We saw Mr. Crittenden the other day and had a short interview with him on that wood cutting business. He says like other things in this world it has its drawbacks, among them he says work is the greatest. It seems one of their first difficulties was in the purchase of a saw what ailed the pecky thing they could not discover until a woodsman told them that it was hide bound, for this disorder they gave it large doses of coal oil which seemed to help it some then one side of the thing got to running ahead of the other and the boys were cutting two cuts off at once and then the woodsman says "drags," says Hibbard what in the name of common sense does he mean by

Did you ever See a Snow Storm in Summer? We never did; but we have seen the clothing at this time of the year so covered with dandruff that it looked as if it had been out in a regular snow-storm. No need of this snowstorm. As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will Ayer's Hair Vigor melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this; it prevents their formation. It has still other properties; it will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases. And it does even more; it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair. We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking. If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily removed. Address: DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

drags? Crittenden looked straight up and said, "why he means you are dragging your feet that's what I have said all morning", and then Hibbard picked up one of his famous dough gods and threw at Crittenden hitting him in the stomach and laying him up for two days with a severe attack of indigestion. Art and Nature. The milkmaid with the picture hat and the brocaded silk skirt tossed her head. "In society, I suppose, I should be an impossible person," she exclaimed, "but it's different in art." And after all, to be perfectly candid, there is nothing essentially degrading about milking an art cow.—Detroit Journal.

Just the Thing. "In every city of reasonable size," said Brown, "they ought to have a Mothers' Exchange."

"What for?" queried Jones. "Why, every woman knows exactly just how every other woman's child ought to be raised, and by trading mothers every child could get a proper training."—Kansas City Star.

Reassured. They had been married seven years. The doctor had been called in and pronounced him a very sick man. As his wife entered the room after the doctor's last visit he called her to his bedside, and in a tremulous voice he remarked:

"Darling, I am going." Leaning over him, she stroked his head gently and reminiscently replied: "Cheer up, Clarence! That remark assures me that you will live. Don't you remember how often you said that during our courting days and how persistently you didn't go?"—Boston Courier.

Her Theory. Mrs. Mild—You seem to differ from the usual idea about coddling a man to win his consent. According to your theory, scolding is the best medium for winning satisfactory results.

Mrs. Wild—That, my dear, is in accord with one of the laws of nature. Everything has got to be blown up before it will come down.—Richmond Dispatch.

From a Tough Bird. "The pillows in this boarding house are the hardest I ever struck," complained the new boarder at the breakfast table. "I wonder what they are made of?"

"Perhaps," said the star boarder, "of feathers from a tailor's goose."—Detroit Free Press

Baldness Can be Cured just so long as there is a particle of vitality left in the hair roots. The fact that the hair is smooth and shining is no positive proof that the roots beneath are dead. Deep down beneath the skin, hair roots may yet exist. Sifted with latent vitality, and all that is required to develop them into a beautiful head of hair is the faithful application of the proper agents. Seven Sutherland Sisters' preparations furnish the easiest, surest and quickest way to ascertain if there is or is not latent life beneath a head bare of hair. Why not try them? SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.
