PHILADELPHIA FRANCHISE GRAB.

No matter what may be said of the spectacular methods of John Wanamaker in offering $2,500,000 for the new street railway franchises voted by the council to a new company without compensation property belonging to State Land Board : to the city, it cannot be denied that his letter to the mayor contains an arraignment of such policy that is unanswerable.

The city council of Philadelphia on Wednesday voted fourteen new franchises for street railways on streets not occupied by traction lines to a new company in which the mayor and Senators Quay and Penrose are largely interested. The streets were turned over to the new company without any compensation whatever to the municipality.
