THE FORCE OF HABIT.

How It Once Played a Mean Trick on Frederick Villiers.

W. Sabel, in The Saturday Evening l'ost, tells an anecdote of Frederick Villiers, the famous war correspondent. Villiers had been under fire for some days, the enemy bombarding the force to which the artist was attached, so that the arrival of a shell was a commonplace circumstance to be treated in the usual way. Out of this ordeal he came unscathed to London and was strolling down the crowded Strand.

On a sudden the pedestrians were appalled to see him fling bimself at full length upon the greasy, muddy pavement and there lie on his face, rigid as a dead man. From all directions men rushed to render him asat Tien Tsin may be forced to withdraw sistance. They turned him over to to Taku, as the Chinese surround them rub his hands and unbotton his collar, expecting to find him in a fit. But no. On his face they found not the pain and pallor of epilepsy, but astonishment and mud. Villiers, when they and Wan Chau, in the province in which laid hold of him. quickly jumped to most noted in the world. his feet, shook the mud from his hands and clothes and then looked around for an explanation of his own apparently idiotic act. The explanation was forthcoming.

A few yards behind him stood a horse and cart.
