THE LOCAL NEWS.

NELSON DEAD.—Nels Nelson died Friday morning at his home in Park, of pneumonia, after a brief illness. A funeral was held Sunday morning at his late residence.

JAIL IS EMPTY.—B. A. Wicka was released from the county jail Tuesday, having completed a 25 days' sentence for assaulting Frank Bernier in the Saw Paper Mills. The jail is now empty for the first time in over six weeks.

REGISTRATION BOOKS OPEN.—The city registration books were opened Monday in the office of County Clerk Cooper. Elmer Dixon was deputized by the Board of County Commissioners to register the voters and the books will remain open until May 15.

UNITARIAN SERVICES.—Rev. W. G. Elliott, held services last Sunday evening in Willamette hall. In the future, services will be held on the first Sunday of each month at 7:30 o'clock. There are a large number of Unitarians in this city who will be pleased with the prospect of regular services.

CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES.—Judge T. A. Brille Monday convened an adjourned session of the Circuit Court and will be in session until Saturday. The first day was spent in hearing the argument in the case of Oregon City vs. The Oregon and Pacific Railroad Company. This is a case brought by the municipal corporation to quiet title of a strip of land running under the bluff which is claimed by the railroad. The attorneys were given until January 15 to file their briefs.

INCORPORATION OF MILWAUKIE.—The matter of incorporating the town of Milwaukie came up before the Board of County Commissioners last Friday, and was postponed, pending a decision from District Attorney Allen as to the constitutionality of the law permitting a County court to incorporate a town. There seemed to be a sentiment, headed by Attorney C. A. Cogswell, of Portland, who is a heavy property owner in Milwaukie, to hold the matter back until the next session of the legislative body, which may incorporate without question of validity. In the meantime, the powder houses continue to menace the peace and happiness of Milwaukie people, who are determined to have them removed without unnecessary delay.

Mrs. Mable Clark, the wife of P. G. Clark, died at Samaritan hospital in Portland at 10 o'clock Monday afternoon, aged 66 years, 6 months and 22 days. For several years she had been a sufferer from cancer and death kindly relieved her sufferings. She recently underwent an operation which was not successful. A funeral was held from the Presbyterian church Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, officiating. The interment was in Mountain View cemetery.

Mrs. MARY GRANTHAM DEAD.—Mrs. M. E. Grantham died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin, in Milwaukie, Sunday morning, January 5, 1902, after an illness of ten days. She was born in Knox County, Ohio, June 25, 1829. Was married in 1854 to William Chambers, who died during the war, and their daughter is her surviving child. She came to Oregon in 1877, and has since resided near Milwaukie. In 1890 she was married to Malachi Grantham, who died in 1900. The funeral took place from Harmony church on Monday afternoon, and interment was at Multnomah cemetery.

HOBOS MUST WORK.—City Recorder Bruce C. Curry has announced his intention of working the hobos on a rock pile. Up on the bluff above Main street there are countless rocks which are big enough to furnish employment to all of the hobos in Oregon and the sight of them would drive a tramp to drink. Since the city of Portland placed the parasites at work on the rock pile, Oregon City has been overrun with them and during the month of November the COMPANY A, S.M. G.H.—Company A, Oregon National Guard, gave a smoker to its members Monday evening. The affair was a very enjoyable one. The company expects to arrange company and officers' rooms at an expense of about $150. The floors will be carpeted and games and amusements will be supplied for the amusement and comfort of the officers and men. The rooms are to be fitted up in a homelike way and the members of the company will have a pleasant place to spend their evenings. The drill room is well supplied with gymnastic apparatus, as the men take a great interest in athletics. Company A is gaining in membership and its prospects are brighter at the present time than ever before. At Monday night's meeting Captain Martin was not present and the consideration of furnishing the police captured no less than 241 hobos. Last month the number was increased to 274. At night the town is simply alive with them, and this fact is accountable in a great measure for the many petty thievery in the past two months. As fast as the night police get a hobo he is placed in jail and turned loose in the morning. The hobos have spotted the town and are always sure of a comfortable place to pass the night without working for it. Mr. Curry proposes to put a stop to this and believes that if the men are compelled to work it will be but a short time until the city is divested of the tramp element. The streets in Oregon City, especially Main street, become very filthy and ugly at this period of the year and the citizens hope to utilize the hobos in keeping Main street comparatively clean.

James LeRoy and April Viola. The oldest daughter, Grace, is a school teacher at Liberal, which closed last Friday. The funeral was held Sunday and the interment was in Mountain View cemetery.

TWO GAMES ARRANGED.

Y. M. C. A. Juniors Will Play Basketball at Portland Next Wednesday.

Now that the holidays are past, the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium classes are going ahead with more interest than before. The basketball team has been reorganized. R. Freytag was elected captain last Monday evening. Mr. Wilson is arranging games for the team and expects to keep them busy. The first game will be with the Y. M. C. A., of Portland, on Friday or Saturday night.

DEATH OF MRS. BARBARA WOLFER

Was the Wife of a Prominent Citizen of Oregon and is Sincerely Mourned.

NEEDY, Or., Jan. 9.—Mrs. Barbara Wolfer, wife of J. H. Wolfer, of this place, died on Wednesday, January 7, aged 70 years, 11 months and seven days, after an illness of over two years with cancer. Mrs. Wolfer was born in what was formerly Harden county, Kentucky, in 1831, on the 24th day of January. Her maiden name was Barbara Craig. She was a daughter of James and Javiiah Craig. In about the year 1835 she with her parents, moved to Illinois. On September 20, 1850 she married G. W. Searcy, and on September 24, 1857 she was married to J. H. Wolfer, who survives her, and with whom she

ADAMS BROS.' GOLDEN RULE BAZAAR, Oregon City's Big Cash Store

The above picture shows the present store of this enterprising firm that has moved twice to larger quarters since starting in business in Oregon City less than two years ago. It is surprising the trade that this firm does, not only in consequence of having first-class business ability, energy and perseverance, but in doing a strictly cash trade which they believe, like others, to be the only foundation for success, as it gives to the customers the benefit of lower prices than can be given on the credit system. The firm carries in addition to a complete line of ladies' and gentlemen's furnishing goods, hats and shoes, a full line of glass, china, tin and granite ware, stationery and toys of every description. The stock in this store is well selected and bought after years of experience in buying to satisfy customers. The present store of this firm is the largest and finest store room in the city, the building being put up especially to suit this firm, being well lighted with enough floor space to properly display goods. This firm is to be congratulated upon its remarkable success in pleasing the buying public.

SUDDEN DEATH OF J. N. MILLER.

James N. Miller dropped dead in his saloon on Main street last Friday morning. Death was caused by apoplexy of the lungs and was almost instantaneous. He had been in ill health for some time, but up to Friday had been feeling much better. He arose early Friday morning, and left home about 6:30 to open up his saloon. After unlocking the door he went to the Elk restaurant, next door, and after ordering his breakfast, returned to his saloon. John Marshall, the cook, who was the only person in the restaurant at that time, noticed the whites in Mr. Miller's eyes were shining very bright, and started through the back entrance of the restaurant to the saloon to see if he was sick. He saw Mr. Miller sitting in the chair, but before he could reach him, Miller fell to the floor and died instantly. The deceased was well known in Oregon City, having resided here for the past 14 years. He worked at the Willamette Pulp and Paper Mills for seven years, but left their employ on account of ill health, and shortly afterwards started the Gambrinus saloon, which he sold a few months ago to the Gambrinus Brewing Company, of Portland. About two months ago he started the saloon on Main street which bore his name. The deceased was 47 years of age and was a native of Iowa. A wife and three children survive him—Grace R., of next week at Oregon City. The date is not definitely known but will be announced as soon as Portland is heard from again.

The Oregon City junior basketball team will play the Young Men's League junior basketball team, of South Portland, next Wednesday evening, Jan. 15th, at that place. The Y. M. L. have a fast junior team and a good game is expected with them. So far no arrangements have been made with Portland Y. M. C. A. juniors to play the return game of basketball on their grounds. A ladies' basketball team has been picked out from the ladies' class and have shown some fine work in practice. As the team have decided to play outside games, a game will be arranged with either the Vancouver or Multnomah ladies within two or three weeks.

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handed a notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began "Take Kemp's Balm, the best Cough Cure." This was hardly what he had expected and, after a moment's hesitation, he turned it over, and found on the other side the matter intended for the reading.

removed to Missouri in 1850, before the war. In the year 1881 they moved to Oregon and located at this place where they have resided up to the time of her death. She was the mother of ten children, two by her first husband and eight by her second. Five of them are living: Mrs. Eliza J. Smith, of Seaside, Missouri, and Charles F. Wolfer, of Logan, of this county; H. L. and J. S. Wolfer, of Portland and J. Wolfer, of Oregon City. Besides these she has twenty-three grand-children living who mourn their loss. She also left a large circle of warm friends who sympathize with the bereaved husband and children. She has been a member of the Methodist church nearly 44 years.
