Canemah Crossing Case.

A motion was filed in the Circuit Court Monday morning by the Oregon City and Southern Railway Company in the case of this company against the Oregon & California Railroad Company to set aside the report of Alfred F. Sears, C. E. Lester and W. B. Chase, who were appointed to ascertain and determine the points and manner of crossing and connection between the railway lines of the plaintiff and defendant near Canemah, upon the ground that the report is unreasonable and impracticable. The plaintiff also holds that the commissioners have executed their authority and prays the Court to require the commissioners to amend their report or to make a new and further report or discharge the commissioners and appoint others in their stead.
