smoke and fog also prevented the Americans from getting results with their rifles. At almost the first volley from the ambuscades, eight of the Americans had horses shot from under them, and three men fell dead. Retreat was the only thing to save the forces from complete annihilation. Reinforcements were summoned by couriers, and the arrival of a battalion of the First Nebraska stayed the slaughter till the Iowa and Nebraska regiments and Utah artillery could come in.

OREGON TROOPS TOOK ANGAT.

After Capturing the Place They Joined Lawton's Column.

MANILA, April 27.—The Second Oregon and the Minnesota regiment, under Colonel Summers, reached Norzagaray Sunday morning and took the place with little fighting, the rebels retreating to the hills. The Western troops then went further east and captured the village of Angat Tuesday, but returned to Norzagaray, when they were met by Lawton, who marched 28 miles under the terrible handicap of bad roads, dense jungle, terrible heat, faulty maps, no wire communication with the front and the breaking down of wagon trains, the water buffaloes dying of heat and exhaustion. There were no serious casualties, only a few men being slightly wounded.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The following cablegram was received at the war department late this evening:

"Manila, April 26.—Adjutant-General, Washington: Lawton is at Norzagaray and Angat. His two columns, united, have driven the enemy to the north and west. There were slight casualties, but the names are not reported. The only means of communication is by couriers. MacArthur has taken a portion of Calumpit, south of the river. The movement was attended with difficulties on account of the jungle, heat and strong entrenchments. His casualties yesterday were three killed and eleven wounded. Developments thus far are satisfactory. "Ors."

ASTORIA, Or., April 24.—That the entire party that left Seaside April 7 on a timber cruise are dead, is an assured fact, as the bodies of three have already been found and search is still in progress for the fourth, who was the oldest and weakest member of the party.

As soon as S. H. Doty's body was found and brought into Seaside Saturday afternoon, Louis Chance, known as "Indian Louie," and John Burke were engaged to start out in search of the remainder of the party, who consisted of E. E. Heikmann, a civil engineer, of this city; W. J. Radir, a timber locator, of Portland; and A. J. Cloutrie, of Seaside, who accompanied the party as a guide, as he was thoroughly familiar with that section of the country.

This afternoon "Indian Louie" returned with the information that they had found the dead bodies of Heikmann and Radir at the foot of Sugar Loaf mountain, some distance apart, and about three miles from where Doty's body was found. "Indian Louie" returned to give the news, while Burke continued the search for the body of Cloutrie. According to information received, there were no marks of violence on the bodies, and the cause of their death can at the present time only be surmised, but it is generally supposed that it was the result of eating poisoned canned meat or vegetables.

A party started out from Seaside this afternoon to bring back the bodies, but it may be several days before they will arrive, as it is about 15 miles through a very rough country. Some writing may be found on one of the bodies that may explain the cause of the cruisers' deaths, but it now appears quite certain that they had been dead longer than at first supposed. The last entry in the field notes found on Doty were dated April 9, only two days after the party had started out from Seaside.

P. E. Heikmann was 39 years of age, and a native of Germany. His father is now a major in the German army. He came to this country about 20 years ago, and was employed for several years in the engineering department of the Union Pacific at Omaha. Mr. Heikmann moved to Astoria in June, 1889, and had since followed his profession of civil engineer in this city. He was once elected city surveyor. He was a single man, and had no relatives in this country.

A. J. Cloutrie was 65 years of age. He came to this country from Portland about four years ago, and lived at Seaside during most of the time.

"Indian Louie" today made the following statement:

"My opinion is that Cloutrie got hurt in some way, and they all stayed with him until he died, meantime exhausting all their provisions, matches etc. After Cloutrie's death they evidently were lost, and wandered about seeking to recover their bearings. Whether the supposition that the death of any or all of the party was due to poisoning from canned meats or other edibles is true, there is nothing in their surroundings to indicate. Cloutrie was one of the most practical woodsmen in this section of the country. According to the notes found on Doty's body, the party was through the work and on its way out."

FOR YAQUINA IMPROVEMENTS.

Senator McBride Called on General Wilson in Regard to the Matter.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Senator McBride has called on General Wilson, chief of engineers, and explained to him why the people of the Willamette valley, as well as the members of the Oregon delegation, wish to have further appropriations made for improving Yaquina bay, and have the work of improvement carried out by the engineer corps of the army. He explained that Yaquina bay is about midway down the Willamette valley, and at a convenient point to receive freight and produce from all parts of the valley. If the bay is improved, in accordance with previous intentions, it will afford a good shipping point for the products of the Willamette farmers, but in its present condition vessels dare not enter, for fear of being wrecked. He told General Wilson that the opening of Yaquina bay would lower and regulate the freight rates, and this would work to the great benefit of the Oregon farmers, who are now compelled to patronize almost wholly the Southern Pacific line, and are at the mercy of that company, which does not hesitate to charge good round prices for transportation and freight rates. He also pointed out that the bay, after its entrance is improved, and the sunken rocks blown out, will afford a fine harbor of refuge for vessels of moderate draught, something they have not in that vicinity at the present time. The main point which the senator brought out and emphasized, however, was that the improvement of the bay would serve to regulate the freight rates, and told how all the farmers of the Willamette region were anxious to have the work of improvement resumed and pushed to a speedy finish, as all the while work is held up they are forced to surrender to the heavy charges of the Southern Pacific, with no prospect of relief. The senator has taken a great deal of interest in the Yaquina improvement, and seen the chief of engineers a number of times in his interest. He has acted both in his own interest and on behalf of the people wishing the improvement, from whom he constantly received letters urging him to push the matter. Now that the board authorized by the last river and harbor bill has been called together, work will probably be pushed on the examination, and on this examination and report will depend the future of the Yaquina improvement. Nothing said or done in Washington at this time will be of the least benefit to that work.—Oregonian.

SPLENDID MEETING AT AURORA.

Hon. G. E. Hayes Addresses a Large Audience in Interest of A. O. U. W.

Last Saturday evening three hundred citizens of Aurora assembled in the city hall and listened to Hon. G. E. Hayes, of this city, who spoke for an hour and a quarter on the merits and advantages of the Ancient Order of the United Workmen. It is said by several from Aurora that the address delivered by Mr. Hayes was an effort worthy of high commendation and that never before have the people of that section enjoyed a more detailed narration of interesting facts and figures.

Mr. Hayes ably reviewed the history of the order in past years. He showed how it had been of inestimable value to thousands left fatherless and eloquently told of the praiseworthy motive that brought it into the world, namely that of lending a helping hand to the needy everywhere, and of installing into the lives of all the lofty idea of love and brotherhood.

The audience were attentive throughout and greeted the speaker with hearty applause. Ahler's orchestra added a valuable contribution to the program and played for the dance which followed.

His Wife Left Him.

Michael Sheehan who is a farmer of this county was deserted by his wife last Monday afternoon while he was absent from home. Sheehan upon discovering his loss went to Portland where he inquired at the police station for the whereabouts of his better half. He stated there that he and his wife had come to this coast from Boston two years ago and had settled down in Clackamas county, that his wife was 21 years of age and that he was 50. He further said that his wife on leaving him had taken $275 with her and that he feared she had come to Portland and purchased a railroad ticket and then left for the Atlantic coast. At latest report Mrs. Sheehan is still missing.

THE DINNER PAUL BRIGADE.

A thousand jewels gleaming incandescently. Shone from the river to the cliffs above. While over sunset hung the new moon's crescent. In peaceful prophecy of hope and love. The winter night was fair, and fair the city. We stood upon the white bridge, you and I. And listened to the passing of an army. The Dinner Paul Brigade was marching by. No blazoned banner boasted deeds of glory. No martial music, life of drum. But in my thoughts there came a grander story. In the echo of their footsteps hurrying home. For weary fathers, husbands, sons and brothers. Turned to the rest their industry had made. Where nestled children were and wives. And mothers. To welcome home the Dinner Paul Brigade. Brave are our boys who face the gun and sabre. To hold our flag above Manila's walls. And brave are these who live, and love and labor. The safeguards of the City by the Falls. In the City by Falls of our Willamette. Are many happy homes their hands have made. Those honest men of mind, and muscle. All honor to the Dinner Paul Brigade. —Oswoon.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for May presents a very interesting number. Mary E. Wilkins has contributed "Catherine Carr," a story of the Revolution, one of the best she has written. Richard Harding Davis writes of "Our War Correspondents in Cuba and Puerto Rico," and Helen Glasgow, Ruth Moore, Every Stuart, and Henry M. Blossom have contributed short stories. Not the least important article in this issue is an article by Julian Ralph, entitled "Keeping House in London," illustrated by A. E. Sterner. In the line of illustration Harper's Magazine is unsurpassed. The present number is profusely illustrated by such artists as Carlton T. Chapman, R. F. Zogbaum, T. de Thulstrup, A. B. Frost, and Frederick Remington.
