Seattle Building Trades Council have made a demand upon lumber manufacturers and woodworking shops for a reduction of hours of labor to nine hours a day without decrease of pay.

a boycott on the members of the Trades' council, as a means of retaliation for the action of the council in boycotting the lumber manufactured by the Moran Bros. Failing in its efforts to enforce its demands, the Trades' Council will probably order all of the local mill operatives out. This will result in a shut-down of all lumber mills, and as the lumber mills throughout the State of Washington will in all probability support the local mills in their fight, even to the extent of refusing to furnish lumber to Seattle contractors affiliated with the Building Trades Council, this will cause building operations in the city practically to cease.
