LITERARY NOTES.

Among the notable features of the Argonaut for September 9, 1901, are: "A Midnight Balloon Ascension," a true story by George Hall, the Turkish consul at San Francisco, who describes an adventure with M. Giraud, the Parisian aeronaut; "Costly Souvenirs of Travel," a letter from Geraldine Bonner, noting her arrival in New York, and the persistent and aggravating attentions of the customs officials; Mme. Marechal's "Teachings," an extended review of the recent volume by the great instructor, with numerous quotations from the book; and "A Remarkable Artist," a letter from Venice, in which the amazing memory and skill of a Boston genius is described by a San Franciscan, who has seen the painter at his work, and is pleased to record his success.
