Don't Worry and Fret.

To those who are ever sighing for a chance to better themselves I would say Keep your eyes open for opportupities, and if you have any abilities the time will almost surely come when you can display them. But do not werry and fret and fume over your work, do not believe you were made for better things and spend your time rebelling against your let. Instead make the best of the situation and go ahead. Encourage in yourself the habit of reading Do not fly from one book to another. but try to familiarize yourself. with what is elevating and refining in literature. It is not the number of books you read, but how you read them, that helps you. Good books are the best friends that you can have, and the best use that you can make of your spare moments will be to spend them with these safe and silent counselors. Let industry, adaptability and cheerfulness characterize your work, and then somebody will say to you, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." And you will feel your reward in the knowledge that you have done your best and that your efforts have been appreciated. - Elmira Telegram

Everything which affects business in general affects the theater immediately

A man will reduce his expenditures for tickets to places of amusement long before he thinks of cutting down his supply of cigars, for the cigar belongs to that class of luxuries which subtly become necessaries, while the theater habit, as any observant manager will tell you, requires constant cultivation The management of a theater is therefore an occupation requiring business sagacity in a greater degree than it able short story entitled, 'God Rest Ye, calls for artistic taste. - W.
