WAS AN ARTFUL DODGER.-There is reason to believe that Oregon City was visited by a crimmal who is badly wanted by the Seattle police, as well as the Northern Pacific Railway company. A few days ago, Fred Dingle, chief clerk for W. G, Pearce, assistant to the president of the Northern Pacific Railway company, ran away from Seattle, after having embezzled several thousand dollars. Dingle is described as well dressed, about 25 years old and as having a light complexion with a small mustache. A man answering this description gave the police and several citizens a merry chase the other eyening. A dispatch had come from Portland to look out for a youthful bicycle thief. They scared up a full grown man, who had evidently been riding on the blind end of the baggage car. The man was badly frightened and started to run. The police and several citizens gained in the chase. When hard pressed the fugitive jumped through the WHISKY WAS SAVED .- With whisky rear window of the Elk restaurant and no money to buy food or pay railroad ployes of the mill took up the chase,
