Porter, were read and approved. The semi-annual election of officers was held, and resulted as follows: Vice-presiden, Fred J. Meindl; secretary, Fannie G. Porter, treasurer, Kate Casto; editor, Bertha M. Gibson.

Misses Evans. Kidder, Johnson, Mark, Todd, Sumner, Nordhausen, Neva and Vesta Knight, Mrs. E. Sloan, and Messrs. W. P. Mathews, Stanbrough an! Gilbert Noe were elected to membership in the Association.

"History, the Period of Exploration" was the subject assigned to J. G. Noe. He dwelt at some length on the explorations made by the different nations, and illustrated his method of presenting instory to his classes. His work seemed practical and very interesting. A lively discussion followed in which Supt. Zinser, J. T. Mitts, Miss Kate Casto, A. Stanbrough, L. Vincent, T. J. Gary and R. Ginther took part.

George McArthur gave a very interesting talk on "Decimals," using the blackboard to illustrate his methods of teaching the same. He believes in Western Division Will Meet in Albany much supplementary work, and that constant drilling is necessary.

Supt. J. C. Zinser discussed the county schools during the past month he observed many mistakes in teaching this avoided. His talk was valuable to teachers, being thoroughly practical.

The Association then adjourned to Knight's hall, where the good people of Canby had prepared a delicious luncheon | Martindale, superintendent of the Albany for the visiting teachers, which was schools, and J. C. Zinser, county superthoroughly appreciated.

His Happy Life With His Wife at

At the time of his retirement to Mount Vernon, after the expiration of his term as president, "the tall figure of Washington was only slightly bent and he was still supposed to weigh up ward of 200 pounds," writes William Perrine of 'The Last Years of Wash ing. ington's Life" to The Ladies' Home Journal.

"Excepting his gray hair and his false teeth and some trouble in hearpearance of age in his muscular person, his galt and his strong, pockmarked face. He was affable and merry with his best friends, but while erally formal. Yet if he particularly enjoyed the conversation of a guest he would pay him the compliment of listening to him until after 9 o'clock, or even of lighting him with the candle to a bedroom for the night.

Mrs. Washington at this time was a healthy, pleasant and unostentatious llitle woman, still showing traces of good looks and with seldom any other thought than of playing respectably her role of mistress of the bouse of a country gentleman, of earing for the negroes or of amusing berself with her knitting. She had great pride in her recipe for making 'cherry bounce,' and on a midsummer day she cut out $2 pairs of breeches for the men working on the farm. She had said that she and the general felt like children just released from school when he left the presidency, and she told of her satisfaction in settling down again to the 'duties of an old fashioned Virginia housekeeper, steady as a clock, busy as a bee and cheerful as a crick-

The Buccancers.

The original "boucaniers" were a wild and picturesque gang. Social Democratic Vice-President. . . Job Harrington of bulls and pigs and held up by a belt of rawhide, stuck full of deadly knives. Their apparel terminated with pigskin boots and no stockings, and they carried a long barreled firelock, loaded with ounce balls of lead.

They were animated with a common hatred of the Spaniard, which in their eyes justified any attack upon his person or property, and by a wild sort of attachment to each other in their perilous lives, which led to their being known as the "Brethren of the Coast."

When the Spaniards drove them into the career of marauders upon the sen, the word buccaneer took a new English word, "buiten" being Dutch and "bueten" German for plunder. Of lards modified into fillbustero. So we "fillbuster."-"The West Indies," by Amos Kidder Finke.
