THE LOCAL NEWS.

A BAD ACCIDENT.—Mrs. Rosamond Schuebel was out in the country and started to get a fence and falling, broke her wrist, two ribs and dislocated her jaw.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.—Two sons of A. C. Walls, one aged ten and the other fourteen, were making an anatomical examination of one of those unloaded revolvers, when they had finished one had a hole through his finger and the other through his arm.

LOST HIS MONEY.—Walter Sheppard, of Arthur's Prairie, above the hatchery, was robbed of $380, gold coin the last of the week. He had gone to Portland on business but his boys were at home and saw no one around the place.

ABERNETHY ROAD.—On last Thursday Geo. Armstrong came to town and took the county court out to look at the Abernethy road in the vicinity of Vosberg's. There are two bad hills on this road, Vosberg's and Berry's and it is the desire of the people in this vicinity to avoid these places.

Lancing a Felon. Dr. Stivers of New York had a large abscessary abscess, and rarely a day passed that one or more cases of felon did not appear. "It won't hurt," was always his comforting assurance to the patient if the latter made any outcry. "Put your finger down there," indicating the edge of the table, "and keep still!" he commanded, and patients, as a rule, made little fuss. Dr. Stivers once had a felon on his left forefinger. He poulticed it for about a week, and walked the floor with pain at night. At last he went to his assistant surgeon, who said gravely, "That ought to have been lanced before."

Stonewall Jackson at Chapultepec. The infantry suffered terribly. It was impossible to advance along the narrow track, and when the guns were ordered up the situation was in no way bettered. Nearly every horse was killed or wounded. A deep ditch, cut across the road, hindered effective action, and the only position where reply to the enemy's fire was possible lay beyond this obstacle.

Spurgeon's Blunt Critic. When Mr. Spurgeon first began his ministry, an anonymous critic used to write to him constantly about his mistakes in grammar and pronunciation. Mr. Spurgeon at first resented these criticisms, but he soon learned to profit by them. "After awhile," he said in telling the story, "I looked for his weekly memoranda with much interest. If I repeated a sentence which I had used two or three Sundays before, he would write, 'See the same expression in such and such a sermon.'"

Irving and Dogs. Some years ago, according to the London Ladies' Kennel Journal, Sir Henry Irving had a dog he called Midsommer Night's Dream. He thought it was a bull terrier and made a present of it to G. W. Childs. The animal was exhibited in a Philadelphia exhibition, where it attracted considerable attention. This roused the ire of the other exhibitors, and they declared that Midsommer Night's Dream was not a bull terrier, but a half bred bulldog. One of them wrote on a piece of paper, which was attached to the dog's kennel, "Henry Irving may know a great deal about Shakespeare, but he knows nothing about bull terriers."

Some Quaint Answers. Irish domestics are widely noted for their simplicity and their quaint remarks. A lady, desiring to make the most of her choice tap of table beer, the merits of which her servants had discovered, for it disappeared rapidly, thus addressed her Irish butler: "Daly, what do you think would be the best thing to do in order to save this beer as much as possible?" "Well, ma'am," replied the butler, "I don't think you could do better than to place a barrel of good strong ale close by the side of it." An Irish girl called at a house in London in answer to an advertisement for a general servant. "Have you a character?" asked the mistress. "Indeed, ma'am, I'm sorry to say I've no character. I had a beautiful wan when I left Ireland, but I lost it the night I crossed over to Holyhead in the steamer," was the laconic reply. An Irish manservant was discovered in a lie. On being accused by his master of stating what was not the truth, he excused himself by saying, "Please, sir, I lost my presence of mind."—London Standard.
