FAREWELL OLD YEAR.

Farewell, Old Year, shake hands and go, We surely do not need you more, A rosy, smiling, saucy elf, Peeps o'er the threshold of our door,

Yet stay, Old Year, it is not meet, That friends should part in sorry haste; Your bowing form and whitened locks, May somehow pall upon our taste,

Still memory brings within our views The day when first you crossed our path, So close and warm a triend you've been; No greater love than this man bath.

To give your life that one may know A newer love, a fresher mind. But how can love or friendship hope A better, truer friend to find.

We part with keen regret and pain, Sill in this thought we comfort take Your sacrifice is not in vain.

For all you re, 'or all you've been. To make the varp and woof of life. Some day the pattern clear will stow With full and gracious beauty life, -M, L. C. H.

The Vaudeville Theater.

Sometimes the vaudeville theater is an individual and independent enterprise; more often it belongs to a circuit. The patronage, expenses and receipts are enormous. One circuit will speak for all. It has a theater in New York, one in Philadelphia, one in Boston, and one in Providence, and they give no Sunday performances, and yet these four theaters entertain over 5,000,000 350 attaches and to 3,500 actors.

Four thousand people pass in and out of each one of these theaters daily. each week in salaries to the actors and $3,500 to the attaches. Take one theater for example, the house in Boston. It is open the year round, and it costs $7,000 a week to keep it open, while its patrons will average 25,000 every week. On a hollday it will play to from 10,000 to 12,000 people.-From "The Vaudeville Theater," by Edwin Milton Royle, in Scribner's.
