WELL?
Did you
Hear anything
Brop last Saturday
Night, up the river a little distance—in Salem for instance?

A woman in Michigan has written to Judge Hazen, the Kansas judge who is keeping Mrs. Nation in jail, and told him that if he does not release Carrie, the women will organize an army and wipe man out of existence, beginning with him.

An eastern exchange asks this question: "Who can describe the fierce, strenuous joy a man feels when he steps on the cake of yellow soap left on the stairs by the hired girl?" Maybe the managers of Mr. Corbett's senatorial campaign could have thrown some light on this subject about 12:30 a. m. last Sunday.

Noah's flood lasted forty days and nights and a good many eminently respectable, but skeptical, people were drowned. This isn't, so far as we are able to judge, anything like the Oregon legislature, but somehow there seems to be a funny sort of resemblance between the two events.

The assessment and taxation laws have been radically changed and much for the better. The responsibility will fall largely on the assessor. If his work is in proper shape with correct description, tax titles will become of value. Under the new law the county guarantees the tax title and refunds the money if the tax title fails. This will result in all property sold at delinquent sale being bid in by private parties instead of the county, and the county will get the tax. If through fault of officers the tax title fails, the county will have to refund the money. All possible technicalities have been removed from the procedure so as to make the title good if possible. Taxes are payable twice a year with a three per cent premium for prompt payment.

The election of John H. Mitchell, the fourth time as senator from this state, was the most satisfactory outcome of the senatorial fight. At no time was the situation such that the election of Mr. Corbett was imminent. His followers were for him or no one while the opposition was against his election under all circumstances. The almost universal expression of satisfaction at the election of Senator Mitchell attests the popular approval of the result. It is generally conceded that no man that this state could send to Washington could do as much for the state as Senator Mitchell. Not only his recognized ability but his large acquaintance with the public men of the country and close touch with the administration makes him a valuable man to Oregon at this time. Oregon can confidently expect much at the hands of Senator Mitchell. The fortunes of this coast are rapidly changing and coming to the attention of the world. No man can look after them better, faster and protect them than our new senator, fortified as he is with years of experience.

WAS IT GILL'S MONEY?

The joint Ways and Means committee adopted the resolution given below at a meeting held last evening. It seems that many matters discussed by the committee and the position taken by members became public before they were in shape to be reported. This was said to be a cause of the action taken, as well as the fact stated in the resolution:

"Whereas, H. L. Gill was heretofore appointed assistant clerk of the Ways and Means committee of the house of representatives of the twenty-first legislative assembly of Oregon, and has since surreptitiously absented himself from the meetings of said committee and has failed to attend sessions of said committee; therefore, be it

"Resolved that it is the sentiment of the joint Ways and Means committee of the senate and house of representatives, that said Gill has failed in discharging his duty as such a clerk and he is hereby censured and reprimanded by his committee, and we recommend that his pay cease from and after the night of his departure, to wit, the night of February 20, 1901."—Salem Statesman, Feb. 22

The foregoing is of interest mainly because of the fact that a certain sum of money—$1500—which is said to have gotten loose from somebody, and was used by certain parties in the senatorial fight, is claimed by H. L. Gill as having been his own property. The newspaper business at Woodburn is evidently very lucrative.

REPUBLICAN POLICY IN THE SOUTH.

Senator McLaurin, of South Carolina, delivered a speech in the senate last week that was especially notable because of its approval of a distinctly republican measure. The ship subsidy bill will relieve the vote of Mr. McLaurin and he gave his reasons for differing from his party in this matter. He believes that the payment of subsidies to revive the merchant marine of the United States will benefit all sections, and the South equally with the others. In this opinion he is supported by resolutions passed by the Southern Cotton Spinners' Association and by the Maritime Congress recently held at Brunswick, Ga. Senator McLaurin is both a protectionist and an expansionist. He voted to ratify the treaty with Spain, voted with the republicans for every amendment to the army bill, and for the bill itself. To his mind there is no way to build up the American carrying trade on the ocean except to pay subsidies, the system employed by every leading nation in Europe. And he expects the ports and communities of the South to be benefited in the same degree as those of New England.

It is said that Senator McLaurin represents the newer industrial elements in South Carolina, especially the cotton mill interests in the uplands. In any case, it is a striking fact that a South Carolina senator should find himself so often in harmony with republican policies and boldly give them his vote. Southern sentiment in general is much divided on the old assortment of democratic issues. In Missouri and Arkansas alone has any branch of the legislature passed a resolution of sympathy with the Filipinos, and in Arkansas the majority for the unpatriotic utterance was small. Should the question of the surrender of the Philippines be squarely submitted, it is doubtful if the South would vote for it. Senator McLaurin represents a good deal of Southern feeling, though it is not generally as outspoken as in his case. His constituents have not protested nor have his democratic caucus associates objected. He is an interesting figure in the Southern situation.—Globe-Democrat.

A Plea for the Horse.

Editor Enterprise:
The use of the tight overhead check, which inflicts not only great distress but as competent veterinary surgeons declare, serious injury has long been deplored by humane people. Any but the most careless observer must notice the constant twisting and turning of the head of a tightly reigned horse. It is the effort to find rest in change of position for the strained and aching neck. The light falling on the eyes is the cause of suffering and serious injury. There is also danger of choking by forcing the tongue back into the entrance of the throat. The horse that naturally carries his head high, does not keep it in a fixed position as the tightly checked horse is compelled to do but moves it up and down at will.

THROAT REST

You can cough yourself into bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption. Bandaging and bundling your throat will do no good. You must give your throat and lungs rest and allow the cough wounds to heal. There is nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. Stop it by using

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Even the cough of early consumption is cured. And, later on, when the disease is firmly fixed, you can bring rest and comfort in every case. A 25 cent bottle will cure new coughs and colds; the 50 cent size is better for settled coughs of bronchitis and weak lungs; the one dollar size is more economical for chronic cases and consumption. It's the size you should keep on hand.

It is unreasonable to make an animal draw a load and not allow him to bend his neck to the work. It shows utter ignorance of the anatomy of the horse, and what his action in pulling should be. It is an error to suppose that the tight check keeps a horse from stumbling. Some one has said "Tying one part of an animal's body to another does not necessarily keep him on his feet. It is the pull from the arm of the driver that makes the horse regain himself when he stumbles. One might as well say that tying a man's head back to a belt at his waist would prevent him from falling if he stumbles in a race." There never is any real excuse for cruelty so there is no excuse for the tight check. It is a very great cruelty and as veterinary surgeons assert is productive of serious and permanent disease. Yours for all creatures. L. P. R.

Southern California. Notable among the pleasures afforded by the Shasta Route is the winter trip to Southern California and Arizona. Renewed acquaintance with this section will ever develop fresh points of interest and added sources of enjoyment, under its sunny skies, in the variety of its industries, in its prolific vegetation and among its numberless resorts of mountain shore, valley and plain. The two daily Shasta trains from Portland to California have been recently equipped with the most approved pattern of standard and tourist sleeping cars but the low rates of fare will still continue in effect. Illustrated guides to the winter resorts of California and Arizona may be had on application to C. H. MARSHAM, G. P. A., Portland, Oregon.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Regular Meeting of the Clackamas County Teachers' Association.

The regular meeting of the Clackamas County Teachers' Association, was held at Milwaukie, Saturday, February 23. The regular program was opened by Prof. J. C. Zinser, with a most instructive paper on "Discipline, Aims and Methods." He dwelt particularly on the importance of prompt, unquestioning obedience to the teachers. Pupils should be made to understand that the teacher's word is law and must not be transgressed. T. J. Gary, Mrs. Salisbury, Misses Anna Ross, Edna Ross, and Florence Patty, took part in the discussion which followed.

"First Year's Work in Numbers" was the subject of an instructive talk by Mrs. Straight. T. J. Gary and Prof. Burnham also spoke on this subject.

On invitation, the Association adjourned to the town hall where a delicious luncheon had been prepared for all present. The table was beautifully decorated with ferns and early flowers. Afternoon Session.

Called to order at 1:30 p. m. Mrs. Eva Emery Dye, Misses Thielsen, Bradford, Andrews, Holden, Anna and Matilda Olsen and Messrs. Downing and Mohler were elected to membership in the Association.

T. J. Gary spoke on behalf of the Library Association.

Ex-Superintendent Thomas spoke on the desirability of each school house having a flag as an object lesson in patriotism.

Prof. Burnham, of Portland, delivered an able address on "Primary Geography."

Mrs. Eva Emery Dye spoke on "Clackamas County History." This address seemed to touch a responsive chord in the heart of each one present. Her talk contained much historical and biographical data, told in a way that gave life and freshness to what is generally considered tedious. The dryest facts, and most prosy statements seemed capable of being transformed into poetry, under the poet's touch.

Messrs. Birkmeier, Gassley and Richard Scott, spoke words of encouragement to the teachers, complimenting them on the instructive program.

A resolution of thanks to the good people of Milwaukie for their kindness and hospitality and to Prof. Burnham, and Mrs. Dye, for the instructive address given, was unanimously adopted.

On motion, Association adjourned to meet again the last Saturday in March.

BERTHA M. GIBSON.

Special Notice.

The editor of the Oregon City Enterprise is in receipt of two complimentary copies of Photo-Gravure Etchings of the famous paintings, entitled, "Christ Leaving the Praetorium," by Gustave Dore, and "The Last Supper," by Leonardo Da Vinci. The control of these plates for the United States and Canada was secured from a large Art House of London and Paris by the British-American Company, of Washington, D. C., with branch offices in the leading cities. These engravings are printed on sumptuous plate paper, worth 28 cents per pound, vellum finish, embossed, and plate-mated. Our readers may see a copy by calling at the Editor's office. "The Light of the World or our Savior in Art," including Child stories, beautifully written to fit each picture of the book, relating to Christ and His Mother. This volume contains nearly 100 engravings of our Savior and the Madonnas, copied from the great paintings in the art galleries of Europe. The publishers desire to secure a Christian man or woman to represent these engravings and this art work in this community, and we would advise some one of our readers to correspond with the British-American Company, of Washington, D. C., regarding this matter.

A powerful engine cannot be run with a weak boiler, and we can't keep up the strain of an active life with a weak stomach; neither can we stop the human machine to make repairs. If the stomach cannot digest enough food to keep the body strong, such a preparation as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure should be used. It digests what you eat and it simply can't help but do you good. G. A. Harding.

Prevented A Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Geo. A. Harding's Drug Store.
