Coated

Look at your tongue. Is it coated?

Then you have a bad taste in your mouth every morning. Your appetite is poor, and food distresses you. You have frequent headaches and are often dizzy. Your stomach is weak and your bowels are always constipated.

There's an old and reliable cure:

Don't take a cathartic dose and then stop. Better take a laxative dose each night, just enough to cause one good free movement the day following.

You feel better the very next day. Your appetite returns, your dyspepsia is cured, your headaches pass away, your tongue clears up, your liver acts well, and your bowels no longer give you trouble.

Price, 25 cents. All druggists.

"I have taken Ayer's Pills for 25 years, and I consider them the best made. One pill does me more good than half a box of any other kind I have ever tried."

SOCIALISM. As Expounded by one of its Prominent Leaders.

Editor of the Enterprise: The following extracts are copied from Laurence Gronlund's book, entitled, "The Co-operative Commonwealth." They may be found in chapter XIII under the head of "The Coming Revolution."

"The evolution of society marches forward in spite of all stumbling blocks; one moment quietly in the brain of the thinker, the next moment unmercifully over corpses. But it does not want blood. On the contrary, it sends warning in advance of every catastrophe. Woe to those who do not hear that warning."

"This then is our objective point: A respectable minority; respectable as to numbers; respectable as representing the most advanced intelligence; respectable as containing sincere and energetic representatives from all classes; the minority to which these pages are written."

"Give socialists such a minority—give them only 10,000 such men in, say, 20 years from now, in a population of 75,000,000 and our country and its future is theirs!"

"The following correspondence to the New York Sun from Titusville, Pa., of Nov. 4, 1878, may give us an idea of possible coming events. The fact is, the state of Pennsylvania has had a narrow escape from an internal civil war. Had certain men given the word, there would have been an outbreak that contemplated the seizure of the railroads and running them, the capture and control of the United Pipe Lines property, and in all probability the burning of all the property of the Standard Oil Company in the region. The men who would have done this, and may do it yet, are not laborers or tramps. The coming revolution may arise out of a similar struggle between our fleeing classes."

"It is impossible to say when we may expect the coming revolution. But it is worth reflecting that a prudent man in 1853 would hardly have taken upon himself to foretell the abolition of slavery in 1863. But the great change is coming. In the words of Carlyle: 'Will not one French revolution suffice, or must there be two?' There will be two if needed; there will be just as many as needed."

The book from which the foregoing extracts are taken was copyrighted in 1884, 16 years ago. If the late vote of Eugene V. Dubs for the presidency, can be counted as a "respectable minority," then the Socialists have a much greater number than Mr. Gronlund asks for to enable them to take possession of everything in sight. But where stands "The Revolution"? To a man with his eyes open it looks as though the entire people possess the country, and not 10,000 Socialists, nor any number of that class.

Further extracts from the book could be given, showing that the author anticipates a bloody revolution. He suggests that dynamite may be used, and speaks of it as an "energetic substance," having a "civilizing power."

When President Cleveland gave the timely order for United States troops to suppress the Debs riot in Chicago, he taught a lesson of "civilizing power" which Socialist leaders have remembered with advantage to themselves and followers. It was a lesson for which every man who loves home and country will be thankful while memory lasts.

We are not to be civilized with dynamite—not while saltpeter can be used to suppress anarchy.
