The Fourth was celebrated by the Lutheran church on the Michael Moehnke place. Miss Eva Moehnke read the Declaration of Independence, and Rev. Mack, of Oregon City, delivered the oration. The afternoon was spent in the various sports, foot races, sack races etc. All seemed to have had a pleasant time.

The German Congregational church celebrated Children's Day in Hollmann's orchard today. People from the various churches, and others gathered in the orchard at an early hour. Services were held in the forenoon and the program in afternoon. After the rendition of the program, the minister gave all the young people permission to play games and have a regular children's hour for a short time. Indulge in the worldly pleasures which they so vehemently denounce from the pulpit from time to time. But its all right when you have permission, you know. Well we had a very good time and an excellent dinner.

Redland. REDLAND, July 10.—Farmers are all monopolizing the good weather by making hay. The crop is a good one both in quantity and quality.

The Fourth went off smoothly everyone enjoying a good time. Union Park will get its name up if it gives a couple of celebrations like the last.

Uncle Jake Harlis is building a new fence in front of his property in Molalla, there by greatly improving the appearance. Uncle Jake is a good citizen for Molalla he is one of those kind of men that take a pride in having things look tasty about the town.

Quite a number from Teasel Creek and Molalla attended the grange at Millino Saturday. This grange seems to keep up pretty well, but we notice that these affairs do not wear as they should. They are undoubtedly originated with the best of ideas and for the purpose of the uplifting of the producing masses. As usually conducted these societies not only afford a mutual and fraternal union and protection; but also develop the members intellectually, by meeting and discussing questions of vital interest in their vocations. Why then do they dwindle down, die out, etc. We believe one great trouble is the great desire of a few to always be the bell-sheep they must lead in everything, as a result the more retiring ones begin to think well our leaders will be there today I am busy and they will not miss me, then the bell-sheep get tired of their own tinklings of brass within their cranium and they too drop out, but this should not be, when a person joins anything of this character he or she should consider the obligations that go with it and should also consider that they are a part of the organization and then do all they can for the success of that institution.

Crittenden, Hibbard & Co., contractors, wouldn't that send you to Sing Sing? The above named gentlemen are going to cut wood near Barlow, so we understand. Who would believe such hot numbers as they are would cut wood, somehow we thought that two sportier sports did not curl their mustaches than those two. We suppose Crittenden will wear his white shirt and Hibbard will curl his hair as usual. Well good luck to you boys save as many old rusty dollars as you can.

The Photographers, who have had their tent pitched in our midst the past few days are going to leave Wednesday.

Mrs. Hibbard is expected home Wednesday from Eastern Washington, where she has been visiting at the home of her daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dart visited at Mr. Ab. Hardesty's Sunday.

Preaching Sunday at the M. E. church South, Teasel Creek by Rev. Haines. Teasel Creek is getting to be a cold church what is the matter with our people in spiritual affairs? If it is as good as they say it is why don't they keep drinking at that wonderful fountain they tell us gives them such joy during a hot time revival, it would seem to us if the sensation is so enjoyable as they tell us, that they would shout its praises and drink therefrom all the time and not get so cold and careless when the fever of excitement has departed.

Cherry picking is about over. Cherries were a light crop and those sweet voiced feathered songsters came in for their full allotment.

A great many in this vicinity are suffering with colds.

A Bellicose Youth. The boy is still father to the man. A certain prominent political hostler, who, like the British tar in "Pinaroff," is ever ready with his fist, showed his pugilistic taste at an early age. The first day he went to school the family were, of course, anxious to know his impression of the new occupation. "Well, Sammy," said his father, "what did you learn on your first day at school?" Straightening up and assuming a bellicose attitude, Sam replied, "Father, I learned I can lick every boy in my class." A few days later his love of pugilism and frequent battles led to his expulsion. He came home that day and surprised his good mother with the remark, "Well, mother, thank the Lord, I have been turned out!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Archery in a City's Streets. The military students of Tung-Chon are a conspicuous nuisance. They have a way of using one of the main streets in the city as a convenient spot for practicing archery, and we have been repeatedly obliged to edge up to the extreme edge of the footpath to avoid possible eccentric flights of arrows. Characteristically it never occurs to them to suspend operations for others' safety or convenience, and minor accidents must not be uncommon. A lad was brought to the hospital the other day who had been struck by an arrow just below the eye as he was edging along the highway. He was not badly hurt and probably regarded his injury as incidental to the ordinary risks of travel on city streets.—North China Herald.

Brides and Wet Weather. A Breston bride rather likes to have a wet wedding; it is held to signify that all her tears are now shed and that she will therefore have a happy married life. I know of no similar belief in the British Isles.

The Erza of Simbraik call the day before the wedding the weeping day, and the bride and her girl friends weep all they can, with the idea, it would seem, of getting the mourning of life over so that only joy may remain.

The Badagas of the Neighberries attain the same end, by causing the bride with water. Some Greek tribes have a similar belief in the virtue of a drenching bringing good fortune.

Infrequent and Improper Shampooing are responsible for dry, scrawny and variable colored hair. Many people have a goodly supply of hair, and it would be beautiful were it not that scratching had destroyed its life and made it fall out. Everyone's head should be shampooed once a week with some non-injurious and health-giving wash. Sutherland Sisters' Scalp Cleaner does not rot and bleach the hair, like soda, ammonia, etc. Add the scalp cleaner with the "Hair Grower." They contain nothing but what is good for the hair and scalp. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

The Patent Feed Elevator makes the unloading easy, avoids all shattering resistance to the natural flow of the grain toward the binder attachment is removed, doing amount of power necessary to elevate the grain. The scientific sprocket wheel on binder attached with large sprockets on one side and short spokes on the other, by reason of the chain pulling over the long spokes when the feed is being compressed, tied and discharged gives 10% less extra power than time lost when more power is needed.
