An Epidemic of Whosping Cough.

Last winter during an epidemic of whooping cough my children contracted the disease, having severe coughing spells. We had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy very successfully for croup and naturally turned to it at that time and found it relieved the cough and effected a complete cure,-John E. CASTORIA The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the

The Poverty of Rome.

There is a terrible poverty in Rome, of which the beggars who await you at every street corner are but too genuine a sign. The first gesture learned by the children of poor people in Rome is to hold out their hands for aims. They be gin when they are so young that they can only totter, and they are still holding out their hands for alms when they can only totter because they are so old.

Yet another sign of it I find in the 3,000 cabmen of Rome, sitting bungrily on their boxes, in their worm eaten fur coats, too lazy to do anything but sit there holding out their whips to solicit every passer and unable to make a decent living even in a place so frequented by strangers and a place where every one drives. But even here, in these beggars and cabmen, is there not a certain participation, at all events, in that open air life which is the felicity of Rome? "Abbiamo pazienza," say the poor people, and sit in the sun. -Arthur Symons in Harper's Magazine For Corvallis & Eeastern R. R. Co.

Cured Him.

An intimate friend of Rear Admiral John W. Philip tells the following anecdote of the gallant naval officer: Though Philip's religious side has been much emphasized and commented on, he is a determined man and will brook no opposition. Once when he was in charge of the Pacific Mail steamer China he carried two passengers of foreign nationality who persisted in smoking in their staterooms during the hours when smoking was prohibited. Philip, then captain, called their attention to the fact, but instead of heeding his warning one answered him impudently Nothing further was said at the time, but the next morning the offensive passenger was handcuffed to the upper deck for three hours, and for the remainder of the trip that particular person seemed to have lost all desire to indulge in back talk to the captain.

The Ashes of Love. The women are telling of an Atchison man who treated his wife with indifference and cruelty in their early married life They say he is now down on his knees blowing into the dead ashes of her love trying to revive a spark of affection for him How women love to picture a man in such an attitude! It is probably the dream of every neglected wife that some day her husband will try to warm his hands like a frozen Cupid at the fires of her love. and will find only dead ashes there. There are enough dead ashes in the average woman's dreams to macadamize a road. -Atchison Globe.

A Subtle Plea. While Sir M E Grant-Duff was governor general of Madras a judge imposed a fine on a native Christian. The latter had no lawyer to defend him, but he put in the following remarkable plea "Your honor may be right. I may be wrong: I may be right, honor wrong Let honor give me back the fine, and years ago; Jacob Flerchinger, Pendleton. then at day of resurrection, when all Dr Darrin can be consulted free at will most gladly, sir, return your honor
