An Anti-Fusionist.

OREGON CITY, Oct. 15, 1900.

EDITOR ENTERPRISE:

Will you permit an anti-fusionist to utter a word of advice to his populist friends, and a protest against their being any further made the cat's paw of a lot of self-seeking democratic politicians? How long are a majority of the populists of this state and of the nation to be used simply for building up and keeping aloft the rotten links of democracy? In the south a populist is held almost as much in contempt by the democratic party as are Tillman's "niggers." In the recent national populist convention the leaders sold out, and, ignoring the claims of populist statesmen, nominated a democrat for president and a silver republican for vice-president. The National democratic convention added insult to injury by kicking Towne off the ticket and naming a democrat in his place. Over in Washington, where in recent years the populists outnumbered the democrats, the populists were notified in the last state convention that the fusion ticket must hereafter be known as the democratic ticket, otherwise there would be no fusion. Eight years ago in this state the democrats polled 14,243 votes, the populists 36,965 votes and the republicans 35,002 votes, an anti-republican majority of over 5000 votes. Democratic politicians have since then so worked their fusion schemes that the republicans now have a majority of over 1200 votes over the democrats and populists combined, and the populist party which eight years ago was nearly twice as large as the democratic party, is now practically blotted out. The democratic schemers of this county, who are in politics for just what there is in it for them, have recently given a fresh illustration of their contempt for populists in their recent organization of a club in Oregon City. Since 1896 just four gold democrats in this county have returned to the democratic party, and all four of these men are made vice-presidents of the new club, while the populist party, which is the backbone of the fusion party in Clackamas county, and furnishes nearly all the votes, is allowed about the same representation in the distribution of the offices. This means practically that one old democrat, who is willing to come back is considered worth about 500 populists. On top of this a resolution is passed giving two gold democrats, L. B. Case and C. E. S. Wood, both corporation lawyers, the first chance at addressing the new club. We have nothing to say personally against these gentlemen, for they are all good citizens in a general sense, but they have nothing in common with the

THE CAPTAIN'S STORY.

He Spins a Yarn About a Wonderful Recovery on Shipboard.

A little group had been spinning yarns in the parlors of the Walton for an hour or more when a bronze visaged, middle aged man joined the party. Several of the group recognized him as the captain of one of the big tramp steamers which ply between Philadelphia and foreign ports, and a place in the circle was at once made for him. "We've been killing time telling stories," some one explained. "Suppose you turn in your contribution." The captain thought a moment and then smiled. "I was thinking of something that happened on my last voyage," he finally said. "We had on board as a cook a big colored fellow, whose principal companion was a little yellow cur dog. One day while the cook was preparing some beef for dinner he let the heavy cleaver with which he was doing the chopping slip from his grasp. "It fell to the floor with a thud, and the cook emitted a howl of anguish that was heard all over the ship. The cleaver had struck one of his bare feet and sliced the big toe off as neatly as a surgeon could have done it. Here was a chance for the yellow dog, and he seized it. Making a dive for the severed toe, he swallowed it in one gulp and then made a bee line for the deck. "This was more than the cook, crazed with pain, could stand, and he hurried the cleaver at the dog. His aim proved true, and his curship passed out of existence then and there. At this juncture the ship's doctor came up to find out what all the row was about. When he learned the truth, he laughed. "It'll fix that for you," he exclaimed to the cook, "wait till I get my instrument case." "Within five minutes he had held a post mortem on the dog and recovered the lost toe. Washing it with antiseptics, he skillfully stitched it back in place again, and the cook hobbled back to his quarters minus his dog, but with as many toes as he had ever had. That's about the only story I recall just now, gentlemen. It has the merit of being true, however, and if you don't believe it come down to the ship any time and I'll show you the cleaver. The cook has quit the sea, and I don't know his present address."—Philadelphia Inquirer.
