PRETTY ROUGH SPORT.

Cruel Came Played In the Camps of Canadian Lumbermen.

Ho full of peril is the lumberman's life that even his sports and games must be spiced with danger or they will pull upon his taste. On the long winter nights a cruel game called "Jack, where he ye?" is frequently played.

The middle of the largest room in the enmp is cleared. Two men are securety blindfolded and, having previously drawn lots for the first whack, they kneel on the floor. In his right hand each man holds a stout leather strap, in his left another leather strap, or a tope is held by the end, either close to the floor or, in some camps, actually on it. The latter strap, being kept taut by the combatants, guarantees a aniform distance between them. They are quite near enough to hurt each other severely, which not infrequently happens.

Now, the man who has been lucky enough to draw the first call shoots, "Jack, where be ye?" to which his opponent must immediately answer. "Here I be." Then the first man strikes at the place where he imagines his adversary to be with the heavy leather strap. If he hits his man, he is entitled to another blow-may call out again, "Jack, where be ye?" and the other must answer, "Here I be." This is continued till the first man misses, when he must take his turn at being struck.

The others form a ring around the two combatants, bets are made, and each faction encourages and applauds its chosen man. There are regular rounds, and the game is usually kept up until one or the other has had enough or perhaps till one is carried off the scene wounded. Hard heads can stand hard knocks, and volunteers for the sport are numerous. At the beginning there is generally no malice. A hard blow is struck-it is expected-And it is further ordered, considered it is the game. But it occasionally and adjudged that said road within the happens that the game develops into

CLOSE FIGURING.

Woman Upheld Her Reputation For Economy.

She was the wife of an official of a St. Paul street corporation. Her one pet hobby was economy. Though her husband made an excellent salary, she was rigid in her rules pertaining to the buying of the necessaries for the household. She would haunt bargain counters and market stalls for hours in order to get the benefit of a reduction of a few cents on the article desired. The corporation official, with much laughter, used to tease his better half about what he called her "stinginesa," So one day, feeling burt at his ridicule, she resolved to take him to market and franchise hereby granted, when-em the forfeiture thereof may be or-dered by this court, but no forfeiture may or can be ordered or enforced if the with her and demonstrate beyond a basket.

Arriving at the market, she made several purchases, and then at one stall inquired the price of eggs.

"What," she exclaimed, "16 cents a dezen? No, indeed, that is too high." She dragged her reluctant bushand after her from one stand to another. still inquiring the price of eggs and always receiving the same answer until near the upper end of the market. Here she found a dealer who offered to sell ber eggs in any quantity for 15 cents. To her husband she said joy-

"There, I told you so. Why, those others were robbers."

Turning to the salesman, she ordered half a dozen eggs, gravely handed him the 8 cents asked in payment and went home, prattling away about the worth of economy in marketing and the alleged willingness of dealers to gouge the unsuspecting customer And to this day she does not know that her busband and his friends laughed over it at the club.-Baltimore

Rolling Mill Consumption FFLLOW

Seven out of every ten men who work in rolling mills, iron foundries and glass factories die of consumption. You know how early in life these men pass away. The usual symptom is a nagging, persistent enough—semetimes short and hacking, sometimes hard and dry. The patient grows weaker and thinner day by day. Death eventually consigners. The trouble comes from lateuse head, and the constant inhaling of the fine particles of dust and iron that fill the air. These particles, under a microscope, show ragged, sharp edges, which tear and multiplic the delicate lining of the throat and lungs. Perpetual acres are thus formed, and here it is that the germs of consumption find a glase to feed and multiply. Acker's linglish Remedy was discovered in England, and is the only cure in the world for Rolling Mill Consumption. It has to the sures, strengthens the nurcous membranes of the breathing organs, permanently stops the cough, hallds up the consideration and imparts vices to the whole system. It must either cure or it costs you negling. One bottle does wonders. Try it, What it has done for many others it will also do for you and your loved ones.

THEIR NEIGHBORLY WAY. Didn't Watt Long to Begin Borrow ing Things.

A young woman of Washington birth and rearing, who has made her home says that for tact and diplomacy she knows nobody to equal her neighbors out there. She had Southern Pacific Co., or from scarcely settled herself in her new home when one day she heard a ben proudly cackling in her back yard. She went out to see what could have brought a strange hen into her yard and found that the fowl had just laid an egg in the woodbox outside the kitchen door. While she was still woncome from the shock head of a thin and tall girl of 12 rose over the fence which divided the yard from the yard of the house next door.

"Hello," said the girl. "Good morning," answered the Wash-

Ingtonian, "We got plenty of eggs," remarked the girl. "Maw says you kin have that one our hen jes' laid in that woodbox of yourn."

"Thank you very much," said the Washingtonian.

The girl still hung on the fence. "We ain't goin to charge you nothin fer it." she went on.

"That's very kind, indeed," answered the new peighbor.

"It's a gift." remarked the girl. Then there was silence for a few moments. The girl still clung to her side of the fence.

"Say." she said finally, "maw says now you're acquainted with us folks she'd like to borry a tack hammer."-Washington Post.
