Bright Future for a Singer.

Miss Mary Case, Oregon City's well known contralto, sang for Mme. Maconda in Portland last Friday morning. The soprano was favorably impressed with Miss Case's voice and predicted for her a brilliant future. She advised her to continue her studies in New York as the advantages of that city exceed those of Boston. Mme. Maconda said that owing to the wide range of Miss Case's voice, she should fit herself for oratorio work. Miss Case was well pleased with the encouraging words from the noted singer.

Christmas Suggestions

AT

HUNTLEY BROTHERS

For over six months we have been selecting, pricing, buying, preparing for the greatest, the merriest Christmas of them all. There is left for you but little more two weeks in which to do the same. But our selections had to be bought here—there—everywhere—from a score of sources; yours can be largely made from these two stores overflowing with desirable Christmas gifts. In an advertisement it is impossible to even outline this stock—but we expect you to come and inspect it—price it—examine it critically. We have made it easy for you. Goods all out where you can handle them—prices all marked in plain figures—you can wait on yourself if you choose. We want you to come often and stay as long as you like—but come early—come now—before the rush begins. If you find anything you want—we will put it away for to be delivered if you wish and if you don't find anything you want, you will carry away many useful suggestions to which you will be cordially welcome. Where purchases are too large for convenient cash payment, we have an easy installment plan.

BOOKS.

Shelves and counters piled high with them—an immense stock and all arranged for easy examination. You will wonder that one county can absorb them all. But books are enduring gifts—cost but little and carry as much Christmas cheer as more expensive presents. We sell all books (except a few net ones) at 20 to 50 per cent. discount from publisher's prices. Expensive books and sets we sell for $1.00 cash and balance on easy monthly payments.

SILVERWARE.

We have added to our line of Sterling Silver Novelties a choice stock of quadruple plated Table Silver Ware. Being all new stock, it is of the very latest patterns. Coming from one of the largest silversmiths in the country it is guaranteed the highest quality. We have added but a small profit to the manufacturer's price. Every piece will be sold before Christmas—better make a selection now.
