Added to the Reserve.

The President has signed a proclamation adding to the Cascade Forest Reserve of Oregon, a tract of 142,080 acres, and eliminating a small tract of 46,080 acres, making the total area of the reserve 4,588,900 acres. The lands added are as follows:

The south half of township one, south; townships two, three and four, south, range eleven, east; township five, south, ranges nine and ten east, and so much of township six, south, ranges nine and ten east, as lies north of the Warm Springs Indian reservation.

The tract eliminated consists of townships 22 and 23, south, ranges nine and east. All of these changes were originally recommended by Forest Superintendent Ormsby.

The lands eliminated were found, upon examination, to be more valuable for agricultural purposes than for their timber. An effort had been made to have four adjoining townships excluded from the reserve at the same time, but an examination developed the fact that these lands were valuable timber lands and were anxiously sought for their timber. In like manner, an attempt was made to add to the reserve a much larger area than is provided for in the President's proclamation. These lands were found to be largely covered by homestead entry, railroad and state grants and for this reason it was deemed inexpedient to include them in the reserve. There was ample evidence that the settlers on these lands were not permanent residents, but had gone in for purely speculative purposes.

Under the terms of the proclamation, persons who may have settled upon lands that are within the limits of the added area at some past date, and have completed or hereafter duly complete their entry, will be protected in their rights, but after July 2, no person will be allowed to acquire any of these lands whatsoever.

The Chemawa Indian band of 25 pieces came down from Salem Tuesday afternoon by steamer and will remain at Gladstone Park to furnish music throughout the Chautauque session. Prof. Stodemeier, musical instructor at the Chemawa Indian school, is the band conductor.

Griffith, Prof. H. D. Wilcox, A. C. Cooke, of Portland, Mrs. Robertson, of The Dalles, Mrs. George Stevenson, of Fulton Park, Mrs. Vost, of Portland and H. L. Kelly.

Harry Boyles, who was arrested on a charge of illegal fishing for salmon during the close season, was acquitted by a jury in the justice court Tuesday. His net was seized by Walter Baliff Wickman, of the State Fish Commission, but there was no salmon in the net and Attorney Brownell contended that the defendant had a right to fish for shad with a net during the close season.
