FREEMAN WINS ON A FOUL.—The 20-round boxing contest in the Armory Wednesday night resulted in the decision awarded to Freeman on a foul in the seventh round. Neither man was hurt and would have probably stayed a limit. Freeman was in the pink of condition and was as fresh as a daisy. Kennard looked tired, although his work was not slow. He fights cautiously. When time was called for the tenth round, Kennard rushed matters and in the mix up, Freeman went to his knees and the St. Paul man struck him. He was warned by Referee Louis Hall, but fouled again and the decision was given to Freeman. A four-round preliminary was fought between Gallagher owners, of Canemah, and Jake Thurber, of this city. About 75 people attended a contest which was an interesting one while it lasted.

CONSTRUCTION OF CROSSINGS.—Judge A. McBride has made a decision in the case of the Oregon City and Southern Railway Company vs. The Oregon and California Railroad Company and the Southern Pacific Company, which determines the manner of the plaintiff's crossings over the tracks of the Southern Pacific at Canemah. The decision describes in detail how the crossings shall be constructed and operated. The expense of construction, maintenance and operation of the two crossings shall be borne by the plaintiff. This is the end of a suit which has been pending for a long time in the Circuit Court and was brought by the O. C. & S. R. Co. to permit the crossing of the Southern Pacific tracks. A hard fight was made but the matter was finally settled amicably. Commissioner Alfred F. Sears, C. F. Lester and J. B. Chase, who were appointed by the Court to determine the nature of the crossings, whether they should be grade crossings or overhead crossings, were allowed $100 each for their services.

MAYOR WINS A CASE.—Attorney G. B. Bunick went to Woodburn last week as attorney for the defendant in the suit of near Mahler vs. Willard Marvin for $42.50 damages, alleged to have been sustained by the loss of a portion of an onion crop. Last June Mahler had an onion crop on his place on Butte Creek and Marvin was working for him getting the ground ready. After the work was completed, Marvin had only been paid a portion of the money due him and he asked Mahler for the balance. Mahler told Marvin he would have to take it out of his (Mahler's) hide and Marvin took it on at his word and proceeded to do so. In the fight that ensued 15 onion rows each 4 feet long, were knocked down. Mahler sued Marvin for $37.50 alleged damages to the onions and $5 for a cultivator that had been broken in the fracas. The defense set up that Mahler, the owner of the onions, was the instigator of the affair and Marvin had acted in self defense. The evidence showed that Mahler had commenced the attack. The jury brought in a verdict for the defendant. The case was tried in the Justice Court at Woodburn and Dimick and Corby represented the defendant while E. P. Morcom appeared for the plaintiff.

PROMISE TO BE GOOD.—Frank Schweitzer has been released from jail by Judge McBride upon the promise that he would pay $15 monthly to his divorced wife. Last December Mrs. Schweitzer secured a divorce from her husband on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment. He drank to excess and was abusive at times. She has six children and the court granted her $15 a month alimony, and decreed that in default of the payment of this the defendant should be held in contempt of court. Schweitzer never paid one cent of the money and went out in the country to work for $1 per day. Being in straightened circumstances Mrs. Schweitzer applied to the county court for relief and was given $10. Last Thursday Schweitzer hit the town and went to the county clerk with $4, which he asked to be applied in part payment of the $10 granted his wife by the court, instead of paying the amount to his wife. He then proceeded to get gloriously drunk and went to the home of his wife and children, broke in the door, and abused the whole family. Mrs. Schweitzer swore out a warrant for his arrest on the charge of assault and battery; though the complaint was served merely for the purpose of holding him until Judge McBride arrived Schweitzer remained in jail until Saturday, when he was brought before the judge, and gave a severe lecture. He promised to reform, pay his wife alimony regularly, and not to molest his family. He went to Portland after his release and has secured a position there.

Blues Win Both Games.

The Blues were successful in both the Junior Basket Ball and Senior Indoor Base Ball games last Friday night, winning the former by a score of 26-3 and the latter by a score of 8-3.

The Junior game was fast and interesting from start to finish, although one sided. The main feature of the game was Capt. Muir's fine goal throwing. Norwood Charman was in his usual fine condition and played a fast game. The only score made by the reds was the goal thrown by Allen Cooke.

The line-up was as follows:

Blue. Red. Charman.....Forward.....Gaugong Hankins.....Forward.....Mellin Woodward.....Center.....Wilson Gantenbein.....Guard.....Cooke Muir.....Guard.....White Referee, H. E. Wilson. Umpire, W. Peters.

The Base Ball game was not as good as has been played by these two teams but the score was not large, and at times good playing was in evidence. The main feature of this game was the triple play made by the Blues early in the game.

D. Williams was in the box for the Reds but was not up to his standard. J. Latourette pitched a very good game for the Blues.

The teams lined up as follows:

Blues. Reds. A. Gantenbein.....C.....Califf Latourette.....P.....D. Williams Muir.....1 B.....W. Wilson Moores.....2 B.....O. Thomas Clark.....3 B.....H. Gantenbein Chamberlain.....L S S.....Cooke E. Williams.....R S S.....Price R. Gantenbein.....F.....Payne

Score by Innings: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 Total Blues.....1 1 2 2 0 0 2—8 Reds.....1 0 2 0 0 0 0—3 Umpire, H. E. Wilson.

THE DRAMA "A YOUNG WIFE."

The First of a Series of Plays to be Produced Here Next Week.

The story of a husband and wife each devotedly trying to shield the other from the consequences of a crime of which neither is guilty, is certainly an original and clever theme. It is around this idea that the story of "A Young Wife" is woven—a story of thrilling interest. It deals with a sensational murder and robbery, and the gradual hunting down of the real criminal, who, to save his own neck, tries to fasten the crime upon his adopted brother, cut who is finally brought to bay by woman's wit. The second act is laid in an underground den on the Bowery, depicting to the life the workings of card sharpeners and "busco-steerers." The remaining scenes represent the home of a wealthy New Yorker, thus showing two sharply contrasting pictures of city life. The play abounds in comedy, the role of "Horace Green-wage Dobbins"—("call me Hod") being one of the strongest comedy parts ever written. This role is amply taken care of by Mr. Tom B. Loftus, while little Verna Felton adds to the laughter by presenting a true picture of the typical dirty-faced Bowery boy. All the parts are unusually strong, and in the hands of the Shirley Company, receive full justice. Monday night will be the only performance of "A Young Wife," so don't miss seeing it.

Tomorrow is the last day that you can secure a 3 per cent rebate on your taxes.
