Death of H. S. Strange.

Henry S. Strange, most eminent high priest of the Royal Arch Masons of Oregon, and school superintendent of Clackamas county, died at his home in this city at 12 o'clock p. m., Monday, of cancerous complications and rheumatism aged 37 years. Mr. Strange's death was not unexpected. He had been wavering from bad to worse since he underwent an operation at the hospital nearly two months ago. After his return home he was afflicted with rheumatism, and altogether, was rendered helpless, and was unable to leave the house or to attend to the duties of his office. During his sickness, Mrs. G. M. Strange, his wife, acted as deputy school superintendent.

Henry S. Strange was born in East Tennessee, March 8, 1862. When five years of age he moved with his parents to Illinois, and four years later the family came to Oregon and settled on a farm near Wilbur, in Douglas county. He attended the Wilbur academy, afterwards taking a course in Willamette university. He was a young man of energy and application to his studies, and early became identified with the educational interests of the state. He served with credit as principal of public schools of Brownsville, Corvallis, La Grande and Oregon City. On June 27, 1889, he was married to Miss Gertrude M. Davis, the daughter of the well-to-do farmer, Caleb Davis, of Corvallis. Union county elected him superintendent of schools in 1890, which position he resigned to accept the superintendency of the Oregon City schools. From 1892 to 1896, he was deputy county clerk, when he filled the principalship at the Willamette Falls schools for a term of two years. In 1898, he was elected superintendent of schools of Clackamas county, which position he was occupying at the time of his death.

Mr. Strange was a prominent figure in the Royal Arch Masons, being, when he died, most eminent high priest of that order. He was also a past consul of the Woodmen of the World, and was a leading member of the Presbyterian church in this city. He had a wide acquaintance throughout the county and state, and his private and public life were without blot or blemish.

The funeral services were held in the First Presbyterian church Wednesday afternoon by Rev. A. J. Montgomery, assisted by Rev. E. J. Thompson, of Corvallis, after which the remains were taken by the Masonic lodge for interment. A large concourse of friends attended the obsequies, the Masons and Woodmen being present in a body.

A picked choir rendered appropriate music. The songs that were sung were those selected by Mr. Strange before his death, which were "Beatuteous Light," "Through Every Age," and "Lead Kindly Light," and were sung with emotional effect.

After the ceremonies had been concluded, the remains, reposing in an elegant casket, which was banked with a beautiful array of floral donations from the several orders, were viewed by nearly everyone present. At the grave the last rites were performed by John H. Walker, past high priest of Clackamas chapter, and past master of Multnomah Lodge No. 1. The Willamette Lodge, Woodmen of the World, Pioneer Chapter, Order Eastern Star and the volunteer firemen being present, besides about 25 teachers, including Prof. T. J. Gary, Prof. J. W. Gray, and other principals of Clackamas county schools. J. H. Ackerman, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, was also in attendance. From Portland were Judge Cleland, grand master, and P. S. Malcolm, past grand master of the grand lodge of Masons, and H. B. Thielsen, grand scribe of the grand chapter.

The following were pall bearers: J. P. Loyett, Angus Matheson, R. Koerner, G. W. Grace, L. L. Porter and Joseph Lynch.

What is Comfort?

Comfort is a degree of luxury which some people say belongs to "the tomorrow."

For a wheelman it is riding a Crescent Chainless Bicycle with every bit of gearing and bearing so completely covered and protected from dust and mud that when he comes back at night his wheel runs just as easy as when he started out in the morning; so perfectly protected that he never wonders before starting for a ride if he oughtn't to clean his wheel first. Examine a chainless at Huntley's Book Store.

LETTER FROM ROUMANIA.

Mr Stern Writes From Bucarest of the Holiday Customs.

BUCAREST, Feb. 15, 1899.

I promised you in my last letter to give you a description of Christmas and New Year's as it is observed in this country. Rumania, Russia, Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro are to the present holding on to the "old style" calendar which counts the dates 12 days later than ours and any other country, and have a saint for every day. Christmas and Easter are kept three days each and strictly observed. On the night before Christmas eve gangs of boys and young men numbering from three up, begin making their rounds with songs and calls from house to house all night long doing their recitations at the windows outside, after finishing their songs etc. they call "good morning to Santa Claus" two or three times and the people who live in the house respond with a piece of money or waif with cake. This is kept up until the rise of the sun or the break of day, so that no rest is expected of the inhabitants. The three days Christmas all the stores are closed and life is enjoyed to the full extent. Liquors being cheap here they are used in large quantities by all classes of both sexes. Music of all kinds is heard all over the city. This is Christmas. New Year's Eve about 4 p. m. gangs of grown up people of the working class as well as boys with silk tipped whips, having one with a cow bell for a leader who recites a long poem with good wishes for the new year etc., accompanied by the ringing of the bell and cracks of five or six whips. They visit every house and store and finish it by yelling a "Happy New Year" and the result is a remuneration of money alone. This is kept up until dark. The next morning all the servants, letter carriers, chimney sweeps, in fact all who have done any service, come with rice or wheat and wishing a "Happy New Year" throw it at you, for which he has to be given a franc or more, depending on the service he or she did, consequently, from Christmas to the 2nd of January you have to be giving out money constantly.

In bringing the new year in and kicking the old year out, more enjoyment takes place and more liquor is consumed. New Year's being St. Zasilalso, those men with the same name are serenaded and observed very strictly by the family of same. New year's day, boys and girls of tender age are seen going to neighbors and friends with an artificial floral piece hitting each of the family with the same while reciting a New Year greeting and as a recompense receives a few copper pieces or a small (10 cent) silver piece. Life is enjoyed here to the full extent, in eating, drinking, music etc.

The 6th day after New Year's, another important holiday is observed here, St. John the Baptist. In Bucarest, the river Dimbovitza flows through the center of the city, a deep cut having been made especially and with cement and rock built the river, which looks more like a canal, and with stone bridges at every street crossing it. In front of this river in the central part of the city a booth is especially erected where the king of Rumania with his royal family and aid meet the high clergy, who brings a golden cross and descends to the water and a prayer is pronounced, the highest priest, metropolitan throws the cross into the river after which several men dive and the one who gets it, receives a purse with 100 francs ($20). It often happens that at that time of the year it is so cold that the river is frozen and a hole has to be cut in the ice for the throwing of the cross and the diving for it. After this performance all the army which is stationed in Bucarest (about 10,000 men) are reviewed by the Royal family and clergy from the booth where each regiment passes by with its bands, buglers and drummers at the head, after which, everyone goes his way. It is a big holiday and is strictly observed and those whose names are John celebrate it and are serenaded. It looks odd to see after the blessing of the water by the priest and long after that, people stooping down all along the river drinking the water and filling bottles with it to cure the sick with and many of them, mostly of those who suffer from the fever malady bathe in the blessed river with the hope of being cured. The streets are decorated that day with flags etc., especially the streets where the Royal family have to traverse from the palace.

On my arrival at Craiova I was informed of my mother's death, which has taken away all of my thoughts for a time so that now I am just beginning to collect them and try to compose as good a letter as possible under the circumstances. Being in mourning I cannot take in the theaters, but will give you descriptions of other interesting matter as often as possible.

In my next letter I will give you a description of Bucarest, the capital of Rumania which I hope will interest all of my friends and the readers of the Enterprise.
