WASTING AWAY.

AN ATHLETE'S SAD FATE.

This is the story of a strong man. He had been captain of his foot hall eleven and a crack all around athlete. He was the picture of manly health and vigor, envied by men and admired by women. One day he was taking a practise spin ou the river when a dreuching storm came up. When he returned to the boat house he sat around in his wet flannels without a thought of danger. What could hurt him? He was "as hard as makes". After a while he developes a nails." After a while he developes a little hacking cough which somehow won't be thrown off. In time he finds he hasn't the ambition he formerly had. Exercise wearies him. He is losing weight. It is not very long before he finds himsel? weak and emaciated, sretched out in a chair knowing that he s wasting away day by day and hour by bour. It seems a long way from that mair to the gridiron and the diamond, a great change from that dripping athlete in the boat house to this weak and wasted invalid. But the way is indeed very short. It is a way which thousands iread every year and the beginning of the way which leads to such a sad ending is

A TROUBLESOME COUGE. No man or woman is so strong as to be able to treat lightly an ailment which is the beginning of such a serious discase. There is a cure for coughs how-
