lord Charles Beresford was a midshipman, he performed a gallant act for which he subsequently received a medal. His vessel lay in the Mersey and numerous visitors came on board in order to look over the ship. As a boat containing a man weighing 350 pounds was getting alongside it was suddenly swamped, when Lord Charles jumped overboard and seized the occupant just as he was sinking. The gallant rescuer kept the man afloat until help arrived, and both rescuer and rescued were taken on board the man-of-war.

The man whose life had been saved maintaining a glum countenance and showing no great enthusiasm for his rescuer, some one remarked to him, "You don't appear very pleased at having been rescued from drowning."

"Ugh!" he exclaimed in a tone of disgust, glancing first at his own portly proportions and then at his rescuer. "He was such a little un!"

Theaters in Spain.

Theaters in Spain have no programmes. A bill in the lobby sometimes gives the cast, but most of the actors remain unknown by name. The curtain is devoted to advertisements, and in Madrid theaters advertising cards are affixed with the numbers on the back of each seat.

Two Pointed Questions Answered.

What is the use of making a better article than your competitor if you cannot get a better price for it?

Ans.—As there is no difference in the price the public will buy only the better, so that while our profits may be smaller on a single sale they will be much greater in the aggregate.

How can you get the public to know your make is the best?

If both articles are brought prominently before the public both are certain to be tried and the public will very quickly pass judgment on them and use only the better one.

This explains the large sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The people have been using it for years and have found that it can always be depended upon. They may occasionally take up with some fashionable novelty put forth with exaggerated claims, but are certain to return to the one remedy that they know to be reliable, and for coughs, colds and croup there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by Geo. A. Harding.

The John F. Stowe Uncle Tom's Cabin will be the attraction at Shively's theater. Seats on sale at the postoffice.

SICK HEADACHES.

The curse of overworked womankind are quickly and surely cured by Karl's Clover Root Tea, the great blood purifier and tissue builder. Money refunded if not satisfactory. Price 25 cts., and 50 cts. C. G. Huntley, the Druggist.
