Say what is the reason you cannot send us some emigrants here to buy the vacant places. This is a good locality for persons of small means. There are improved vacant places that can be bought cheap. We need more settlers.

We are having continued cold rainy weather and it has about ruined our fruit crop, apples and prunes falling off. Some of us had to replant our potatoes which rotted in the ground. All vegetables are backward. Grain fair for this kind of weather.

The teamster, who drives the logging teams over the skid road between Bramhall's mill and the logging camp had some tough experience. A few days ago while drawing a train of logs down an incline, the logs ran faster than the horses and the saddle horse fell down, throwing the rider under him. He was severely but not fatally bruised. The horses then ran away, one of the rear horses was thown down and dragged almost to death and will probably die.

And Yet He Could Write,

Among the public servants who are worried by foolish questions the superintendent of mails in the postoffice gets his full share. One of his visitors on a certain occasion was a man who said to the deputy who amswered the call at the window:

"I am going out of town today and want to get a letter to my brother, who is on board the Majestic, and she is not due until Wednesday. I don't know where he will stay in New York or where he will go from here. Can you help me?"

"Certainly we can," said the clerk. "A mailboat goes to meet the steamer, and if you address your letter properly and put domestic postage on it it will be delivered all right."

"But how shall I address it-where shall I send it?" "Address it 'John Smith, passenger on board incoming steamer Majestic. due in New York, Dec. 12. That will reach him."

"No city? No nothing?"

"That's all-just as I told you." The man thanked the clerk and went away, and came back a little later with an addressed letter in his hand.

"Say," he said to the cierk, "about that letter. I've addressed It and stamped it all right, but the man's name isn't John Smith. How about that?"-New York Tribune.
