THE LOCAL NEWS.

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHOR.—Under the instruction of the talented Prof. E. E. Cumpston is doing some excellent work in its Sunday services. Last Sunday evening, that charming selection "Under the Shadow of Thy Wing" was touchingly rendered by Prof. Cumpston in company with the choir which sang the choros. Mrs. Charles Wesley Pope, who always pleases people whenever she appears, sang in an effective and able manner "The King" by Paul Rodney. This selection with several others rendered by the choir, made the service a charming one and is only one of the many which are yet to follow.

ANOTHER BLAZE.—Again on Monday night the town was aroused by the clanging chimera of the fire bells and many went rushing wildly down Main street to that rickety old house near the lower fire house which has stood for years in a dilapidated state. The fire was caused by a lamp tipping over and was quickly extinguished by the fire teams who responded at the first touch of the bells. This old house is most uninviting in its appearance and has always been an eyesore to everybody. It would be an advantage to the city if it were torn down for it is of no use to anyone and can only offer splendid facilities for another fire which may not be easily checked.

AN HOUR WITH JULIUS CAESAR.—Mrs. R. A. Miller delivered an instructive lecture Friday afternoon at the Barclay school on "The Life of Julius Caesar." She spoke to an attentive audience of students and lady friends and for an hour discussed the life of the renowned poet, beginning with his birth and tracing his career almost to its close. Then she portrayed in an able and charming manner the merits and demerits of the great actors Caesar and Brutus. Her address showed careful preparation, and her familiarity with the play and all its characters lent to the whole address much of interest and entertainment.

ALLOWED BUT $21 DOLLARS.—On Saturday last the case of J. T. Apperson vs. Hurst and Marks was tried in the circuit court. It was an action brought by J. T. Apperson to obtain $247.75 the purchase price of potatoes which he claimed he sold to Hurst and Marks of Barlow. After the plaintiff rested his case a motion for a new suit was ordered as to first two causes of action. The defendants declined to introduce any evidence and the case was submitted to the jury without argument. The jury then returned a verdict entitling the plaintiff to $21. The attorneys for the plaintiff were H. E. Cross and J. Worms, late from Kansas, for the defendants Geo. C. Brownell, J. E. Marks and L. Stipp.

CHICKEN STEALING.—Good proof has been obtained from reliable authorities to the effect that several young Lows of Oregon City at different nights during the past few weeks entered the private property of people of this city and sneaked away with their chickens and then devoted the money received for the stolen property to the purchase of tobacco. Boys of this day and generation should be the proud possessors of too much honor and manly principle to ever so far forget themselves as to condescend to such despicable small employment as this. This is a business which the most depraved of human mortals excel in and if any of these boys think that chicken stealing reflects any credit on their brilliancy as scholars or tends to elevate their standard of manhood or will add to their value as citizens in days to come they should wake up immediately to these unfortunate delusions and endeavor to be honor able in all their dealings.

HOW WILL THEY BUILD IT?—Now that the wheeling season begins to approach and the bicycle enthusiasm grows, the question is being asked "How will they build the bicycle path?" The wheeling fraternity of the city, as many know, have decided to help build a track between here and Portland but just how it is to be constructed, the wisest methods to employ and the expense to be entailed are matters quite perplexing to the minds of all. Two plans of track building are now warmly advocated, one being in favor of a single track and the others favoring a double track. The single track advocates claim that theirs is less expensive, that it will more readily accommodate two riders riding abreast and that experience has taught that it is more enduring in its character. The double track champions, on the contrary, see it in quite a different light and argue like this "The double track will dispense with collisions as riders are always kept apart. They cannot be because of narrowness be used by teams and wagons in the winter time when drivers are so annoyed by bad roads and would take possession of a

A MISSING LINK.

Too Much For Him.
It is evidently one thing to work without knowing how much we do and another thing to have our labors mapped out before us in detail. For several months a business house in this city has enjoyed the ministrations of an unusually faithful colored janitor. Always prompt and faithful, unerring in the discharge of his various duties, Tom was a great favorite with the firm, and the prospect was that he would abide with them many years.

One day it occurred to the senior partner that a little more system in Tom's routine would be advisable and perhaps render his work a trifle easier. So he wrote out in plain characters an outline of the chores Tom had been doing every week, arranged perhaps with more convenience to the firm and to Tom. Unfortunately Tom could not read, so the list was given to another man employed on rougher work, with instructions to read it to Tom and explain to him each day's prescribed duties.

When the schedule was read to Tom, however, the effect was astonishing and disastrous. He listened quietly, but his eyes grew bigger and his black wool seemed to bristle on his head. At the end he reached for his cap and said to the porter "Good gracious! I ain't goin to do all that work." Then he walked out and hasn't been seen since.—Indianapolis Journal.

THE LOCAL NEWS.

Tricked the Vicious Camel.
A valuable camel working in an oil mill in Africa was beaten by its driver. Seeing that the camel had treasured up the injury and was only waiting a favorable chance for revenge, the driver kept a strict watch upon the animal. Time passed away. The camel, knowing that it was watched, was quiet and obedient, and the driver began to think that the beating was forgotten, when one night, after several months had gone by, the man was sleeping on a raised platform in the mill, while, as is customary, the camel was stabled in a corner.

Happening to awake, the driver saw by the bright moonlight that when all was quiet the animal looked cautiously around, rose softly and stealing toward a spot where a bundle of clothes and a burnoose thrown carelessly on the ground resembled a sleeping figure, cast itself with violence upon them, rolling with all its weight and tearing them most viciously with its teeth. Satisfied that its revenge was complete, the camel was returning to its corner when the driver sat up and spoke. At the sound of his voice and realizing the mistake it had made, the animal was so mortified at the failure and discovery of its scheme that it dashed its head against the wall and died on the spot.

Have No Use For Cents.
Pennies are not used by the banks of New Orleans in the payment of checks. If a check, for example, is drawn for $62.18, the holder receives $62.20. If the amount is $62.17, he gets $62.15. The split is made between the second and third cent, and the system, which has been in vogue for many years, is very rarely the subject of any complaint. It makes an exact balance of coppers at the end of the day's business rather unlikely, but the doctrine of averages operates to even things up to within a few cents. In the long run about as many checks break on one-half of the nickel as on the other.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Money Making Indians.
The Menominee Indians in northwestern Wisconsin, are making as much money in lumber operations as are the Osages at farming. By the sale of pine logs in years past the 1,300 men, women and children have accumulated a tribal fund aggregating $1,000,000, which is still growing. The tribe expends about $75,000 a year in logging operations and clears from $50,000 to $100,000 annually.

Detecting Flaws in Metal.
To detect hidden cracks opening from the surface of metals the surface is first moistened with kerosene and is then dried off with a cloth. It is then coated with chalk. After a little while the oil works out of the little cracks and stains the chalk. A sort of diagram of the hidden fissures and defects is thus produced.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.
As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75 cents per bottle.

A MISSING LINK.

It will doubtless surprise many who have never even heard of the brute that there still exists on the island of Java an animal, or rather a reptile, which seems to be the missing link between the ichthyosauri of prehistoric days and the well known saurians of modern times.

This animal is known to the Javanese as "linguin." It fell to the luck of Baron Alfonso Pereira, consul general of Austria-Hungary, to shoot one of these beasts some years ago. Its length was between nine and ten feet, and it looked a cross between a snake and a crocodile. Though the beast was cut and wounded in its encounter with Baron Pereira it did not bleed.

Pennsylvania Sand Mines.
There are all kinds of mines in Pennsylvania. The greatest are of course the iron and coal mines, but few people would guess that the next extensive mining industry is the sand mines in western Pennsylvania. These mines are rarely underground, however, and many of them are viewed with wonder by passengers on the Pennsylvania, approaching Pittsburg. Whole mountains are being dug away, and the granular rocks forming them are being reduced to sand for the manufacture of glass in and about Pittsburg—Philadelphia Call.

The Omnipresent Rose.
Every continent on the globe, with the exception of Australia, produces wild roses. There can be little doubt that the rose is one of the oldest flowers in the world and, perhaps, grown from the wind blown seeds in Paradise.

In Egypt it is depicted on numbers of early bas-reliefs, dating from 3000 to 3500 B. C. Rosewater, or the essence of roses, is mentioned by Homer in the "Iliad," and the flower is spoken of in the Proverbs of Solomon.

Lamblike Resignation.
Charles Lamb, when reminded by his sisters of the days when they were poor and capable of enjoying the smallest treat with the keenest relish, so different from the days when they were rich and surfeited, said: "Well, Mary, since we are in easy circumstances we must endeavor to put up with it."

Professor C. Lloyd Morgan has in his book on "Habit and Instinct" advanced the theory that while the calls and alarm notes uttered by birds are probably due to simple instinct, their songs may be traditional—that is, handed down from generation to generation and perpetuated through the faculty of imitation.

In no country in the world are infectious diseases so frequently mortal as in Russia. Children especially suffer, and diphtheria, measles, scarlatina and smallpox literally decimate villages and country towns.
