Charles Cutting, a pioneer of the '40s and a prominent character of Oregon City for years, died Sunday evening at Maple Lane at the age of 70 years. The deceased was well off at one time, owning the best farm in Clarkamas county. He has operated extensive grist and saw mills on the Molalla river, and at one time owned the Holman place, on the Molalla. He was a devoted lover of nature, and some years ago wrote a book on botany, of which he sold many copies in this city and elsewhere. He served in the Indian War with Company C. of Clarkamas County, of Oregon mounted Volunteers, from 1855 to 1856. He enlisted as a common private, but by acts of bravery he was promoted to third lieutenant. Several years ago he took up a timber claim on the Molalla, and he made this place his home during most of the time. It was sold by him only a short time ago. It will be remembered by some that about five years ago there was a heavy snow storm in the mountains where Cutting had his claim and was on it at the time. Fearing that the old man might perish in the snow, a searching party was organized by five men, among them being Ernest Elliott, who still resides in Oregon City. They went on after him on snow shoes, and rescued him just in time for his rations were almost exhausted. For some time past Mr. Cutting had been troubled with old age, which caused his death. The funeral was held Monday and the body was taken to Redland for interment.

Long Hair

“About a year ago my hair was coming out very fast, so I bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. It stopped the falling and made my hair grow very rapidly, until now it is 45 inches in length.”—Mrs. A. Boydston, Atchison, Kans. There's another hunger than that of the stomach. Hair hunger, for instance. Hungry hair needs food, needs hair vigor—Ayer's. This is why we say that Ayer's Hair Vigor always restores color, and makes the hair grow long and heavy. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle. Be sure and give the name of your nearest express office. Address, J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

Was Long a Resident of This County and a Well Known Character. Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose. Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Guizot's Father. Guizot lived through the most eventful periods of modern France. He was born in 1787 amid the murmurings of the revolution. Guizot's parents were married by a prescribed Protestant pastor, and his birth was never legally registered. His father, who was an advocate, used his talent for public speaking in the interests of the persecuted Protestants and became a marked man. After living for several weeks in danger of his life he was at last arrested, unwillingly enough, by a gendarme who knew and respected him. "Shall I let you escape?" said the man. "Are you married?" replied M. Guizot. "Yes, I have two children." "And so have I," replied the prisoner, "but you would have to pay for me. Let us go on." They went on, and M. Guizot died on the scaffold a few days later. At this time Francois, the future statesman, who was the elder of the two children, was six and a half years old and always preserved the recollection of going to see his father in prison, or what was euphemistically called the house of justice.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Blue Predominant.

He was from the country and stood helplessly before the haughty young lady clerk of the downtown store. "What do you want, please?" she demanded lightly. He gulped down his embarrassment, for he was hopelessly young and shy and awkward, and she was a most superior looking creature. "I want twelve yards of blue predominant," he finally said. "What?" demanded the startled clerk. "Twelve yards of b-b-blue predominant," he stammered again. "I'm sure I don't know what you mean," said the clerk. Then, womanly kindness and intuition getting the better of her hauteur, she said, "Tell me just what it was your mother or your sister told you to bring." He gave a sigh of relief and said: "They wanted some wash goods for my little sister's dress. They said they were not so particular as to quality and color, just so I got blue predominant. Can't I get it here?"—Memphis Scimitar.

Not in Order.

In a certain Lanarkshire village a meeting was called to consider the advisability of erecting a bridge over a creek which had been heretofore crossed by means of stepping stones. The schoolmaster, who presided over the meeting, warmly advocated the erection of a bridge in an eloquent speech, when a local worthy, who was something of a character and noted for his outspokenness, got up and interrupted: "Hoot, toot, schulemaster, you're fair halverin', mon! Waa waa gang an' put a brig over sicca an' wee bit creek as you? Losh, mon, I cud cross it w' a stannin' jump!" "Order, order!" exclaimed the chairman angrily. "You are clearly out of order." "I ken I'm out o' order," rejoined the interrupter amid the laughter of the audience. "If I was in order, I cud jump as faur again!"—London Answers.

Very Tired.

It has remained for a little girl to nearly, if not quite, equal a famous witicism of Leigh Hunt. Of course she spoke in childish innocence, where the English essayist and wit used his ripened intellect. Hunt, in describing an exceedingly warm day, it will be remembered, spoke of it as one which tempted him to strip off his flesh and sit in his bones. The little girl had been romping and running all day. Toward nightfall her father met her. "Are you not very tired, little one?" he asked. "Oh, not so very tired, papa," she replied. Then in a burst of confidence she whispered, "Only I do feel as though I'd like to take my legs off and carry them awhile."

A Long Sleep.

Dr. Socn, an English physician, reported the case of a young girl of seventeen taken with syncope after a cold "rub" who slept for seven months in the hospital to which she was admitted. When she was aroused from sleep, she responded drowsily to questions put and fell asleep again. At the end of seven months she died of pneumonia, having slept herself out of life. Sometimes she was fed in her sleep and at other times while they kept her awake.

Dog and Wolf.

There has been some dispute as to the descent of the dog—whether it is an improved progeny of the wolf or a distinct variety. That it is a different species is proved by the fact that the dog and the wolf will mate and produce offspring. Nevertheless it is probable that the dog is merely descended from the same original stock with the wolf.
