All Mussulmans Secure Converts. Europeans habitually forget that every Mussulman is more or less of a missionary-that is, he intensely desires to secure converts from non-Mussulman peoples. Such converts not only increase his own chance of heaven, but they swell his own faction, his own army, his own means of conquer-der of mankind. All the emotions which impel a Christian to proselyte are in a Mussulman strengthened by all the motives which impel a political leader and all the motives which sway a recruiting sergeant, the month in Red Men's Hall .- W. sion, which wherever success seems ranger. practicable, and especially success on a large scale, develops in the quietest Mussulman a fury of ardor which in-17 94 duces him to break down every obstacle, his own strongest prejudices included, rather than stand for an instant in a neophyte's way. He welcomes him as a son, and, whatever his own lineage and whether the convert 2 48 be negro or Chinaman or Indian or even European, he will without hesitation or scruple give his own child in 6 66 marriage and admit him fully, frankly and finally into the most exclusive society in the world .- Townsend's "Brown
