J. EARL FAULKNER KILLED. Clothing Caught in Shafting at Paper Mills, Resulting in Fatal Injuries.

A frightful accident occurred yesterday morning at the Willamette Paper & Paper Company's mills, resulting in the death of J. Earl Faulkner, an oiler in the machine room. It was Faulkner's duty to keep the machinery oiled and in going about his work the loose jumper he was wearing caught in a revolving pulley and in an instant the unfortunate man was whirled around the shaft, and horribly mangled. The machinery was stopped without delay and with some difficulty Faulkner was extricated from the shaft. Both of his feet were torn off, his left forearm was broken, and the ribs on the right side of his body were fractured, puncturing his lungs and resulting in emphysems. The company's physician was called at once and the man was removed to the operating room, where his wounds were dressed, but the injuries were too severe and Faulkner lingered but a few hours, breathing his last just before noon. His body was taken to an undertaking establishment and an inquest was held last evening, resulting in a verdict of accidental death. The man was about 25 years of age and was unmarried.

PARTY OF HOODLUMS. A Ten Dollar Copper Kettle Ruled by a Chavari Party at Needy. NEEDY, Or., March 20—In former days it used to be fashionable to serenade the young married people and wish them many happy returns of the day and then retire in a quiet and manly way with respect and in good order, but not so in this day of enlightenment. The hoodlums who accompanied the party of serenaders to the home of Mr. Joseph Yoder and deliberately and wilfully ruined a ten dollar copper kettle, justly deserve to be summarily dealt with to the full extent of the criminal law. It is a burning shame that young men will so far forget themselves as to lose all self respect and all regard for their fellow beings, and fall so low in the scale of humanity as to cause themselves to be regarded even below the brute by all respectable people. A Great Bargain. For sale, House, barn, good well of water, two lots, an abundance of good fruit. Please enquire of Mrs. S. J. FANCHER, P. O. Box 236.
